TSC3039/4039 Spiritual Care and Counseling with Couples and Families
Bill Roozeboom
Online
This course provides theological, religious, theoretical and practical resources for spiritual care and pastoral counseling with couples and families. Learners explore various sources of 'authoritative' information about families; a spectrum of racial, ethnic, sexual and cultural family diversities; the history of couples and family therapy; methods for assessment; and evidence-based skills for effective care and counseling of couples and families. The course takes a systemic perspective on covenant relationships and promotes critical theological understandings of humans in relationship. In this course the terms 'couples' and 'families' are used interchangeably to describe committed, covenant relationships. The terms do not refer to legal or religious understandings of covenant relationships, and they are inclusive of same-sex and other-sex relationships.
Pre-requisite: TSC3004
3 or 4 Semester units
Dr. Roozeboom is Assistant Adjunct Professor of Pastoral Counseling at Fuller Theological Seminary and pastoral counselor at the Christian Counseling Service in Redlands, CA.
Spiritual Care and Counseling Clinical Internship Classes:
May 31-August 19

TSC3043 Spiritually Integrative Counseling Internship (1st Year)

Staff
Required clinical training for M.A. students in the spiritually integrative counseling track. Completion of one unit of Clinical Pastoral Education and an evaluation acceptable to the professors of spiritual care and counseling are prerequisite. Students serve as Interns/Residents at The Clinebell Institute (TCI). No other placements are allowed, except those arranged by TCI. Clinical training begins in late August with a required three-day staff meeting and retreat. Training continues for a full calendar year, unless the student graduates. Students are expected to complete their required training without interruption. The clinical training program at the TCI does not follow the academic calendar; due to the intensive nature of the training and the needs of clients, students are on a year-round schedule and continue to serve their clients during school breaks, though vacation times are arranged through TCI. If students’ training must be interrupted due to unforeseen life circumstances, students must make up the time missed within one year from the time of interruption. In addition to the weekly meeting time, students schedule clinical work, research and study in preparation for clinical service, individual supervision, and other training meetings as required.

Monday June 6-Friday June 10
K420 Practical Theological Approach to Conflict and Reconciliation
Kathleen Greider
Hyoju Lee
8:30am-4:30pm Monday-Friday
This course is an introduction to the DMIN Program in Practical Theology of Healing, Reconciliation and Transformation in Korean Contexts, and has two interrelated foci. First, practical theology is introduced as both an academic discipline and an analytical and empirical research method. Attention is given to the historical emergence of the discipline its theological foundations, and its interdisciplinary nature. Second, the course explores theoretical understandings of conflict and models of pastoral caregiving appropriate for Korean contexts through which conflict and reconciliation may be facilitated. In relation to this second focus, the course will address how trauma (both interpersonal and socka ) and difficult emotions often fuel conflict. It will then examine theological conceptualizations of conflict. Participants will engage in the self-examination required for effective caregiving and professional leadership amid conflict. Pedagogical methods for the course include team-teaching, analytical reading, interactive lecturing, group discussion, experiential exercises, bibliographic research, and writing. The course will be taught in Korean and English, with simultaneous translation provided as needed. Almost all required assignment are available in both Korean and English, Translation of assigned reading from English into Korean will be provided as needed.
