A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

“Love never fails.” These three simple words are as true today as when they were written by a first century radical 2000 years ago. Few can argue that love is at the heart of the Gospel message, that we as Christians are called to love God and neighbor above all else. But there is also an assumption in this statement: that love is active. It has effects in the world—between individuals, among communities, within societies. Love cannot exist in a vacuum. It must do something. It must change something.

As a student at Claremont School of Theology, you are probably a change-agent, a disciple of Christ seeking to deepen your own faith formation in order to put love to work in the world. You are likely a leader in your church, and you want to help make it more effective, more relevant for the needs of this century. You see the hunger and the heartaches in your community, and you understand how the Gospel can nourish individuals and their relationships. You are a leader, and you want to be more effective in your church and the world.

Claremont School of Theology is headed in a bold new direction that does not shy away from the power of the Gospel. This commitment builds on our history as a leading edge theological school, rooted in academic excellence and leading-edge scholarship. But the creation of Claremont Lincoln University as the nation’s first interreligious university requires the School of Theology to be more explicit about its Christian commitments to the church and the world.

The 2011-12 academic year will be a pivotal time in Claremont’s history, especially as Claremont Lincoln begins its inaugural year. The character of Claremont School of Theology as a Christian institution will be, in part, up to you as a student. Your contributions to classes, to your peers, and to our community are essential in this formative time.

Thank you for all that you will do this year.

Sincerely,

Jerry D. Campbell, President
HISTORY

Claremont School of Theology traces its history to 1885 with the founding of the Maclay College of Theology in San Fernando, California. In 1900, Maclay College moved to the campus of the then Methodist-affiliated University of Southern California in Los Angeles. In 1956, the faculty withdrew from the University and established an independent corporation, related to the Southern California-Arizona Annual Conference of The Methodist Church. The School moved to Claremont in 1957 and soon thereafter began using the name School of Theology at Claremont. In 1996, the School’s name changed to Claremont School of Theology.

Six presidents have provided leadership for the School:

- Ernest Cadman “Pomp” Colwell (1957-1968)
- Gordon Michalson (1968-1977)
- Richard Cain (1977-1990)
- Philip A. Amerson (2000-2006)
- Jerry D. Campbell (2006-present)

Claremont School of Theology has long been connected to Claremont Graduate University. Faculty from both schools jointly make up Claremont Graduate University’s School of Religion. A number of faculty hold joint appointments at both the School of Theology and the Claremont Graduate University. The School’s Library functions in cooperation with The Libraries of the Claremont Colleges and joint academic research endeavors are carried on through academic centers and other departments of Claremont Graduate University.

Claremont School of Theology is a founding member of Claremont Lincoln University. The Claremont School of Theology Board officially incorporated the school in January 2010, the name of the University was first revealed on May 16, 2011, and classes launch in the Fall 2011 semester. Within this historic new University, several institutions offer professional religious and theological education in their respective traditions. The other founding institutions include:

The Academy of Jewish Religion, California (AJRCA) is a transdenominational, pluralistic institution dedicated to the training of rabbis, cantors, chaplains, counselors, and spiritual leaders who are uniquely qualified to meet the needs of the 21st century Jewish American community. AJRCA has been recognized as a Candidate for Accreditation by the Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC).
The Islamic Center of Southern California (ICSC) is an independent organization. Its purpose is to practice and share the values of Islam in the United States of America by providing religious, educational and social facilities for members of the community. The emergence of an American Muslim identity is its prime goal.

MISSION, VISION AND VALUES

Mission
Claremont School of Theology and Ministry is United Methodist in origin and affiliation and ecumenical in spirit. As the founding school of the Claremont Lincoln University, it seeks to instill students with ethical integrity, religious intelligence, and intercultural understanding. Nurtured by Christian Scripture, tradition, experience, and reason, it prepares individuals for ordination and effective leadership in service to God, the academy, and the world and equips them to pursue peaceful coexistence and collaboration with other religions.

Vision
In addition to being a leading school of theology training exemplary ministers for service to their specific religious organizations, Claremont has a vision of being a leading theological university where scholars and practitioners of the world’s religions can come together, learning and practicing how to treat others as they would like to be treated. This will enable religious organizations, leaders, and individuals, regardless of their matters of perspective on faith, to work collectively to bring about harmony and understanding at all levels—individual, organizational, and governmental.

Values
With a free and liberating spirit, Claremont nurtures a diverse international community that passionately pursues intellectual rigor, vocational formation, and responsible social engagement. We commit ourselves to think deeply, act ethically, embrace diversity, work for justice and peace, and care for the earth, its people, and its resources so that all life may flourish.
DEGREE PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Claremont School of Theology offers the following degree programs:

MASTER OF DIVINITY
(See program details beginning on p. 82)

The Master of Divinity (M.Div.) is an 81-unit degree that combines academic excellence with spiritual formation and social engagement in order to prepare religious leaders for vocations in a variety of types of ministry. The Claremont M.Div. program is informed by the history of thought and practice within Christianity, by deep and open dialogue with other religious traditions, and by the quest to understand and respond constructively to the contemporary world. It presupposes that men and women can exercise responsible leadership only when they combine an intimate knowledge of their own traditions, a deep engagement with today’s social and political realities, openness to all forms of spiritual practice and insight, and an appropriate set of dialogical and critical thinking skills.

MASTER OF ARTS
(See program details beginning on p. 71)

The Master of Arts (M.A.) is a 56-unit degree that combines academic excellence and opportunities for vocational exploration with the goal of preparing students for further graduate study as well as providing opportunities for general education. The program may be used to prepare for various forms of religious leadership and ministry, for advanced graduate training in religious and/or theological studies, and for general education and enrichment. Students may engage in a general course of theological studies or may concentrate in particular areas of study.

JOINTS MASTER OF DIVINITY/MASTER OF ARTS
(See program details beginning on p. 86)

The Master of Divinity/Master of Arts is a 109-unit degree. This joint degree consists of two separate admissions processes, leading to two separate degrees with the recipient receiving two separate diplomas. A student begins in the Master of Divinity program and then applies to the Master of Arts program. The degrees are granted simultaneously at one graduation ceremony, not sequentially. The program is designed to have overlapping, shared credits between the Master of Divinity and Master of Arts programs. Students must complete their application for the joint degree before 60 units of the Master of Divinity program have been completed. Adherence to stated deadline is necessary so requirements of both degrees can be satisfied in a timely manner.

DOCTOR OF MINISTRY
(See program details beginning on p. 89)

The Doctor of Ministry (D.Min.) is a 32-unit degree that offers opportunities for spiritual development as well as for growth in knowledge and pastoral competency. The D.Min. program concludes with a professional project that is designed to benefit the student’s own ministry and contribute to broader religious communities. Claremont School of Theology has two avenues for pursuing the D.Min. degree.
1. Mentoring D.Min.: Students who enroll in the Mentoring D.Min. program attend weekly courses on campus during the regular academic year. Students are empowered to follow their particular academic and ministerial interests under the personalized guidance of a faculty mentor.

2. Cohort D.Min.: D.Min. in Practical Theology of Healing, Reconciliation and Transformation in Korean Contexts.

Students in the Cohort model attend classes for two weeks in January interterm and two weeks in the summer. Preparation for courses begins two months prior to classes and assignments are due after the session concludes.

The Cohort Model D.Min. requires a minimum number of students for the program to begin its three-year cycle.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY
(See program details beginning on p. 97 [Error! Bookmark not defined.])

The Ph.D. degree is a 48-unit theological, research, and professional degree that prepares students for teaching in colleges, universities and/or theological schools, or for professional leadership in religious traditions and society. The program prepares students for the competent scholarly development of a special field of study in the context of theological disciplines. Students will engage the methodological and epistemological presuppositions of the field of concentration and will be capable of advancing the field through original research. The degree program emphasizes professional applicability of the field of research by correlating theoretical and practical knowing, by implementing critical reflection on professional theory and practices, and by engaging theological and empirical methods of scholarship. The Ph.D. degree requires examinations in modern research languages, qualifying examinations, and the completion of a dissertation. Claremont School of Theology offers two Ph.D. programs: Ph.D. in Practical Theology and Ph.D. in Religion.

Doctor of Philosophy in Practical Theology
Degree candidates in the Ph.D. in Practical Theology may choose a concentration in one of two areas: Education and Formation, or Spiritual Care and Counseling.

The Education and Formation (EF) concentration integrates theology with educational theory and practice and/or with the processes and perspectives of spiritual formation. Students develop advanced competence in theoretical construction and practice and, through original research, contribute to the development of their chosen fields.

The Spiritual Care and Counseling (SCC) concentration is designed for advanced training in research and theory construction at the intersections of the behavioral sciences, counseling, psychology, and theology. Students choose from one of three tracks to focus their studies: Clinical Spiritual Care, ACPE Supervision, or Spiritually Integrative Psychotherapy. All tracks require examinations in modern research languages, qualifying examinations, and the completion of a dissertation.

Doctor of Philosophy in Religion
Degree candidates for the Ph.D. in Religion may choose from four areas: Hebrew Bible; New Testament and Christian Origins; Process Studies; and Religion, Ethics, and Society. This program prepares students for teaching in colleges, universities, and/or theological schools or for advanced research. Each concentration requires examinations in modern research languages, qualifying examinations, and the completion of a dissertation.

The Hebrew Bible (HB) concentration requires rigorous training in the ancient biblical languages, including Hebrew, Aramaic, and Greek, and in the historical-critical, literary-critical, social-scientific, and critical theological methods necessary for biblical interpretation. Training in the program presumes competence in the broader field of religious and theological study.

The New Testament and Christian Origins (NT) concentration provides advanced training in the critical interpretation of ancient Christian texts. In addition to the New Testament, the student will develop competence in related literatures in the context of post-biblical Judaism; classical Greek and Hellenistic literature, religion, and philosophy; and the cultures of the early Roman Empire.

The Process Studies (PS) concentration trains future leaders in one of the major approaches to the study of ecology, culture, and religion today. Process Studies combines a variety of newly emergent fields and integrative methods in order to address key areas of debate that arise at the intersection of religion, culture and nature. Using the techniques of postmodern/poststructuralist scholarship, students will learn to formulate a truly pluralistic and differentiated worldview, one that is appropriate to our contemporary societies and able to contribute to transformation. Relevant fields include theologies and philosophies of religion in diverse traditions, comparative religious studies, process theology, gender studies, feminist theory, cultural studies, ecology and sustainability, and various fields of religion and science.

The Religion, Ethics, and Society (RES) concentration focuses on the intersection of the religious, the ethical, and the political. Viewing religion as both a source and subject for ethical reflection, students train their eyes on public spaces and the people who interact there as they engage pressing social, economic, and political questions. Students will acquire dialogic competencies, knowledge of religious traditions other than one’s own, resources for theological reflection, a facility with a variety of methods for moral deliberation, and the critical tools for analysis and argumentation required to contribute thoughtful, publicly defensible ethical assessment.
CLAREMONT EXTENSION

The Claremont Extension includes all learning opportunities beyond degree programs. This includes graduate certificates in a variety of topics as well as courses, conferences, and special events designed for personal and professional enrichment.

CERTIFICATE PROGRAMS
(See program details beginning on p. 126)

The Graduate Certificate is a non-degree program of study for prospective students, laity, clergy, or scholars. By choosing courses from across the curriculum, prospective students, lay persons, or other interested individuals may receive a broad exposure to religious and theological studies. By applying to one of the special certificate programs, clergy or scholars may focus their classes in a particular field of study. Current degree students may also apply for a specialized certificate to augment their knowledge or skills in a particular discipline.

ONLINE CLASSES FOR LIFELONG LEARNING

The Claremont Extension offers online intensive courses for professional, personal and/or scholarly enrichment. These non-credit courses are offered fully online and are open to everyone (maximum of 15 students per class), with no admission process required. Learning resources and questions for online conversation will be posted weekly, with weekly participation expected for a time commitment of approximately 5 hours per week. The tuition charge per course is $200. For those seeking continuing education units, each course carries 2 CEUs and/or a certificate of completion. For more information, contact lifelonglearning@cst.edu.

UNITED METHODIST LAY MINISTRY ACADEMY

The United Methodist Lay Ministry Academy is an innovative collaboration between seasoned ministers in the California-Pacific Annual Conference and the faculty of Claremont School of Theology. Its mission is to prepare participants to fulfill a wide variety of roles in local churches—often based on their professional experiences in other disciplines.

Coursework is designed as a two-year process with three sessions offered each year covering content as designated in the Certified Lay Minister program and some advanced Lay Speaking courses. The expectation is that participants will complete all six sessions over the two year period.

The Lay Ministry Academy will provide:
- Training for lay persons to serve with ordained clergy in mutual ministry.
- Spirituality nurturing experiences for lay persons wishing to further their faith journey.
- Lay leadership to assist with the programs and ministries of our churches and to complement the ministry of ordained clergy.
- Training for lay persons who desire to serve in their local church and community.
• An affordable, accessible program for persons to meet content expectations as Certified Lay Ministers. Additional work with District COM is required to fulfill requirements for United Methodist certification as a Lay Minister.

For more information, contact Academy Co-Deans Judy and Doug Lewis at DFJKL@aol.com, or call (909) 621-9076.

UNITED METHODIST CENTER FOR LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

The Center for Leadership Development is a joint venture between the California-Pacific Annual Conference of The United Methodist Church and Claremont School of Theology to prepare United Methodist leaders in the Western Jurisdiction.

ACADEMIC AND SERVICE CENTERS

A number of nationally and internationally-renowned research and service centers are housed at and associated with Claremont School of Theology, offering students and faculty a rich array of intellectual, religious and spiritual resources to enhance their work and studies. Contact information and website information for the Centers can be found on the School’s Web site at www.cst.edu.

Center for Lutheran Studies at Claremont
The Center for Lutheran Studies at Claremont, established in 2010, provides Lutheran resources for all students and supports Lutheran students in particular. Courses and events related to Lutheran heritage and theology are possible. The Center is also strengthening the Lutheran presence at the School and building relationships with local Synod bodies and education institutions.

Center for Pacific and Asian-American Ministries (CPAAM)
Established in 1977 by The United Methodist Church’s General Board of Higher Education and Ministry and the School to serve the Asians and Pacific Islanders within the Church, the primary ministries of CPAAM are: to recruit and train ordained ministers and lay leaders among the Asian Pacific Americans in The United Methodists; to be a liaison between the School and Pacific and Asian communities; and to construct theologies out of Asian Pacific American perspectives in dialogue with western and other theologies. Summer internships have been offered through the Center to young adults to offer experiences in local church settings. The Journal of Asian-American Theology (JAAT), published by the center, encourages theological dialogue among Asian Pacific Americans to provide alternatives to western theologies.

The Clinebell Institute (TCI)
The Clinebell Institute was founded by Howard Clinebell, Jr. (1922-2005) as a clinical training center for students in Pastoral Care and Counseling at the School. The Clinebell Institute provides high quality, low cost professional pastoral care, counseling, and psychotherapy to persons in the greater Pomona Valley area and the broader Los Angeles metropolitan area through satellite sites. The Institute educates clergy and other professionals to integrate spirituality and psychotherapy. The Institute also provides educational and enrichment programs to the general public. The Institute is a marriage education center which regularly offers relationship education for singles, couples, and families.

Robert and Frances Flaherty Study Center
The Study Center supports teaching and learning about the moving image, both film and video, in the context of other art media and of the study of religion, with its focus on the pioneering contributions of Robert and Frances Flaherty. Their work has been of continuing interest for a variety of reasons: they were among the first filmmakers to explore in-depth the special resources which the moving image can bring to the recording and interpretation of everyday life, in contrast to its dominant use as an extension of theater forms. Their primary interest was the depiction of diverse ways in which human societies relate to their environments, and they often explored these relationships in contexts of cross-cultural communication. And they thought that a defining factor in these relationships was human creativity and imagination, and sought to show how the nonfiction film could become a powerful for imagination to use in addressing key issues. in the contemporary world, particularly dialog between diverse cultures and care of the earth. The Center makes available films, videos, photos, audio recordings, and print materials both on campus and electronically to researchers and filmmakers around the world.

Allen J. Moore Multicultural Resource and Research Center

Named after Claremont’s longtime faculty member and dean Allen J. Moore, the Center houses books, tapes, and other materials for students and local church leaders to find and create religious resources that foster cross-cultural understanding and communication, support under resourced language and cultural ministries, support ministries of and with marginalized peoples of all racial/ethnic groups, and enhance ministries for eco-justice and peace. The Center is located in the Claremont School of Theology Library.

National United Methodist Native American Center (NUMNAC)

Established in 1983, NUMNAC moved to campus from Oklahoma in 1992. It strives to strengthen the self-sufficiency and self-determination of Native American United Methodist Churches and of Native Americans in ministry. Other goals of the Center include developing awareness of Native American ministry within Native communities and promoting spiritual formation and leadership development in Native churches. The Center also informs prospective seminary students regarding scholarships and study opportunities.

Process & Faith (P&F)

This program of the Center for Process Studies is dedicated to process theology and its practical application in faith communities. Resources available through Process and Faith include: the quarterly journal Creative Transformation, P&F Press, curricula for all ages, process-themed liturgies and lectionary commentary, posted online at www.processandfaith.org, and a small bookstore. Each summer, Process and Faith offers a week long Process Theology Summer Institute, and in the winter it offers a Faith & Film class in conjunction with the Whitehead International Film Festival.
RELATED INSTITUTIONS

Disciples Seminary Foundation (DSF)
As the first ecumenical partner of the School (1960), the Disciples Seminary Foundation of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) offers resources and services to Disciples and United Church of Christ students in Claremont. More broadly, it contributes to the rich spectrum of resources of education for ministry in Claremont and to its church constituencies by offering faculty joint appointments and sponsoring special courses, concentrations, lectures, and workshops. Services for seminarians include scholarships, academic and career counseling, field education, assistance with job placement, a significant point of denominational connection, and instruction in church history and polity. These same services are provided to Ph.D. and D.Min. students as well.

In 1998 DSF built a new facility less than one block from the Claremont School of Theology campus. Housing its offices and Discipliana collection, the building also provides classrooms for Claremont School of Theology classes and other educational programs. More information is available online at www.dsf.edu.

Episcopal Theological School at Claremont/Bloy House (ETSC)
This School, located on the campus of Claremont School of Theology, began in 1958 as the Southern California extension of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific. In 1962, the Right Reverend F. Eric Bloy established it as an institution of the Diocese of Los Angeles. It moved to the Claremont School of Theology campus in 1972. Today, the Episcopal Theological School at Claremont (ETSC) serves as a resource of theological education for Episcopalians and members of other Christian communions in the Southwest. It is an independent, state-chartered theological school offering weekend educational opportunities to qualified students, including those seeking ordination, members of the clergy, and serious lay inquirers.

In its twice-monthly weekend program, Episcopal Theological School at Claremont offers classes in the four main subject areas of the theological curriculum: Bible, Church History, Theology, and Practical Studies. In addition, the School also offers a core curriculum in Anglican Studies. These Friday and Saturday sessions make it possible for a student engaged in fulltime employment to earn academic credit toward either the M.Div. or the M.A. degree at the School of Theology. Degree students at Claremont School of Theology may elect courses at ETSC with the approval of the Dean. The ETSC faculty are adjunct faculty at Claremont School of Theology and the curriculum is coordinated with Claremont School of Theology’s requirements.

Episcopal Theological School at Claremont enjoys the use of the facilities of its host campus. In return, it seeks to bring the spiritual and intellectual resources of the Anglican tradition to the Claremont community. More information is available online at www.bloyhouse.org

THE CAMPUS

Claremont School of Theology shares a campus with Claremont Lincoln University and is located at the foothills of the San Gabriel Mountains in a scenic residential and academic area. Located 35 miles east of Los Angeles, the campus is centrally located among Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, and San Bernardino Counties, within an hour’s drive of beaches, mountains and desert areas. Most of the buildings on the 15-acre campus were completed according to a master plan designed by Edward Durell Stone, later the architect for the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

Location
Claremont is situated at the eastern edge of Los Angeles County near the geographic region popularly known as the Inland Empire (comprised of Riverside and San Bernardino Counties). This growing region is characterized by an increasingly diverse (ethnically, economically, religiously) population. The School is adjacent to the world-renowned Claremont Colleges, which consist of two graduate and five undergraduate schools, making the city of Claremont an internationally-respected academic community. About 5,200 students and 500 faculty members inhabit this town of 35,000 people.

Kresge Chapel
The iconic Kresge Chapel is located in the center of the campus. Refurbished in 1997, the 67-foot high chapel seats 250 and contains California-crafted stained glass windows, each consisting of 88 sections of colored glass. The late Sam Maloof, world renowned woodworker and former trustee, crafted the hand-carved cross, altar, pulpit and chancel chairs especially for the chapel.

J. Lowell Craig Academic Building
The first building constructed on campus, the Craig Building was completed in 1960. Today, it houses the Dean’s Office, faculty offices, classrooms and the Writing Center. The Robert W. Edgar Community Center is a modern addition to the lower level and houses a campus lounge and snack bar.

Ernest Cadman Colwell Administration Building
Named for the School’s first president, the administration building was completed in 1965. It contains the offices of the President, Development, Admission, Registrar, Financial Aid, International Student Advisor, Alumni/ae, and Communications.

Butler Ecumenical Building
The building contains the offices of Human Resources, Business, Campus Housing and Campus Operations. It also includes the Cornish Rogers Prayer Room, which serves as a musalla, or room dedicated to daily Muslim prayers. Also housed in the building are the offices for the Episcopal Theological School at Claremont (ETSC), the Center for Lutheran Studies at Claremont, The National United Methodist Native American Center, and the Center for Pacific and Asian-American Ministries (CPAAM). On the first floor is the Haddon Conference Center, a multipurpose conference room with electronic media capability. Also on the first floor is the Broken Loaf cafeteria which offers delicious and inexpensive lunches throughout the week. The second floor includes a large classroom with high-quality, large-screen video conferencing equipment.

Seeley G. Mudd Building
The Seeley G. Mudd building contains a 300-seat theater that hosts a full schedule of events sponsored by on-campus organizations as well as performances by local community groups. Many events held at this intimate theater are free to School of Theology students. The Center for Process Studies and Process and Faith are located on the lower level.

Campus Housing
Three apartment-style housing complexes are located on the Claremont Campus, inhabited by students at the Claremont Lincoln University, the Claremont School of Theology as well as students from Claremont Graduate University. Campus housing is an important aspect of the campus community and has a distinctly international population.

Claremont School of Theology Library
The Library serves as the major resource center in Claremont for the study of religion, ethics and ancient texts. The Library provides more than 250,000 volumes, as well as journals and electronic resources that support the full range of Claremont’s curriculum and degree programs. The book and journal holdings of The Libraries of The Claremont Colleges are also available to School of Theology students, providing resources in such subject areas as history, philosophy, women’s studies, anthropology, education, music, literature, and art. The online catalog (Blais), shared with The Libraries of the Claremont Colleges, is freely accessible either directly (blais.claremont.edu) or through the Claremont Lincoln University’s website (www.cst.edu).

Claremont’s special collections include: the Center for Process Studies Library, the Cole Library of Discipliniana, the Ernest W. Tune Coptology Collection, and the extensive collections of photographic images in the Ancient Biblical Manuscript Center for Preservation and Research. The Library also houses the Archives of the California Pacific Annual Conference of The United Methodist Church.

In addition to the print and electronic materials available in Claremont, the holdings of a number of other libraries in Southern California with significant theological and religion studies programs are accessible to School of Theology students through both consortium-related and informal agreements. Inter-library Loan services are also available, if needed.

Library staff are subject experts in various aspects of religion studies and are prepared to give advice and assistance on request. Consultation in research strategies and instruction in the use of specific databases are also offered.

Electronic Resources
Students receive a Claremont School of Theology email account and have access to campus technology resources. Use of these resources requires adherence to the School’s technology policies and posted guidelines. A student computer lab is located in the Library, and the School provides Internet access ports for laptop computers in the community center, some classrooms, and the Library. Wireless Internet connection is also available in the housing units, the community center, and the Library.
COMMUNITY LIFE

Claremont School of Theology is a richly diverse gathering of teachers and learners. The School is a “community of communities,” composed of many groups with a diversity of identities. The Claremont community reflects the diversity of Southern California and of today’s world. Yet in the midst of diversity, the students, faculty, and staff of Claremont discover common bonds and share the joys and struggles of learning and growing. Students, faculty, and staff care for one another while sharing experiences of worship, intellectual challenge, and social involvement. Community life is nurtured through classroom discussions, common meals, and informal conversations. Programs hosted by a wide variety of campus organizations welcome the involvement of all members of the community.

Worship and Spiritual Life
The School’s campus includes places set aside for prayer, worship, and meditation. Kresge Chapel, at the center of the campus, is open every weekday and evening. The Biblical Meditation Garden, planted with trees and shrubs that are referenced in the Bible, is a natural retreat located northeast of Kresge Chapel.

As an intentional time set aside for the gathering of the School’s community, worship is integral to the expression of the School’s identity. Worship is a reflection of both the unity and the plurality of the community. Liturgical and musical contributions of our diverse groups enrich this unifying experience.

During the school year, community worship services and communion are held in the Chapel. The worship program offers students many opportunities to plan worship, preach, and provide other kinds of leadership in the services. Preachers and speakers include faculty, students, staff members, and invited guests. Services representing a variety of cultural, denominational and other religious traditions take place throughout the year. The School’s labyrinth is available for walking meditation several times each year, in addition to the natural stone path labyrinth in the Biblical Meditation Garden.

A variety of opportunities for spiritual reflection, meditation and prayer are organized throughout the year. Referrals for individual spiritual direction are also provided. Students often form small groups on their own to share and support their spiritual journeys.

Spiritual Care
Students who want emotional and spiritual support or need to work through a problem can find assistance through the School’s Spiritual Care Team. Team members include faculty, staff, and advanced doctoral students who are willing and qualified to provide spiritual care. This service is provided without charge, in a confidential setting, and with referrals to other resources as appropriate. The Spiritual Care Team is a good example of the commitment of caring for one another shared by members of the School’s community.

EVENTS AND ACTIVITIES

Numerous opportunities for community interaction are offered each semester. Regular community events are held, some focusing on issues of concern to the community and others purely social in nature. Celebrations at the opening and closing of the school year, as well as holiday parties, are enjoyed by the entire community. Adults and children, students, faculty, and staff are all welcome at these events. One of the important emphases is to get to know one another beyond the classroom setting. Students frequently organize activities such as hiking and beach trips for persons with similar interests. The School hosts lectureships for the enrichment of its students and the wider community throughout the school year. Possibilities include:

Ernest Cadman Colwell Lecture: Established in 1968 by gifts to the School from members of the faculty and staff, this lecture honors the School’s first president and architect of its distinctive style of theological education. Hosted by the Dean’s office, this convocation is usually held the first week of the academic year, as we address the state of the school.

Alumni/ae & Friends Day: The School of Theology hosts this special day of recognizing and celebrating our Alumni/ae featuring prominent speakers, seminars, panels and/or workshops. The Kilgore Creative Ministry Award is often given in the context of the lectures. In addition, the Jean L. Wickett Memorial endowment, established by family and friends of the late Jean L. Wickett, supports the theological engagement of this day for the religious community, especially laypersons, to study and dialogue on the issues of faith and life in the world.

Martin Luther King, Jr. Lecture: This annual event takes place in January or February in special recognition of Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. In addition to the lecture, the event often includes a dinner and programming to celebrate Black History.

Paul B. Irwin Lecture: This lecture was established in 1984 in honor of Professor Paul B. Irwin who was an outstanding professor in Christian Education at the School of Theology. Friends, former students, and members of the Christian Educator’s Fellowship, an organization within the then Pacific and Southwest Annual Conference of The United Methodist Church, contributed to this lectureship.

Bennett-Morton Lecture: This lectureship was established in 1986 to honor Anne McGrew Bennett and Nelle Morton, two feminist theologians with interests in spirituality who retired in Claremont.

Cook Memorial Event: Established in 1969 by family and friends to honor the memory of William Cook, a distinguished music educator, and Douglas Cook, a student who gave outstanding leadership in the School’s program in religion and the arts, the event is marked by a celebration featuring a significant art event. It is usually offered in alternate years, often utilizing an innovative format.

Knopf-Hill Lecture: Established in 1984 in honor of former University of Southern California Professors Carl Sumner Knopf and John Godfrey Hill, this lecture focuses on biblical interpretation. It was made possible through a generous gift from their former students John and Elizabeth Trever.

Gordon and Louise Michalson Lecture in Theology: Established in 1977 by gifts from trustees and friends as an endowed lectureship to honor the School’s second president. and his partner, the lecture’s purpose is to bring outstanding philosophical and systematic theologians to address the community on the critical issues of Christian thought and life.

Willis and Dorothy Fisher Lecture in Old Testament: Established in 1964 by alumni and friends, this lecture recognizes the years of service to the School of Willis W. Fisher, professor of Old Testament.
STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

COUNCILS

Student Council

Student Council seeks to represent, communicate, and serve the needs of students in order to develop community at the School and promote a healthy and balanced campus atmosphere. This mission includes supporting and coordinating the activities of student groups as well as sponsoring activities and programs that contribute to the common good of the School’s student body. The Council encourages participation by all constituencies within the School’s student body and works to facilitate communication and understanding between students, faculty, staff, and administration. Monthly meetings are open to all registered students.

The Student Council appoints students to the faculty committees which oversee the degree programs of the School, and to certain administrative committees. The Student Council hears student concerns and carries the student voice within the School’s governance. The Council also sponsors programs and activities for the entire community.

Arts Council

The Arts Council sponsors and coordinates a variety of arts activities on campus which contributes significantly both to the curricular and the extracurricular life of the School. It also keeps the School community in touch with a wide range of interesting arts events on neighboring campuses and in the greater Los Angeles area. The Arts Council also regularly presents exhibitions of photography, painting, and sculpture by members of the Claremont community and artists of local and national reputation.

Music groups perform at numerous Claremont events. The School of Theology Chorale (community choir), composed of students, spouses, staff, and faculty, regularly participates in community worship services. The Korean Singers present music in both English and Korean. Other musical ensembles are formed as time and interest permit. Claremont students are welcome to participate in the excellent choirs at The Claremont Colleges and attend concerts which these schools sponsor. The extensive musical venues of the Los Angeles area are also readily accessible.

Drama activities include the production of plays presented in the School’s fully equipped Mudd Theater, as well as in worship services. Groups of students and faculty attend and discuss plays presented at The Claremont Colleges and as part of the active Los Angeles theatrical scene. Of special interest are the many equity-waiver theaters which regularly present important contemporary work produced and performed by members of the Hollywood film and television community who use these stages as a way of keeping in touch with the traditions and practice of live theater.

Opportunities for the study of film and television as an art form, cultural record, and communications resource are available on campus and in the surrounding area. On-campus movies, open to students without charge, include recent feature films as well as a regular series of art and classic films. Facilities are provided for individual study of these media, with the Flaherty Study Center offering special resources in nonfiction film.

CST Worship Council

Two students serve annually as Chapel Coordinators. The Coordinators work under the close supervision of the Worship, Preaching, and Arts faculty. Their responsibility is to plan and implement the weekly community chapel services.

STUDENT INTEREST GROUPS

Asian American Pacific Islander/American Association: This group exists to foster a sense of community and identity among persons of Asian or Pacific Islander heritage. We aim to support on another in our academic, spiritual, emotional, and professional endeavors, as well as to engage the community-at-large theologically, culturally, and socially. While many of our members are post-1st generation Asian Americans, the slash in our name reflects our inclusion of Asians or Pacific Islanders who are not American, as well.

Claremont Korean Women’s Association: This group was organized to represent, communicate, and serve the needs of Korean women students so as to clarify and strengthen their identity as Korean Christian women leaders, to develop a supportive Korean women’s community at Claremont School of Theology, and also to contribute to diversity on campus.

Claremont Sports Association: This group meets weekly for intramural basketball, volleyball, ultra Frisbee, and more to help strengthen the community, and to act as an important ministry to all students, faculty, and staff of Claremont School of Theology in need of a weekly refocusing.

Interfaith Alliance: This group fosters interfaith dialogue and action in support of the mission of Claremont Lincoln University.

Interfaith Justice Collective (IJC): Students from many traditions join in solidarity and commitment to explore the intersection of Christian faith, social justice, and peacemaking through fellowship, prayer, and action. This student group joins with members of the wider community, through peaceful protests, rallies, marches, etc. to promote peace and the wellbeing of humanity.

International Friend to Friend Friendship Group: This group of U.S. born students and international students meet to promote friendships between people from different countries and cultures at the School.

Korean Students Association: This group provides programming and support for Korean students. They work to support the spiritual life of the Korean community as well as to provide forums on topics of interest in theology and international issues.

Pan-African Seminarians Association (PASA): This group promotes fellowship and mutual assistance among Pan-African students. It works for meaningful interaction among all students and for the increased presence of Pan-African faculty and students at the School.
Walk, Dance, Pray: This group uses movement/dance as a spiritual, as well as a physical, discipline. Each year the group focuses on a particular theme, such as Celtic spirituality, prayer, or icons. Members of the group who are interested in liturgical dance perform once each semester as part of the Chapel services.

STUDENT AWARDS

Students who excel in various areas are chosen by faculty to receive awards, usually presented at graduation or other community events. Eligibility for awards varies depending on the award:

ALUMNI/AE RESOURCES

There are more than 1,700 active alumni/ae of Claremont School of Theology and its predecessor schools. Graduates serve in local churches, universities, seminaries, counseling centers, and other ministries and service agencies throughout the United States and around the world. All those who have completed 30 units or more are considered alumni/ae of Claremont School of Theology and members of the Claremont School of Theology Alumni/ae Association. Graduates may be invited to serve as part of the Alumni/ae Council that meets quarterly to advise the administration, plan activities, and support scholarships for current students. The President of the council is appointed to the School’s Board of Trustees to ensure alumni/ae voice in the School’s governance. The Alumni/ae Relations Office coordinates the resources of the School in order to meet the ongoing educational and professional needs of alumni/ae. All alumni/ae are invited to contact the office at any time for assistance or information.

Distinguished Alumni/ae Award: In 1996, the School began honoring its alumni/ae by granting the Distinguished Alumni/ae Award. The award recognizes outstanding service in the arenas of church, education, and/or public life. The Alumni/ae Council solicits nominations for the award from among the School’s graduates, and selects the recipient.
STUDENT HOUSING

On-campus apartments are located conveniently within walking distance of classes on the Claremont School of Theology campus, offering a range of housing options for single students, students with families and children, and cohabitation with other students. All housing areas have laundry facilities, recreation areas and parking, and are located within walking distance of public transportation. Campus apartments can house approximately 200 students and family members.

Campus Housing
Campus housing consists of studios, one-bedroom, two-bedroom, and three-bedroom apartments located in three housing complexes. All apartments have stoves and refrigerators and are unfurnished. Pets may be allowed upon application and consultation, submission of pet health records and other documentation, proof of neutering or spaying, and a one-time nonrefundable fee.

Commuter Housing
Single sex dormitory-style commuter housing is available on a per night fee basis for visitors or students who wish to stay on campus one or two nights a week. Units are often reserved in advance for the semester, so anyone seeking a bed in commuter housing is advised to reserve early.

Applications Process and Deadlines
Students interested in on-campus housing must submit an online Housing Application and a nonrefundable application fee. Applications can be obtained by visiting www.cst.edu and clicking on the “Housing” link in the “Resources” section. Priority lists are maintained in the order in which completed applications and fees are received. Applications must be received by June 1 for the fall semester. Applications received after June 1 will be accepted, but will be waitlisted depending upon availability. Move-in usually takes place during the two week period before classes begin. Specific move-in dates will be included with housing confirmation. Tenants interested in a spring move-in should contact the Campus Housing Office regarding availability.

Lease Terms
Leases are typically established for the duration of one fiscal year (July 1 through the following June 30). New tenants are required to sign a lease that lasts through the fiscal year during which they enter housing, regardless of move-in date. Lease renewals are typically for one full year; renewal leases may be made for shorter periods of time, but the per month rent fee increases in proportion to the length of the lease (the shorter the lease period, the higher the monthly rent).

Costs
On-campus housing costs are generally lower than other rental properties in the immediate area. As stated above, the typical lease term for campus housing is the 12-month, fiscal year term (July 1 - June 30). In addition to the application, a security deposit of slightly more than one month’s rent is required (the Campus Housing Office will provide the amount of the specific deposit required). An initial deposit of half the security deposit is required to hold an apartment. This deposit will be required after the prospective tenant(s) receives confirmation of assignment to an available unit by the Campus Housing Office. When the tenant(s) moves in, he/she/they are required to pay the first month’s rent and the second half of the security deposit. If the student fails to move in after securing the apartment, the tenant(s) will forfeit the first half of the security deposit.

Contact the Housing Office for more information on facilities, leases, and rates.
ADMISSION

Nondiscrimination Policy
Admission is available equally to all applicants without regard to race, sex, age, religious tradition, national origin, physical disability, or sexual orientation. Admission is dependent upon the strength of the applicant’s academic record, personal qualifications, professional goals, and a demonstrated commitment to learning in a theological community. Applicants with disabilities should contact the Office of Admission as early as possible in order to alert the institution to disabilities for which they may require accommodation. The School will consider requests for reasonable accommodations on an individual basis.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE AND MATERIALS

Individuals may apply for admission to a specific degree program by submitting the online application (www.cst.edu), paying the nonrefundable application fee, and providing the necessary supporting documentation on or before stated application deadlines. Only individuals who have satisfied these requirements will be considered for admission. Applications received or files completed after printed deadlines will be considered only if space is available. Incomplete application files after stated deadlines cannot be assured of scholarships, financial aid, or discounted on-campus housing. All application materials become the property of Claremont School of Theology and will not be returned to the applicant nor released to a third party (e.g., educational institution).

The Admissions Committee, comprised of both faculty and administrators, reviews completed applications and renders a decision. The review process is holistic in nature and therefore ensures that each component of the application is evaluated and used by the Committee in making the admission decision. Acceptance depends not only on individual qualifications but also on the number of available openings in specific degree programs in any given year. Applicants are admitted to a specific degree program and will be notified in writing soon after a decision has been reached.

A student begins in the Master of Divinity program and then applies to the Master of Arts program. The degrees are granted simultaneously at one graduation ceremony, not sequentially. The program is designed to have overlapping, shared credits between the Master of Divinity and Master of Arts programs. Students must complete their application for the joint degree before 45-60 units of the Master of Divinity program have been completed. Adherence to stated deadline is necessary because some students will need to enroll in CPE before entering their Master of Arts coursework.

Non-degree Status

Individuals seeking to take a limited number of courses at Claremont School of Theology for continuing education, personal development or other reasons are invited to apply for non-degree status. Admission is for a maximum of 16 units of coursework. For doctoral-level courses or advanced courses with pre-requisites, non-degree students are admitted only with the approval and signature of the course instructor. Non-degree students are not eligible for Claremont School of Theology scholarships or financial aid.

Non-degree students may apply for admission into a degree program following all of the normal application policies and procedures. Admission is based upon an evaluation of the student’s satisfactory academic progress and is decided by the Office of Admission. Units earned with a letter grade by a non-degree student may be transferred into a degree, provided that the units have not been applied to another certificate or degree. Units taken at the 3000-level cannot be transferred into a doctoral degree. Depending on the degree program and area of concentration, non-degree courses may or may not satisfy specific requirement. Students transferring units into a degree program are responsible for fulfilling all degree requirements.

Admission Under Unique Circumstances Admission Without a Bachelor’s Degree

In accordance with The Association of Theological Schools (ATS) standards, up to ten percent of students in master’s-level degree programs may be admitted without possession of a bachelor’s degree or its educational equivalent. These individuals must demonstrate that they possess the knowledge, academic skill, and ability generally associated with persons who hold a bachelor’s degree in order to be considered for admission. Admission of such applicants is rare and is restricted to those with sufficient preparation for theological study at the graduate level. Such students accepted into a degree program will be placed on academic probation and required to remove any deficiency either through additional course work or by examination, upon the faculty’s discretion. Applicants are to be advised that some denominations may not accept the
M.Div. degree for ordination unless preceded by the bachelor’s degree from an accredited institution.

Admission as a Transfer Student
Claremont School of Theology welcomes applications from students wishing to transfer from another institution. During the admission process, students considering a transfer may request that an initial degree audit be performed to determine how many academic credits at their current school are likely to be transferable to Claremont. Please be aware that credit cannot be transferred into the D.Min program.

Admission for Advanced Course of Study
Individuals apply for the Advanced Course of Study following the same procedures students follow to apply for a degree program. Applicants must:

- Fill out an application form
- Pay the application fee
- Submit a personal essay
- Submit transcripts from previous educational institutions
- Submit transcripts from the Course of Study
- Submit a letter of recommendation from the applicant’s District Superintendent
- Submit a letter of recommendation from a previous professor
- Submit TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) scores if the student is a nonnative English speaker

Admission for Basic Graduate Theological Studies in the United Methodist Church
Individuals seeking ordination as a deacon in full connection in the United Methodist Church may apply for admission to the BGTS program to complete the 27 semester hours of Basic Graduate Theological Studies required for probationary membership and commissioning. Applicants are expected to hold a bachelor’s degree or its equivalent and a master’s degree in the area of specialized ministry in which the deacon candidate will serve, or professional certification and a minimum of 8 units of graduate credit in the area of specialization. Admission is only for designated classes related to fulfilling the basic graduate theological requirements.

Reinstatement as an Applicant
Former Claremont School of Theology degree candidates may apply for reinstatement only if no more than eight years have elapsed since withdrawal or dismissal. Students who withdraw and notified the School of their intentions to withdraw may reapply by submitting an application form, fee, personal statement, a minimum of two additional references, and transcripts of any additional coursework. Students who are dismissed may reapply only if the sole reason was nonpayment of continuous registration fees. If the student was dismissed for other reasons, an application for readmission may be considered in exceptional cases only if it is accompanied by evidence of a significant change relative to the former issue.

Students who have been dismissed because of unsatisfactory academic progress will not be considered for readmission for at least one academic year.

1. Students who are readmitted will be placed on academic probation. Failure to meet minimum GPA requirements for their program during the first semester of enrollment after readmission will result in academic dismissal.
2. Students who are readmitted will repeat all required courses in which they received a grade of “F”, “D” or “UW”. Although both grades will be displayed on the transcript, only the most recent grade will be considered in computing the cumulative grade point average.

Confirmation Form and Fee
Admitted students must submit a signed confirmation form and nonrefundable confirmation fee in order to reserve their seat in the incoming class.

Deferral of Admission
Students may request to defer admission for up to one year. A deferral request is to be made in writing, and sent to the Office of Admission. Students who defer their admission relinquish any financial aid they have been awarded and place themselves into the pool of applicants requesting scholarships and financial aid in subsequent semesters.

Reapplication
The School does not retain application materials beyond three years and requires new materials from applicants who exceed the timeframe. If an applicant chooses to reapply for admission, updated materials such as transcripts, letters of recommendation, standardized test scores, etc. will be required.

Changing Degree Programs
A student who elects to transfer between degree programs must complete a Declaration of Intent to Transfer form, available from the Registrar, which states the reasons for the change and identify the proposed semester of transfer. The form must be submitted to Director of Financial Aid for review, who will forward it to the Dean’s Office for final approval. If transfer to the new program is granted, the student will be required to complete all new degree program requirements. Earned academic credit will be transferred into the new program as allowed by the requirements of the desired degree.

At the master’s level, students can change from one master’s degree to another. Students may not transfer from a master’s degree to a doctoral degree. While academic credits earned toward one degree can be applied to the new degree, students will be expected to fulfill all the requirements of the new degree.

NOTE: Full time students moving from the M.Div. degree into the M.A. degree, Option B, with a concentration in Hebrew Bible or New Testament may need to stay an extra year to complete language requirements. This is also true for full time M.A. students who move from one concentration into one of the Bible concentrations. Students wanting to move from the M.Div. degree into the M.A. degree, Option B, with a concentration in Spiritually Integrative Counseling must first have the approval of the Director of The Clinebell Institute. Since this concentration also requires an orientation at The Clinebell Institute in August before one’s two-year clinical training can begin, a full time student will need to extend their time of study for an additional year. This is also true for full time M.A. students who move from one concentration into the MA in Spiritually Integrative Counseling.

Students who change degree programs are not guaranteed the same amount of scholarship assistance they received under their original program, nor are they guaranteed additional scholarship assistance if the new program is longer than the previous program. All students who wish to change degree programs should consult first with the Director of Financial Aid regarding their scholarship eligibility.
TRANSFER POLICIES

It is generally the case that, because each degree program has specific requirements, transferring of academic credit or transferring between degree programs becomes more difficult as the student progresses.

Transfer of academic credit earned prior to enrollment in a Claremont School of Theology degree program is allowed according to the following policies:

Units applied to a completed degree program cannot be transferred.

Students with graduate academic credit completed with a grade of B (3.0) or better, and earned within the past eight years, may be permitted to transfer up to 50 percent of their total degree units into a master’s degree.

Credits earned at other institutions do not transfer into doctoral programs at the School. Due to longstanding cross-registration agreements and joint doctoral programs with Claremont Graduate University, doctoral students may transfer up to 50 percent of their total degree units from CGU, with the permission of a student’s academic advisor and provided that the units did not contribute to a completed doctoral degree at Claremont Graduate University.

Doctoral units earned while enrolled in a master’s degree program at Claremont Lincoln University or Claremont School of Theology—whether the degree was completed or not—cannot be applied to a doctoral program.

If admitted into a doctoral program, a student may transfer a maximum of 16 units of 4000-level courses completed with a grade of “B” or better as a non-degree student at Claremont Lincoln University or Claremont School of Theology. (See Non-Degree Status on p. 36.)

Depending on the requirements of the degree program, not all transferred units may apply to course requirements in the particular degree program. For master’s degree programs, units that will not substitute for specific course requirements will transfer as free electives. For doctoral degrees, units that do not apply to degree requirements will not transfer. The Registrar, in consultation with the Vice Dean for Academic Programs, will make such determinations. Students with transfer credits still must meet all degree program requirements. For every nine units transferred, the time limit for completion of the degree will be reduced by one semester.

Credits from institutions outside the U.S. may be transferred into a master’s degree when it meets comparable grade and institutional standards. Students will be required to have their coursework translated and evaluated by an external credit evaluation agency pre-approved by the Registrar.

Waiver of Required Courses

With approval of the instructor, a student may petition the Committee on Academic Procedures for waiver of a required course, based on previously completed similar course work at another accredited institution. The instructor may require the student to present evidence of this previously-completed work. No reduction in units for the degree will be awarded when a course is waived. When the work was undergraduate level, the student must take an equivalent number of units in a required advanced course in the same field. When the work was graduate level, the student may take courses in any subject matter to substitute for the waived course. If the student requests waiver of more than one required course, separate petitions must be submitted for each course. In order for a student to be exempted from Field Education, the petition must contain a signed statement by the Director of Field Education.

Residency Requirements

Academic “residency” does not refer to a requirement for on-campus housing; rather, it is a term used in the academy that refers to the conditions by which students are required to progress toward degree completion. In order to receive the M.Div. or M.A. degrees, at least fifty percent of the units required must be completed through Claremont School of Theology. In order to receive the D.Min. degree, at least 20 units of course work must be completed on the Claremont campus. In order to receive the Ph.D. degree, students are required to take at least two consecutive semesters of 12 units each or at least three consecutive semesters of 8 units each.
FINANCIAL AID

Claremont School of Theology makes every effort to assist students in achieving their goal of completing their education. To the extent possible, the School strives to eliminate financial barriers through its financial aid programs to help make that goal affordable. The School provides financial assistance through need-based institutional scholarships, federal loans, and on-campus employment programs. The School also offers a limited number of merit-based scholarships. In accordance with federal laws and institutional policy, the School does not discriminate in any of its financial aid policies, procedures or practices on the basis of race, color, national origin, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, age or disability.

Basic Eligibility Criteria
In order to apply for federal and/or Claremont School of Theology need-based aid, you must:

- Be a U.S. citizen or an eligible noncitizen
- Be registered with Selective Service (if required)
- Be working toward a degree
- Be making satisfactory academic progress (as defined in the Standards for Academic Progress section)
- Not be in default or owe a refund on a Federal grant or Federal loan
- Be enrolled at least halftime (6 units per semester). Students registered for at least 6 units may apply for federal loans. Students registered for at least 9 units (8 units for Ph.D. or D.Min. students) during the regular Fall and Spring Semesters will be considered for Claremont School of Theology Scholarships. (Students registered for less than 6 units are not eligible for Federal Financial Aid or CST scholarships.)

Forms
To apply for any kind of financial aid at Claremont School of Theology you must do the following:

- Submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), accessible online at http://www.fafsa.ed.gov.
- Determine that your Student Aid Report (SAR) is correct. The SAR is based on the information received from your FAFSA and is returned to you approximately 24-72 hours after the FAFSA has been filed.
- Submit a FAFSA each year to be considered for financial aid. Receipt of financial aid one year does not guarantee receipt of aid in subsequent years.

Important Dates to Remember

- January 1 -- FAFSA becomes available to students
- March 1 -- FAFSA priority deadline for all students
- March 15 -- FAFSA should be in "have filed" or "will file" for all students (incoming/new) interested in financial aid or scholarships for the next school year
- April 15 -- FAFSA should be in "have filed" or "will file" for all students (incoming/new) interested in financial aid for the next school year
- May 1 -- Final deadline for all incoming and new students interested in financial aid for the next school year
CLAREMONT SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY SCHOLARSHIP ASSISTANCE

Once the FAFSA has been submitted, students will be considered for every scholarship for which they qualify. Endowed scholarships cover a substantial cost of tuition and are awarded to entering students. Other tuition scholarships are funded through yearly gifts.

Claremont School of Theology Scholarship Policies

The following policies assist the Office of Financial Aid and the Scholarship and Admissions Committee in administering Claremont School of Theology scholarships in a fair and equitable manner to all students.

Students interested in scholarships from Claremont School of Theology are to complete their application for admission by the priority financial aid deadline in order to be considered for institutional scholarship assistance. There are no additional scholarship applications for specific scholarships.

Scholarships are part of a Financial Aid Package. Students cannot receive a combination of aid (including loans, work-study, outside scholarships, and Claremont School of Theology scholarships) which exceeds the cost of attendance. If the total amount of financial aid awarded exceeds the cost of attendance, the amount of the Claremont School of Theology scholarship will be reduced so that the total aid does not exceed the attendance cost.

All Claremont School of Theology merit and need-based scholarships are dependent on funding. When determining need for tuition scholarships, all assets are considered. Tuition scholarships are used to cover Fall and Spring semesters only and do not cover tuition for the January Interterm or Summer. Claremont School of Theology scholarships are credited to students’ accounts prior to the start of each semester.

These policies apply to all Claremont School of Theology scholarships except The University Scholars Awards (TUSA). For information on policies concerning TUSA program, please contact the Office of Financial Aid.

Scholarship Enrollment Requirements

Students in the M.A. and M.Div. programs must be enrolled for at least 9 units per semester. Students in the Ph.D. program must be enrolled for at least 8 units per semester. Repeated courses will not count toward meeting the minimum enrollment requirements and will not be covered by Claremont School of Theology scholarships. Students in their final semester of study are eligible for Claremont School of Theology scholarships at a prorated amount if they have completed a Graduation Application and the Registrar has confirmed that the student requires less than the required minimum units per semester enrollment to graduate.

Students can receive Claremont School of Theology scholarship assistance for the maximum number of semesters listed below:

- M.Div. – 6 semesters
- M.A – 4 semesters
- Ph.D. – 6 semesters
Annual scholarship awards are made assuming that students will attend both Fall and Spring semesters at Claremont School of Theology. Students who do not enroll at Claremont School of Theology for both semesters will have their scholarship amounts reduced to reflect their one semester scholarship eligibility.

Students who change degree programs are not guaranteed the same amount of scholarship assistance they received under their original program nor are they guaranteed additional scholarship assistance if the new program is longer than the previous program. All students who wish to change degree programs should consult with the Director of Financial Aid regarding their scholarship eligibility.

Students who withdraw, become inactive or are dismissed from the School will forfeit their scholarship.

Students who decline an initial offer of admission and accompanying scholarship offer will not automatically retain their scholarship offer if they defer admission or reapply at a later date, as Financial Aid is recalculated every year.

Scholarship Grade Requirements

To be eligible for Claremont School of Theology scholarships, Master’s students must take at least 75 percent of their coursework for a letter grade. Ph.D. students must take all of their coursework for a letter grade.

At the end of each semester, the academic records of all students receiving Claremont School of Theology scholarships will be reviewed to ensure that satisfactory academic progress is being made. Students in the M.Div. and M.A. programs must achieve a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.0 to maintain scholarship eligibility. Students in the Ph.D. program must achieve a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.30 to maintain scholarship eligibility. Failure to meet the minimum cumulative grade point average for satisfactory academic progress will result in the forfeiture of scholarship assistance for the following semester.

Students in the M.A. and M.Div. programs may petition the Scholarship Committee to retain their Claremont School of Theology scholarship on a probationary status for one semester if their cumulative grade point average drops below 3.0 but is between 2.50 and 2.99. Students whose cumulative grade point average is below 2.50 are not eligible to petition. When a petition is approved, the student will be expected to achieve a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 at the end of the probationary semester. Failure to achieve a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 at the end of the probationary semester will result in the forfeiture of scholarship assistance for the following semester.

Students in the and Ph.D. program may petition the Scholarship and Admissions Committee to retain their Claremont School of Theology scholarship on a probationary status for one semester if their cumulative grade point average drops below 3.30 but is between 3.0 and 3.29. Students whose cumulative grade point average is below 3.0 are not eligible to petition. When a petition is approved, the student will be expected to achieve a cumulative grade point average of 3.30 at the end of the probationary semester. Failure to achieve a cumulative grade point average of 3.30 at the end of the probationary semester will result in the forfeiture of scholarship assistance for the following semester.
Students are allowed to petition only once for probationary status while receiving Claremont School of Theology scholarships. All petitions must be submitted to the Office of Financial Aid and will be reviewed by the Scholarship and Admissions Committee.

Students may have no more than one grade of incomplete while receiving a Claremont School of Theology scholarship. Students with more than one grade of incomplete will forfeit their scholarship.

Scholarship Procedural Requirements
Failure to sign and return the Scholarship Acceptance letter to the Office of Financial Aid by the stated deadline will result in forfeiture of the awarded scholarship.

All students who receive Claremont School of Theology scholarships are required to complete a Scholarship Application Form each Spring semester. Scholarship eligible students cannot register for the following Fall semester without submitting the Scholarship Application Form.

Scholarship “Thank You” Letters
All students who receive Claremont School of Theology scholarships will be expected to submit to the Office of Financial Aid a scholarship “Thank You” letter to the benefactor of those funds by the stated deadline of each year they receive a Claremont School of Theology scholarship. Failure to submit an appropriate scholarship “Thank You” letter will result in forfeiture of the awarded scholarship.

Other Scholarship Eligibility Requirements
Students currently in default on any Federal Student Loan are not eligible for Claremont School of Theology scholarships. Students who enter default while in attendance forfeit their scholarship. Students who lose their scholarship eligibility must reapply for Claremont School of Theology scholarships through the Office of Financial Aid when they have regained their scholarship eligibility.

Outside Scholarships
Please visit the financial aid page at www.cst.edu for a listing of potential outside scholarships. Students who apply and receive outside scholarships will have the monies added to their financial aid package; this may allow the School to reduce student dependence on loans. For more information on outside scholarship opportunities, contact the Financial Aid Office.

FEDERAL ASSISTANCE

Federal Perkins Loans. These are long-term loans available to students with demonstrated need as determined by the Financial Aid Office in accordance with federal regulations. Perkins awards are limited and are determined by the Financial Aid Office. The annual loan limit depends on the availability of funds and previous Perkins/NDSL borrowing. The maximum Claremont School of Theology loan limit is $8,000 per year. The aggregate loan limit is $40,000 (including any previous Perkins Loans). No payment is due nor does interest accrue while a student is enrolled at least halftime. Payment on the principal begins nine months after the student ceases to be at least a halftime student. Loans plus interest of 5 percent must be repaid completely within ten years.
Subsidized Federal Stafford Loan. A student must be enrolled at least halftime and must demonstrate need in order to receive this loan. Subsidized Federal Stafford Loans allow a student to borrow as much as $8,500 each year. The aggregate loan amount for graduate students is $65,500 (including undergraduate loans).

Stafford Loans have an annual variable interest rate that will not exceed 8.25 percent. There is a 3 percent origination fee and up to 1 percent guarantee fee on the Federal Stafford Loan. Repayment begins six months after the student ceases to be enrolled on at least a halftime basis and must be repaid in full usually within ten years. No interest accumulates while the borrower is in school, during the six month grace period and during approved periods of deferment.

Unsubsidized Federal Stafford Loans. Unsubsidized Federal Stafford Loans are available to students who are not able to demonstrate need. Loans allow a student to borrow as much as $12,000 each year. The federal government will not pay the interest during school, grace or deferment periods. Interest is generally capitalized at the time of repayment unless the student elects to pay the interest while in school.

A student may borrow up to $20,500 each year in combined Subsidized and Unsubsidized Stafford Loans. The total aggregate loan limit for graduate students is $138,500. This aggregate figure includes all undergraduate and graduate Subsidized and Unsubsidized Stafford Loans.

Distribution of Direct Federal Loans (“Direct Lending”) Federally guaranteed loan funds will be disbursed in two equal amounts at the beginning of each fall and spring semester. All students should bear in mind that up to 4 percent in fees may be deducted from the gross amount of each loan disbursement (3 percent origination and 1 percent guarantee fee). Loan funds will be sent to the School and will automatically be applied toward tuition, fees and housing (if a student lives on campus). Awards will be automatically adjusted for all changes in enrollment before the last day of the drop/add period. Loan disbursement checks will be released at the end of the fourth week of each semester.

Federal Work-Study Program The Federal Work-Study program was established to stimulate and promote part-time employment for students who are in need of earnings to finance the cost of higher education. The law requires that participants be in good academic standing, be citizens or permanent residents of the United States, and demonstrate financial need.

Students may work up to 15 hours per week during school periods and up to 30 hours per week during vacation periods. The amount of the award is based on a student’s need as determined by the Financial Aid Office and available funds.

All federal work-study jobs are located on campus. In the past, students have found employment in the Library, the Mail Room/Campus Center, Dean’s Office, Office of Admission, Office of the Registrar, Office of Communication, and Student Life

Faculty Research and Teaching Assistantships A limited number of faculty assistantships are available each year. Students may apply through the dean’s office for Research Assistant positions. Teaching assistants are chosen by the individual faculty members responsible for the course.
FINANCIAL AID AWARD LETTER

The award(s) outlined in the financial aid award letter are based on 12 units for the Fall Semester and 12 units for the Spring Semester (16-unit maximum per semester). If a student registers for more/fewer units or receives additional funding from outside sources, the financial aid award will be adjusted. If a student was awarded a Claremont School of Theology scholarship this award may be renewable contingent upon all of the following:

- The student is enrolled in a minimum of 9 units (8 units for Ph.D. students).
- The student maintains a cumulative grade point average in excess of the minimum requirement of 3.0 (3.3 for Ph.D. students) during both the fall and spring semesters, and has not exceeded the total units required for the degree program.
- The student remains current with all required tuition, fees, library and housing payments due.
- Sufficient Claremont School of Theology funding is available.
- You must be enrolled in 6 units per semester to receive Federal Stafford Loans.

Students should consult the Financial Aid Office for detailed policies governing financial aid.

SATISFACTORY ACADEMIC PROGRESS FOR FINANCIAL AID

(Based on Federal Code of Regulations 668.34)

The Higher Education Act and California state government require that in order to receive any Title IV Aid (Federal Direct Stafford Loan, Federal Direct GRAD PLUS Loan, Federal Work –Study [FWS]), a student must maintain satisfactory academic progress towards a degree. All academic semesters are utilized to determine Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) eligibility regardless of whether federal financial aid was received. In addition, The Higher Education Act standards apply to all students, whether or not they have ever received any federal financial aid.

The following criteria apply:

- Full time students are expected to enroll in twelve (12) credit hours or more each semester. A full time student will be allowed three (3) years to complete a two-year program (M.A.), and four (4) years to complete a three-year program (M.Div.).
- Part-time students are expected to enroll in at least six (6) credit hours each semester to be eligible for federal financial aid. A part-time student will be allowed four (4) years to complete a two-year program (M.A.), and six (6) years to complete a three-year program (M.Div.)
- Students in a Ph.D. program will be allowed six (6) years to complete a program.
- At the end of each academic semester, full-time students must have earned at least 12 credit hours and part-time students must have earned at least 6 credit hours with a cumulative GPA of 3.0 or higher.
All students are required to meet both cumulative grade point average (GPA) and cumulative hours earned to demonstrate satisfactory academic progress for financial aid. A review will be made at the end of each semester to determine if the student meets the criteria. Failure to meet both the cumulative grade point average and the cumulative hours earned will result in the student becoming ineligible to receive federal financial aid.

Financial Aid Warning

Full time students who have earned at least 12 credit hours but do not have a 3.0 cumulative GPA; or have a 3.0 cumulative GPA but have not earned 12 credit hours will be placed on Financial Aid Warning for one semester. Part-time students who have earned at least 6 credit hours but do not have 3.0 cumulative GPA; or have a 3.0 cumulative but have not earned 6 credit hours will be placed on Financial Aid Warning for one semester. During the semester a student is on Financial Aid Warning, s/he will still be eligible to receive their federal financial aid. The student will be required to meet with the Dean’s Office to develop an academic plan for meeting SAP by the end of that semester. At the end of the semester, if the student has not met the requirements of SAP, the student will become ineligible to receive federal financial aid.

If the student becomes ineligible for Federal Financial Aid, the student can appeal the decision by following the guidelines as set forth in the Financial Aid Appeal Process.

Financial Aid Appeal Process

Waivers for Satisfactory Academic Progress will be considered only under exceptional circumstances (if, for example, the student has suffered undue hardship such as death of an immediate family member, injury or illness of the student). Students requesting an appeal must submit a letter to the Financial Aid Office requesting reinstatement. The letter should explain the circumstances which affected the student’s academic performance and provide accompanying documentation.

All appeals should be submitted, via US Postal mail and addressed to the attention of the Financial Aid Director: 1325 N. College Ave, Claremont, CA 91711. Appeals must be submitted no later than June 30th for the next Fall Semester, and January 15th for the next Spring Semester. All appeals will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis by the Director of Financial Aid and the Vice Dean of Academic Programs. In some instances an interview may be scheduled to meet with the committee that reviews the appeal to answer any questions. (Please note that any information mentioned in the appeal is subject to verification and all information will be taken into consideration. If an appeal is recommended for approval, an Academic Success Plan must be devised, signed and agreed upon by the Vice Dean and the student. A copy of the original signed Academic Success Plan must then be filed in the Financial Aid Office prior to any aid being dispersed.

The financial aid appeal letter must:

- Be properly addressed and should include the student’s name, address, phone number, student ID number and Major
- State clearly why the student was not able to make SAP (Satisfactory Academic Progress)
- State what has changed in the student’s situation that will allow the student to demonstrate Satisfactory Academic Progress at the next evaluation
• Describe what the student will do differently academically if s/he is authorized to continue receiving financial aid at Claremont School of Theology

If the appeal is approved, the student will be placed on Financial Aid Probation for one semester. During the student’s course of study, the student will not be allowed to appeal a financial aid warning more than two (2) times. Once a decision has been rendered, no further information will be considered.

Financial Aid Probation
Only students whose appeal has been granted will be placed on Financial Aid Probation. Financial Aid Probation is for one academic semester only. At the end of the academic semester, the student’s academic record will be reviewed to determine if the student has met the requirements specified in the academic plan.

Re-Establishing Satisfactory Academic Progress
Any students whose federal financial aid has been terminated may reestablish Satisfactory Academic Progress by any of the following methods:

- Repeating and passing failed courses
- Removing incomplete grades

The following evaluation criteria are important to note:

Withdrawals (W Grades), which are recorded on the student’s transcript will be included as credits attempted and will have an adverse effect on the student’s ability to maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress.

The successful completion of a course is defined as receiving one the following grades: A, B, C, or D. Courses with grades of F, I, or W will not qualify in meeting the minimum standard for Satisfactory Academic Progress.

Repeated Courses will be counted as hours completed only once, provided the student meets all other criteria for Satisfactory Academic Progress.

Change of Degree. A student may change from one major to another during attendance at Claremont School of Theology. Students who change from one major to another are still expected to maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress. They also must complete the course work within the time frame or hours limitation stated unless an appeal is otherwise approved.

Class Load. The number of hours in which a student is enrolled on the day following the published last day to add or drop a class or Claremont School of Theology census date will be used as the official enrollment date for financial aid purposes.

Payment Policy for Tuition and Fees
All tuition is payable in full by the first day of class each semester, each January Interterm and each summer session. A $100 Late Payment Fee will be charged to all students who have not paid their tuition and fees by the end of the third week of class for each semester or by the end of the first week of class for the January Interterm and Summer Session. Tuition is the same for resident and nonresident students.

Students have several payment options. Payments may be made by check, credit card (Visa, MasterCard, American Express) online, or with a Deferred Payment Agreement. Documentation of government loans, Claremont School of Theology scholarships or grants, outside scholarships and loans can be used to comply with the tuition payment policy. Students should consult the Business Office for details.
Approved Visiting Scholars may have auditor and library privileges without tuition or fee charge.

Delinquent Accounts
Students whose accounts are not paid in full are not eligible to register for the next semester or to receive transcripts, grades, enrollment verifications, or diplomas. This applies equally to students who fail to pay, on or before established dates, loans granted or guaranteed by or through Claremont School of Theology, or to pay fees such as those incurred for on-campus housing, library fines, etc. A $100 late payment fee will be charged to all students who have not paid their tuition and fees by the end of the third week of class for each semester or by the end to the first week of class for the January Interterm and Summer Session. A monthly late charge of $10 or three-quarters of 1 percent, whichever is higher, will be assessed for delinquent accounts. In the event that Claremont School of Theology deems it necessary to employ a collections agent or attorney to enforce payment, the student will be responsible for all reasonable collections costs and attorney’s fees.

Refunds
Students who withdraw or fail to complete the period of enrollment may receive a refund. Any student withdrawing from the School for medical reasons is required to submit a written statement from his or her medical doctor when requesting a refund. If the student received any federal funds, the Financial Aid Office will determine the refund based on the number of days/weeks remaining in the semester and the student’s withdrawal date and/or last day of attendance.

A student receiving federal aid who is attending the School for the first time and leaves the School on or before the 60 percent point in the enrollment period for which s/he has been charged will be subject to a Statutory Pro Rata Refund. A student remains eligible for the Statutory Pro Rata Refund until the student withdraws, drops out, takes a leave of absence, is expelled after attending at least one class, or completes the enrollment period.

All other students who do not meet the requirements for the Statutory Pro Rata Refund will be subject to either Claremont School of Theology’s institutional refund policy or the requirements of the Federal Refund Calculation, whichever policy allows for the larger refund.

Claremont School of Theology Refund Policy
Tuition refunds for students dropping or withdrawing from classes during the semester are made according to the following schedule:

- First and Second weeks: 100 percent refund
- Third and Fourth weeks: 50 percent refund

No refund will be given if a student drops or withdraws from classes after the fourth week of class in a given semester. Refunds requested for medical reasons must be supported by a statement from the attending physician. Refunds for students receiving financial aid may vary from the School’s policy depending upon current federal regulations. A refund schedule listing amounts and cutoff dates is available from the Business Office. These rules also apply when a tuition-deferred payment plan has been signed. Generally, fees are not refundable and any financial aid is prorated in accordance with the refund schedule.
Tuition Refunds for students dropping classes during the January Interterm or Summer Session are made according to the following schedule:

- 100% Refund: By the First Class Meeting less $50 deposit
- 75% Refund: By the Second Class Meeting less $50 deposit
- No Refund: After the Second Class Meeting

Federal Refund Calculation

For first-time students receiving federal aid in the first semester, the School will refund 100 percent of tuition charges if the student withdraws within the first two weeks of classes, and at least 50 percent of tuition charges if the student withdraws between the second and fourth week of the enrollment period.
ACADEMIC POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

Academic Form and Style
All papers, projects, and dissertations must follow proper academic form and style. Except where other academic forms are specifically allowed, the faculty requires that all work submitted follow Chicago style.

Inclusive Language
Inclusive language is strongly encouraged of all members of the School community and is considered the standard for written work, classroom discussion, worship, and common discourse. Inclusive language refers to language that refers to God and humanity in terms that are not solely male, language that deals with color in ways that does not foster racism (i.e. equating “black” with “evil”, “white” with “purity or goodness”), and sensory language (“paralyzed,” “deaf,” “blind”) in ways that does not equate persons with disabilities and evil.

Academic Honesty
All students are expected to adhere to basic standards of academic honesty and integrity. All work submitted is expected to be the student’s own thought and expression unless another source is acknowledged and appropriately footnoted. Violation of academic honesty is regarded as an extremely serious offense. Discovery of such a violation may result in an “F” grade for the course, and possible termination as a student at the School, or revocation of a degree previously granted. In any case, faculty members are obligated to report all apparent violations of academic honesty to the Dean.

Plagiarism
Plagiarism is literary theft, or offering the words or ideas of another as if they were one’s own, with no acknowledgment of the source. Whenever the ideas or words used are taken from a source, this source must be given credit. This applies not only to direct quotations, but also to indirect quotations (in which the original statement is paraphrased). Sources that must be given credit include not only published books, journals, magazines, newspapers, etc., but also other types of media, such as electronic resources (CDROM, Internet, etc.), film, television, radio, and cassette recordings, as well as lectures and the work of other students. The principle also holds true for less direct borrowings, if the ideas in question are distinctive to the source as opposed to being considered common currency. (This is often a matter of judgment; when in doubt, students are advised to err on the side of giving too many citations, rather than too few.) The prohibition of plagiarism applies to dissertations, theses, projects, term papers, class reports, take-home examinations, and any other work (whether in writing or in another media for communicating ideas) intended to fulfill requirements for a class or degree program.

The School recognizes that plagiarism is culturally defined. Consequently, students not experienced in the U.S. educational system may be asked to rewrite plagiarized work without the assumption of dishonest intent on the student’s part. Nevertheless, under no circumstances is plagiarized work acceptable, and all students are expected to learn what constitutes plagiarism in the U.S. educational context.

Cheating involves the use of any kind of assistance (e.g., written, oral, aural, or visual) that has not been specifically authorized. In regard to take-home examinations, students are not to receive assistance from others unless it has been clearly specified that a certain form of assistance is permissible (e.g., in the preparation for, as distinct from the actual writing of, the examination), or that the exam is to be a cooperative effort.
Consequences: If it is determined that cheating or academic dishonesty has taken place, the minimum consequences are as follows:

- The professor will report the student’s name to the dean’s office so repeat offenses can be tracked.
- A letter regarding the academic dishonesty will be issued by the dean. It will be placed in the student’s official file in the Registrar’s office and a copy will be sent to the student.
- The student will be penalized:
  For the first offense, the student will receive a grade of F for the assignment from the professor. The student will be referred to the Writing Center for further education on plagiarism.
  For the second offense, the student will fail the course. The Dean will report this failure to the Registrar, the professor involved and the student as soon as a determination has been made.
  For the third offense, the student will be dismissed from the School. The Dean will inform the Registrar’s Office, the student and the professor involved.
- Stricter penalties can be imposed by the professor in consultation with the Dean.

Appeal Process: Any appeal must be made in writing to the Committee on Academic Procedures (CAP) within two weeks of notification. The decision of the Committee on Academic Procedure is final. If the professor involved is currently serving on CAP, the Dean will appoint another faculty person to replace the professor involved for the discussion and vote on the appeal. The Dean may be present during CAP’s deliberations as an ex-officio member.

Grading Policies
The School grades on a four-point system as follows:

- A = 4.0
- A- = 3.7
- B+ = 3.3
- B = 3.0
- B- = 2.7
- C+ = 2.3
- C = 2.0
- C- = 1.7
- D+ = 1.3
- D = 1.0
- D- = 0.7
- F = 0.0

Other grade field codes that carry no grade points are:

- W: Student withdrawal from a course
- UW: Unauthorized withdrawal
- I: Incomplete Grade requested by student
- AU: Audit
- CR: Credit on basis of Credit/No Credit
- NC: No Credit on basis of Credit/No Credit
- CEU: Continuing Education Credit
- P: Passing Grade for examinations
- CP: Conditional Passing Grade for examinations
- U: Unsatisfactory/Fail Grade for examinations

Credit/Unit Policy
A credit hour is an amount of work that reasonably approximates 1) not less than one hour of classroom or direct faculty instruction and a minimum of two hours of out of class student work each week for approximately 14-15 weeks for one semester, or the equivalent amount of work over a different amount of time; or 2) at least an equivalent amount of work as required above through other academic activities as established by Claremont School of Theology leading to the award of credit hours. For example, for a 3 credit semester course, the student will have faculty instruction for 3 hours a week for 14-15 weeks and will be required to commit 6 hours a week to reading, research, writing, and consultation for that class, or a reasonable equivalent.

Credit/No Credit
Students in good standing (not on academic probation) in the M.Div. and M.A. programs may take free elective classes either on a letter grade basis or on a credit/no credit (CR/NC) basis. Required classes and repeated courses must be taken for a letter grade, with the exception of Field Education internships, which are offered only on a credit/no credit basis. In no case can more than 20 percent of the total degree units be taken credit/no credit. Credit (CR) will be given only for work which is of average quality or better (C through A). Credit will not be given for work that is merely passing (D through D+). All coursework in the Ph.D. and D.Min. programs must be taken for a letter grade, with the exception of courses that are offered only on a CR/NC basis.

Minimum Grade Requirements
In the M.Div. and M.A. programs, the minimum grade acceptable for a required class is C- (1.7). Only free electives will be acceptable for graduation credit at a grade in the D range. In the D.Min. and Ph.D. programs, course work must be completed at the B- level (2.7) or above to meet degree requirements. For all degree programs students may not earn credit more than once for the same class. Students receiving Veterans’ benefits should contact the Office of the Registrar.

Minimum Grade Point Average for Graduation
The minimum cumulative grade point average required for graduation from the M.Div. and M.A. programs is 2.25; for the D.Min, 2.7; and for the Ph.D. program, 3.0.

Grade Requirements for Required Courses
Students in the M.Div. and M.A. programs must take required classes and area advanced courses on the letter grade system (A through F), with the exception of Field Education internships, which are offered only on a Credit/No Credit basis. M.Div. and M.A. students may take non-required classes (free electives) either for a letter grade or on a Credit/ No Credit (CR/NC) basis. At the time of registration, the student must elect which grading system will be used. All course work in the Ph.D. and D.Min. programs must be taken for a letter grade, with the exception of courses that are offered only on a CR/NC basis.

Change of Grade Option
With the permission of the instructor, grade options in eligible classes may be changed from Letter Grade to Credit/No Credit, or vice versa, through the end of the third week of class. The student must complete the appropriate form in the Office of the Registrar to finalize the grade option change.

Change from Audit to Academic Credit
An audit can be changed to academic credit on or before the last day of class in the semester for which the audit was registered, with permission of the Dean or Registrar, provided that:

- The instructor approves the change and certifies the satisfactory completion of all the requirements for the course by the submission of a grade or Credit/ No Credit. (After the deadline for Change of Grade Option has passed, students changing from audit academic credit must register for a letter grade.)

- The required tuition is paid.
- The change in course status is processed by completing an Add/Drop form.

Students who are registered to audit courses as alumni, seniors, staff and spouses may not change an audit to academic credit.

Change from Academic Credit to Audit Status

Registrations may be changed from academic credit to audit through the end of the eighth week of the semester by completing an Add/Drop form, dropping the course for credit, and adding the course for audit. The instructor of the course must sign the form.

Grade Reporting Policy

All grades must be submitted to the Registrar two weeks after the last day of final exams during Fall and Spring semesters. During the summer and January intersession, students have three weeks after the final class to submit all work; and instructors then have two weeks to submit final grades to the registrar. If the instructor grants an Incomplete, the grade submitted will be recorded as an “I”. If not, the grade will be based on work that was completed for the course in consideration of the grading option chosen by the student.

Change of Grade

Once a grade is assigned for a course, no change of grade is possible on the basis of additional work. Faculty may, in exceptional circumstances, change a grade on the basis of a reevaluation of work already completed if this change is made within two months of the time the grade was assigned.

Incomplete

Incompletes will be granted only when there are extenuating circumstances, such as illness. The granting of an Incomplete is for emergency situations and is not automatic, but is at the discretion of the professor. Incompletes are not granted merely for the convenience of the student who is concerned about his or her workload. To request an incomplete, the student must fill out an Incomplete Grade Request form, have it signed by the Financial Aid officer first, then seek the permission and the signature of the professor of the course, and return the form to the Registrar’s office. An Incomplete may entail a grade reduction. Students should check this with the professor at or before the time the Incomplete is requested. Students with a pattern of incomplete or dropped courses will be subject to academic probation or termination.

All work for incomplete courses of the Fall semester must be submitted for a grade by the last business day before the first day of classes of the following Spring semester. All work for incomplete courses of the Spring semester must be submitted for a grade by the last business day before the first day of classes of the following Fall semester.

All work for incomplete courses of the January Interterm must be submitted for a grade by the last day of classes of the following Spring semester. All work for incomplete courses of the Summer Session must be submitted for a grade by the last day of class of the following Fall semester. The faculty may require students to turn in work by an earlier date, but the faculty will be responsible for enforcing deadlines other than the one described above. All Incomplete work will be submitted to the Registrar who will record the date of its submission. The Registrar will then forward the work to the appropriate faculty person. If outstanding work is not submitted by the due date, the student’s grade for the course will automatically be converted to a grade of F or No Credit depending on the grade option of the student. Once a grade has been converted to a grade of F or No-Credit, it cannot be changed. Faculty are expected to turn in grades for Incompletes no later than two weeks after receiving the work from the Registrar.

A student may submit a petition to the Registrar to extend the incomplete for one semester with work due no later than the final day of class in that semester. The petition must be in the Registrar’s office no later than one week prior to the day before the semester begins. The Registrar will consult with the faculty involved and the Dean’s office will adjudicate all petitions when the Committee on Academic Procedures is not active. If granted, this extension is final. Students taking such an extension may be placed on probation. Failure to complete the course within the deadline will result in an automatic F or No-Credit entered on the official record. In all cases, the Incomplete will be noted on the transcript until a final grade is entered.

All students who wish to request grades of Incomplete and are currently receiving scholarships or financial aid are required to consult with the Financial Aid office. Grades of Incomplete do have an effect on a student’s satisfactory academic progress and eligibility for scholarships and financial aid.

Waivers for Special Circumstances

When a grade of “Incomplete” has reverted to a grade of “F” because the student failed to submit the incomplete work by the deadline, the student may petition the Committee on Academic Procedures (CAP) to have the “F” revert back to an “Incomplete”. CAP will only consider petitions that are related to medical conditions or death in the family.

In the case of an extenuating medical condition, all petition forms must be accompanied by the following documentation:

- A letter of explanation from the student to CAP as to why the student did not complete the work by the deadline, why the student did not submit a petition to extend the deadline, and why the student believes the problem that caused the initial Incomplete and subsequent deadlines to be missed will not recur.
- A letter from a physician or other certified medical professional attesting to the student’s treatment under the medical professional’s care during and/or after the period in which the student failed to meet the Incomplete deadline.
- Support for the petition from the professor in the course.
- Support for the petition from the student’s academic advisor.

If a student believes the School has erred in some way, the petition must be accompanied by a letter of explanation that describes and documents in what way(s) the School erred and the time frame involved, in relationship to the date when the Incomplete work was due.

Adding a Course

Students may add semester courses up until the end of the second week of the semester. Students must add January Interterm and Summer courses by the end of the first day of the course. To attend a course without officially adding the course does not constitute registration for the course. No adds will be processed after the add deadline for any term.

Dropping and Withdrawal from a Course

Students may drop Fall and Spring semester courses up until the end of the eighth week of the semester. January Interterm and Summer courses that are one or two weeks long must be dropped by end of the second day of the course. Summer courses that are three weeks long must be dropped by the end of the fifth day of the course. Any student who drops a course after the drop deadline for any term but before the last day of the term will be withdrawn from the course and be given a grade of “W”. To not attend or stop attending a course does not constitute a drop or withdrawal. Students who do not officially drop or withdraw from a course in which they are enrolled but not attending, will receive a non-passing grade of “UW” (Unofficial Withdrawal) in that course. This action will be noted on the transcript and will count the same as a grade of “F” in the student’s cumulative grade point average. Students with a pattern of incomplete or dropped courses will be subject to academic probation or termination. Students receiving Veterans’ benefits should contact the Office of the Registrar before dropping or withdrawing from a course. Students should consult the School’s refund policy before dropping any course.

Academic Progress for Receiving Veterans’ Administration Benefits
In accordance with V.A. Regulation 14235 (D) (3), no student who is receiving V.A. Benefits will be considered to have made satisfactory progress when s/he fails or withdraws from all courses undertaken (except where there are extenuating circumstances) when enrolled in two or more subjects for which there is unit credit.

Repeated Course Policy
Students are allowed to repeat courses. Students may have to repeat a class because they received a grade of “D” (in a required class or Advanced Elective courses), or an “F” for the class, because they had an Incomplete for the class and did not submit their work by the deadline and the Incomplete reverted to a grade of “F,” or because a student stopped going to class but did not officially withdraw from the class and received a “UW” (Unofficial Withdrawal) on their transcript. Although the original grade will remain on the permanent record, only the most recent grade will be considered in computing the cumulative grade point average (GPA). The additional hours of credit for repeated courses will not be counted toward a degree or the total number of credits completed. Repeated courses must be for a letter grade and at regular tuition rates. Financial Aid cannot be applied to repeated courses. Financial Aid cannot be given to a student whose cumulative grade point average has dropped below 3.0 for master’s students and 3.3 for Doctoral students.

Academic Probation
Students will be placed on academic probation (a) if their cumulative grade point average drops below 2.25 in the M.A. and M.Div. programs, 2.7 in the D.Min. program, or 3.0 in the Ph.D. program, or (b) if the combined number of “F” and “No Credit” grades exceeds one-fifth the total number of classes they have completed, or (c) if they extend an Incomplete to a second semester, where an automatic F/NC would place the student in category (a) or (b) above. In order to be removed from academic probation, students must obtain a cumulative grade point average of at least 2.25 in the M.A. and M.Div. programs, 2.7 in the D.Min. program, or 3.0 in the Ph.D. program upon completion of (a) 15 units of letter grade work after being placed on academic probation or (b) two semesters, whichever comes first.

Students who are on academic probation must take all course work for a letter grade (the only exceptions are those courses offered only on a Credit/No Credit basis). A student who remains on academic probation for two consecutive semesters may face dismissal. The faculty, upon recommendation of the Dean or the Committee on Academic Procedures, makes dismissal decisions. A student who is receiving VA benefits, and who is placed on academic probation, is subject to dismissal after one semester in compliance with VA Regulation 14235 (D) (3).
Mid-semester Warning for All Students with Serious Academic Problems
The Dean will ask professors to provide written warnings for any student appearing to have serious academic difficulties. Professors are expected to structure their courses so that they will be able to evaluate students’ work by mid-semester. At mid-semester, the Registrar will send forms to professors. At their discretion, the professors can identify any students having serious academic problems and can specify the particular types of problems. The professors shall return these forms to the Registrar, who will forward them to the student’s advisor and the Dean who will determine the appropriate course of action.

Attendance Policy
A student’s attendance and participation are important components in assessing satisfactory academic progress. When physical presence is required, faculty will indicate what student behaviors (such as unexcused absences, inability to perform a classroom assignment) may result in grade reduction or failure of a course. Any absence from class is likely to reduce accomplishment and therefore possibly the course grade. Consistent absences may indicate that the student is not making Satisfactory Academic Progress (see p. 46). These students may fail the course and also face the loss of federal financial aid and scholarships.

Review of Student Status
At the request of the Dean, the Committee on Academic Procedures is charged to consider whether (1) a student’s enrollment may be discontinued; (2) a student may be given an institutionally-initiated Leave of Absence; (3) a student’s enrollment may be continued under specified conditions; or (4) formal liaison with a mental health professional may be established for the purpose of diagnosis and intervention. All committee recommendations are to be brought to a full faculty meeting for discussion, recommendation, and/or ratification.

Leave of Absence
In the event of physical or emotional health problems, military service, financial hardship, familial issues or other unexpected events, a student may request a leave of absence. During the period of the leave, which cannot extend beyond 180 days in any 12 month period, the student will remain in good standing and will not be charged Continuous Registration fees. An approved leave of absence extends the time limit to complete the degree by an amount of time equal to the leave.

A request for a leave of absence must be made in writing and include the date, reason for the student’s request and the student’s original signature. Because an approved leave of absence is dependent upon the school’s reasonable expectation that the student will return from the leave, it is recommended that the student’s petition include a timetable for return. Normally, a leave of absence is granted for a maximum of one semester. Leave of Absence request forms may be obtained from the Office of the Registrar. The request must be submitted to the Dean.

The Dean’s decision to grant the student’s request will be made in writing and will include a statement reminding the student of federal regulations requiring that if she or he is a Title IV loan recipient (Federal Perkins or Stafford Loan), failure to return to school at the expiration of the student’s leave of absence will result in the student’s withdrawal from the school as of the date the student began the leave of absence. As a result, the student may be required to return some or all of the Title IV loan funds disbursed to him. or her in the semester s/he began the leave. It is also possible that the student’s grace period for repayment of other Title IV loans may expire.

A student returning from a leave of absence must notify the Dean and Registrar in writing prior to registering for classes. When returning, the student must complete the coursework that s/he began prior to the leave of absence. The student will not incur any additional institutional charges nor is the student eligible for additional Title IV assistance in order to complete this work.

Students who are withdrawn from the school because they failed to return from the leave may reenter within two years of their withdrawal date upon written notice to the Dean, and Registrar of the student’s intention to return. After two years but no longer than eight years from the withdrawal date, the student may apply for reinstatement with the Admissions Office by submitting an application form, fee, personal statement, a minimum of two additional references, and transcripts of any additional coursework.

Involuntary Leave of Absence

The School will place a student on Involuntary Leave of Absence if an apparent medical or psychological condition poses a threat to the student’s physical or psychological wellbeing, or that of any other member of the School or community, or a threat of destruction of property. This policy applies to medical and psychological problems only, and not to matters solely of a disciplinary or academic nature.

An Involuntary Leave of Absence is the expulsion of a student and restriction of that student from entering the Claremont School of Theology campus or participating in any Claremont School of Theology courses or services. In instances where the student lives in student housing, departure from campus housing will be determined by the Dean. As a private institution, it is possible for the School to contact the appropriate law enforcement agency to enforce these restrictions.

Withdrawal or Transfer

A student who wishes to transfer to another school or otherwise withdraw from enrollment must notify the Registrar by turning in a completed Withdrawal Form signed by the Dean, the Business Office, and the Financial Aid Director. Withdrawal forms are available in the Office of the Registrar.

Statute of Limitations for Completion of Degrees

Degree requirements must be completed within specified time limits. For every nine units of academic credit transferred into the School from another institution for a master’s degree, the time limit for completion of the degree will be reduced by one semester. (See p. 39 for School policies on transfer of academic credit.) In extenuating circumstances, students may petition the Committee on Academic Procedures for an extension of one year.

The statutes of limitations for each degree program offered are as follows:

- Master of Divinity 6 years
- Joint CST/ETSC Master of Divinity 7 years
- Master of Arts 4 years
- Joint Master of Divinity/Master of Arts 7 years
- Mentoring Doctor of Ministry 5 years
- Doctor of Ministry in Practical Theology of Healing, Reconciliation, and Transformation 6 years
- Ph.D. in Practical Theology (48 units)* 7 years
- Ph.D. in Religion (48 units)* 7 years
PhD students have 4 years to complete the requirements for Advancement to Candidacy, and 3 years to complete the dissertation.

If after Advancement to Candidacy, a Ph.D. student has exceeded the time limits and been terminated, the student may petition the Dean for readmission with the presentation of an acceptable first draft of the dissertation and the payment of Continuous Registration fees for all intervening semesters.

When a student transfers from one academic program to another academic program of the same status, the statute of limitations is the full number of years of the program to which the student has transferred minus the number of years the student has been enrolled in the previous program. (For example, if a student who has been enrolled for three years in the M.Div. program then transfers into the M.A. program, that student’s new statute of limitations would be one year.)

Graduation Applications

All students are required to submit a completed and signed graduation application to the Office of the Registrar in the Spring semester before their final year of study. No student will be allowed to register for his or her final year without submitting a graduation application. The last day of Spring Pre-Registration in the Fall is the last day to submit a graduation application for inclusion in the May commencement ceremony. No student will be allowed to graduate or participate in the commencement ceremony without submitting a graduation application.

Appeals for Exceptions to Academic Policies

Students are expected to be aware of and abide by the faculty’s standing rules and policies. The Catalog provides the necessary information. If a student can demonstrate a compelling reason for special consideration, s/he may appeal to the Committee on Academic Procedures for an exception to the faculty’s academic policies. Students’ failure to inform themselves of policies, procedures, deadlines and requirements for their degree programs is not considered a compelling reason for special consideration. There are some policies to which the Committee does not have the authority to grant exceptions. Appeals of this kind will not be considered. Students should consult the Catalog for information on the procedures for requesting exceptions to the academic policies of Claremont School of Theology.

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Procedures or the Dean to determine whether an exception shall be made to the faculty’s standing rules and policies. It is the most basic role of the Committee on Academic Procedures to supervise the carrying out of policy legislated by the faculty. If the Committee determines that a petition raises a general problem of policy, they shall propose to the full faculty a revision of the policy, rather than grant special petitions. The Committee on Academic Procedures and the Dean have the authority to introduce some flexibility into the administration of standing rules, so as to help students accomplish that which is intended by the faculty. For example, they may: grant extensions of deadlines in case of genuine hardship, such as personal illness or family crisis; in consultation with faculty of the field concerned, approve substitution of an alternative way of meeting a requirement; offer a special examination to students who believe they have acquired the requisite knowledge in prior study; deal with minor or emergency problems not covered by existing policy.

The discretion of the Committee on Academic Procedures or the Dean is not unlimited. Neither has the authority to alter the fundamental rules of the faculty or to compromise policies or procedures dictated by the School’s three accrediting bodies: the Association of Theological Schools (ATS), the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), and the University Senate of the United Methodist Church. For example, they may not: excuse any student from general curricular requirements; grant petitions to increase the number of allowable transfer units; reduce the number of units required for the degree; fundamentally alter the sequence of degree programs where educational principles are at stake; consider a petition where the faculty has previously decided that exceptions will not be considered. Neither the Committee on Academic Procedures nor the Dean has the authority to consider appeals for exceptions to the financial policies of the School.

Transcript Requests
Requests for transcripts should be submitted in writing to the Office of the Registrar and include the following: name, dates of attendance, address where the transcript is to be sent and signature. Upon payment of the current fee for transcripts, transcripts will be sent to another institution or made available for the student’s personal use. Transcript requests will not be honored if a student owes the School a balance not accounted for through aDeferred Payment Agreement or is currently in default on any federal student loans.

Copies of transcripts contained in the student file from other institutions should be requested directly from those institutions.

Replacement Diploma Policy
Requests for replacement diplomas should be submitted to the Registrar, who is responsible for processing the order. The Registrar is authorized to order replacement diplomas under the following conditions:

- The graduate’s claim to have received a degree from the School can be verified unambiguously
- There are no institutional actions limiting the request (for example, unpaid accounts, library fines outstanding, disciplinary actions pending or taken against the individual, etc.)
- Both the Dean and the President approve
- The circumstances related to the replacement request warrant School action.

Graduates must certify in writing the loss of the original and must provide detailed written information about the manner in which the loss was incurred.

The Registrar will order replacement diplomas along with the regular graduation order each year. Persons who request replacement diplomas either before or after the relevant graduation deadlines may have their requests processed if the circumstances seem to justify an emergency order. The Registrar will present the request to the Dean and the President for approval. In all cases, the graduate bears all costs involved in processing and printing replacement diplomas. These costs will vary according to the precise circumstances of the request. The replacement diploma will be ordered in the same style as the diplomas currently in use at the School. Current officers of the institution will sign for the Board of Trustees and for the President. The notation “signed in (current year) for the (Board of Trustees/President)” will appear beneath the relevant signature lines. Additionally, the notation “Replacement Diploma” will appear along the bottom border.

Name Change or Correction
Currently enrolled students who wish to change their names must present in writing to the Registrar the reason(s) for the change and two legal documents (e.g., a marriage license or a court document) to substantiate the change. Both the original and the new names will appear on the transcript. Graduates who wish a name change on their diploma must submit a written request to the Registrar. The letter must contain a sufficient reason for the change and be supported by legal documents. The old diploma and an appropriate fee are required before a new diploma may be issued. The change of diplomas will be recorded on the transcript of the former student.
ADVISEMENT AND REGISTRATION

Faculty Advisement
Each new student is assigned a faculty advisor. These assignments are made in consideration of the student’s interests and faculty load. The advisor’s main responsibility is to guide students through their program.

Change of Advisor
When students wish to change advisors, they seek agreement to this change from both their present advisor and the faculty member they desire to have as advisor. When agreement has been secured from the faculty members, students complete the Change-of-Advisor Request Form and submit it to the Registrar. Factors such as the number of advisees a faculty member has and extracurricular responsibilities that the faculty member holds may prohibit a faculty member from agreeing to serve as advisor. The Dean generally regulates the institutional expectations of the faculty and may request that a faculty member not accept further advisees.

Full-Time and Part-Time Enrollment
During the Fall and Spring semesters, 12 units constitute full-time enrollment. However, master’s students will often take up to 15 units per semester to make timely progress toward degree completion. Registration for the D.Min. professional project is considered full-time enrollment and is limited to two semesters. Ph.D. students registered for Continuous Registration or Dissertation Research will be considered enrolled full-time for up to three years after the completion of course work. Students who elect Continuous Registration before completion of required course work are not considered enrolled either full or halftime.

Registration Limits
In the Fall and Spring semesters, registration is limited to 16 units. In the three-week summer sessions, registration is limited to 6 units during any one session. In the two-week Interterm session, registration is limited to one course.

Registration Periods
Continuing students pre-register for Spring semester during a designated week in November and for Fall semester during a designated week in April. Specific registration weeks are designated by the Registrar. New students register during orientation or the first week of the Fall and Spring semesters.

Registration Confirmation
All students are required to complete registration confirmation at the beginning of each semester.

Evidence of Medical Insurance
At the time of registration confirmation all students are required to provide evidence that they have medical insurance for the entire term. Students who do not provide evidence of medical insurance will be required to enroll in a medical coverage program of the School’s choosing and will be billed for the coverage.

Registration Procedures:
Students should begin the procedures outlined below well in advance of the registration period.

- All students must discuss their course selections with their academic advisor. The advisor must approve of the student’s plan for registration.
Select courses from the class schedule.

Secure other faculty permissions as may be required. These requirements are detailed on the semester class schedule.

When a student has obtained all required faculty permissions, the student may register during the designated registration period.

Pay tuition and fees. Students will not be permitted to attend class unless tuition and fees are paid.

Provide proof of mandatory medical insurance.

Cross-Registration (also referred to as “Cross-Enrollment”)
Claremont School of Theology has cross-registration agreements with Claremont Lincoln University, Claremont Graduate University (CGU), the Episcopal Theological School at Claremont (ETSC), and the Academy of Jewish Religion, California (AJRCA). All cross-registration courses are billed by the student’s “home school” at that school’s rates. Financial aid is available for all cross-registered courses. Claremont School of Theology M.Div. and M.A. students are eligible to cross-register for courses at any of these schools. D.Min. and Ph.D. students are eligible to cross-register for courses at Claremont Lincoln University and Claremont Graduate University. D.Min. and Ph.D. students may cross-register for courses at the Academy of Jewish Religion/CA with the permission of the student’s academic advisor. These agreements apply to regularly-scheduled courses, not Directed Studies. Since the Academy of Jewish Religion is on a trimester system and has different beginning times to their trimesters, the dates as well as the courses offered by the Academy of Jewish Religion are posted on the CST website.

All courses taken at Claremont Graduate University, the Episcopal Theological School, and the Academy of Jewish Religion require the permission of the instructor and the student’s advisor. Courses taken at Claremont Lincoln University do not, unless otherwise stated.

Cross-Registration for 200-level Courses at The Claremont Colleges
With the permission of the advisor and the class instructor, Master’s degree students may take a maximum of 8 units of free electives from 200-level courses. All courses taken at the Claremont Colleges require the permission of the instructor and the student’s advisor.

Visiting Student Registration at Fuller Theological Seminary
Claremont School of Theology has a Visiting Student agreement with Fuller Theological Seminary. All Visiting Student courses are billed by the host school at that school’s current tuition rates. Financial Aid is not available for Visiting Student status. The student completes a Visiting Student Application form in order to be admitted as a Visiting Student. The form must have the signature of the Registrar of the home school and be submitted to the Registrar of the class school. This allows the student to register, pay for courses, and have all student privileges at the class school.

Course Numbering System
The place of a course in the curriculum is indicated by its number. The first letter indicates which institution is offering the course. The second and third letters indicate subject matter. The digits represent the level of the course. Prerequisite courses are numbered between 2000 and 2999 and carry no unit credit toward a degree. Master’s level courses are numbered between 3000 and 3999 and are usually 3 units. Most fields distinguish between the basic course and more advanced 3000-level. In most cases, the basic courses are a prerequisite for more advanced work in a given field. Students may be admitted to advanced master’s level courses without taking the basic courses at the discretion of the instructor. Doctoral level courses are numbered between 4000 and 4999 and are 4 units. While Ph.D. and D.Min. students receive first priority in terms of 4000-level courses, master’s students may be admitted at the discretion of the instructor.

Upgrading Master’s Level Courses for Doctoral Credit

After consultation with the advisor and with the permission of the professor, doctoral students may register for master’s level (3000-level) courses at the 4000 level. The academic requirements for these courses must be upgraded to doctoral level. Normally this will involve reading, research, and/or writing beyond that required for master’s level students, though the specific requirements are set by the professor, according to the student’s areas of interest. D.Min. students may upgrade no more than two-thirds of their courses; Ph.D. students are limited to two upgraded 3000-level courses. Master’s level students may not upgrade 3000-level courses to 4000 level.

Auditing Courses

Students wishing to audit classes may do so only with the professor’s approval and upon payment of the applicable fee. Having paid a reduced fee, an auditor does not have participating privileges in the class except by arrangement with the professor. Individual faculty members set audit requirements for their courses and are not expected to read an auditor’s written work if they have not required it. All fulltime degree students may audit one course per semester without charge. Students enrolled for less than 12 units will be billed for the standard audit fee at the time of registration. Ph.D. students maintaining Continuous Registration after completing all required course work may audit courses free up to a maximum of 32 units of audit credit. Students must be current on all financial accounts with the School in order to take advantage of free audits.

Claremont School of Theology alumni/ae, persons over the age of sixty-five and spouses/partners of a degree candidate who are not also enrolled in a Claremont School of Theology degree program or enrolled as a non-degree student, may register as auditors in any course with the payment of the current special audit fee and all other required fees, with the approval of the instructor and up to a limit of five such registrants in any one course.

Persons currently serving as Teaching Pastors (or Supervising Mentors) in Claremont School of Theology Field Education programs may register as auditors without charge, subject to approval of the professor.

Continuing Education Units

The School offers Continuing Educations Units (CEUs) in accordance with the Western Association of Schools and Colleges standards. The institution maintains records which describe the nature, level, and quantity of service provided through non-credit instruction and awards of CEUs following national standards and guidelines for measurement (one CEU for 10 hours of instruction).

Continuing Educations Units are ordinarily offered when the course, workshop, or other program is a regular academic program of the school. This means that the program has been approved by the faculty and involves either regular faculty or an approved visiting or adjunct professor. The successful completion of the hours and the expectations for CEUs will be reported by the faculty of record on the appropriate form, and recorded by the Registrar. Courses taken on an audit basis may be reported and recorded as CEUs. Persons who desire CEUs for an audit course must first seek agreement of the professor. The student may then register for the course on a CEU basis.
Affiliated institutions requesting Claremont School of Theology CEUs must submit a curriculum description or design to the Associate Dean of Lifelong Learning at least 60 days before the CEUs are desired. Such a proposal should include the number of contact hours and the Claremont School of Theology professor of record. Persons registering for such CEUs will pay a fee for the initiation and maintenance of the CEU records.

Continuous Registration
Students must be registered every semester during each academic year from the date of initial enrollment until graduation or termination. If no courses are being taken in a semester, students must register for Continuous Registration. Students who do not register for courses or for Continuous Registration will be terminated from their program unless they have an approved Leave of Absence. Nonpayment of Continuous Registration fees constitutes non-enrollment and terminates the student’s status at the School. Students are not charged Continuous Registration fees after their work for the degree is completed when this occurs between scheduled graduations.

Directed Studies
Students wishing to engage in study in a subject not offered through scheduled courses may consider enrolling in a Directed Study with a School faculty member. A Directed Study is a coherent, well-defined, and substantive reading and research projects supervised by a faculty member, usually resulting in a major written document. It offers the student the opportunity to explore in detail a carefully defined area of special concern, as well as a chance to work under the close supervision of a faculty member.

Except for denominational studies, Directed Studies are not available through adjunct faculty. No Directed Studies will be offered on a subject similar to that being taught in a regular course during the same academic year. Directed Studies may not be used to meet required M.Div. They may only be used for free electives. In consultation with the faculty member directing the study, the student must complete a Directed Study Proposal form available from the Registrar.

Guidelines for Directed Studies include the following: the student shall be expected to complete a minimum of 135 hours of reading and consultation for 3 units of credit and a minimum of 180 hours of reading and consultation for 4 units of credit; students should meet four to six times for seminar sessions with the professor of record; a major paper should be required in connection with the study, or a series of critical reviews of reading material should be required (in some cases instructors may want to require both). Total units and distribution of Directed Study are limited within programs as follows:

- M.Div. 9 units; no more than 6 in a single area
- M.A. 6 to 8 units; in one or more areas
- D.Min. 8 units
- Ph.D. 8 units

Minimum Enrollment in a Course
Classes must have five students enrolled for credit. If there are not five students enrolled at the end of the registration period, the Dean may cancel the course.

Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE)
Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE) is offered through the Association for Clinical Pastoral Education, Inc. (ACPE) throughout the U.S. and in several other countries. Information about these Centers is available at http://www.acpe.edu and from the professors of Spiritual Care and Counseling. Clinical Pastoral Education can be undertaken... independently of a student’s degree program. Except for students in the clinical spiritual care track, no academic credit is granted to Ph.D students for CPE.

If a student desires academic credit, one successfully completed basic unit of CPE (4000) hours in a center accredited by ACPE is awarded up to six units of academic credit upon approval by a member of the Spiritual Care and faculty. Prior to enrolling in CPE, the student must consult with a member of the Spiritual Care and Counseling faculty to determine if the program is accredited and acceptable for possible credit. Students must follow all registration procedures as for any course. The initials of a faculty person from the Spiritual Care and Counseling faculty must appear on the registration form prior to the student entering CPE. Students pay Claremont School of Theology tuition for up to six academic units and the School pays the CPE fees to the student’s center out of the tuition paid. M.Div students who do not intend to enter parish ministry may choose, with the approval of their advisor and one of the professors in Spiritual Care and Counseling, to take one unit of CPE (6 units of academic credit) to satisfy their field education requirement. See Master of Divinity Degree program for more information.

Procedure for Enrollment in CPE

• Prior to enrollment, all students (doctoral-level and master’s-level) must consult with a member of the Spiritual Care and Counseling faculty to determine if the program is accredited and acceptable for possible credit. M.Div. students desiring to take CPE to meet their field-based learning requirement must first meet with the Director of Field Education, who will work with the student to discern the appropriateness of such a substitution. Upon agreement that the student should proceed with the substitution, the student will document communication with their ordaining body about their intent to substitute CPE for other field education. Students must gain the approval of their faculty advisor and one of the professors of Spiritual Care and Counseling. The student must also secure a Field Placement Covenant, available from the Director of Field Education. M.A. students who wish to take CPE or other field-based learning for elective credit should consult with their faculty advisor. They must also have permission of one of the professors of Spiritual Care and Counseling on their registration form.

• Students make their own arrangements for placement at an ACPE accredited training program. If accepted for training, the student submits a copy of the admission letter to the Registrar and fills out a Registration Form. CPE is evaluated only on a CR/NC basis. The student must register at the School before beginning CPE if the student desires academic credit. One of the professors of Spiritual Care and Counseling serves as faculty of record. For M.Div. students taking CPE to meet their field education requirement, the Director of Field Education, who signs the student’s Field Placement Covenant for CPE, becomes the faculty of record. In other cases, the Registrar assigns one of the Spiritual Care and Counseling professors to be faculty of record.

• The student requests each CPE supervisor to send a copy of the supervisor’s evaluation and of the student’s self evaluations to the Office of the Registrar as soon as they are completed. When the evaluations are received by the Registrar, they are read by the faculty of record to determine whether or not academic credit shall be granted. Normally, the CPE supervisor’s certification of a unit as successfully completed will earn the student academic credit.

• The evaluations become part of the student’s restricted record and are kept in the Registrar’s files. Academic credit can be issued for up to 6 units in the following areas:
For any student, 6 units of Electives as approved by appropriate faculty.
For M.Div. students, 6 units of Field Education or Advanced Field Education elective (approved by the Director of Field Education and Contextual Learning).
For master’s or doctoral students specializing in clinical spiritual care, 6 units of required clinical education.
Curricular Prerequisite for All Degree Programs: English Language Skills
All entering students must take the English Composition Exam during orientation. The staff of the Writing and Speech Center will evaluate these examinations and notify the Registrar and the Dean of appropriate recommendations. Remedial studies may be assigned. Students may be required to work with the Writing Center or enroll in TPR2008 Writing Workshop. Students required to enroll in TPR2008 Writing Workshop must enroll every semester until they receive a passing grade. Students for whom English is a second language are required to enroll in TPR2006 Oral Communication for International Students and TPR2007 Writing and Reading Comprehension for International Students during their first semester at Claremont School of Theology. If an enrolled student is not capable of functioning effectively in the English language, any professor may refer him or her to the Director of the Writing and Speech Center for assistance and possible evaluation. The Dean, in consultation with the Director of the Writing and Speech Center and student’s faculty advisor, may require such an evaluation and determine whether more work in English will be required of the student. If further work is recommended or required, referral will be made to writing programs at Claremont School of Theology or Claremont Graduate University, or a student may be suspended from Claremont School of Theology courses until her or his English language skills have reached the expected level of proficiency.

Entering or enrolled students who are required to take an English course at Claremont School of Theology or Claremont Graduate University must take the class for credit. They may not audit. However, the units may not be applied toward any degree program. These units are an additional requirement similar to prerequisite classes which are not applied to the degree program.

Languages (other than Biblical Languages)
Students who are planning to apply for Ph.D. programs should be aware that most doctoral programs in the humanities and social sciences require students to pass reading examinations in modern research languages such as French and German. Furthermore, particular languages are required for advanced work in many specializations in theological and religious studies. Master’s students who want to pursue further study are advised to consult the requirements listed below in each field regarding language requirements and to begin or continue appropriate language study while at the master’s level.
THE MASTER OF ARTS PROGRAM

The Master of Arts (M.A.) program seeks to combine academic excellence with the goal of preparing students for further graduate study as well as providing opportunities for general education. The Claremont School of Theology M.A. program is informed by the history of Christian reflection and practice, by deep and open dialogue between religious traditions, and by the quest to understand and respond constructively to the contemporary world. It presupposes the need for scholars and religious leaders who are able to positively engage the needs of the world through an understanding of past traditions, present dialogue, and a continuing quest for understanding and wisdom.

The M.A. is a 56-unit degree that offers breadth and depth of preparation in a variety of areas within a flexible structure that encourages student initiative and responsibility, supports vocational and intellectual exploration and development, and provides specific milestones for monitoring student progress through the degree. The program may be used to prepare for advanced graduate training in religious and/or theological studies, for various forms of religious leadership and ministry, and for general education and enrichment.

Master of Arts Degree Program Learning Outcomes
Master of Arts graduates of CST will be able to:
1. Demonstrate academic competence in the chosen field of study.
2. Understand the diversity of religious cultures.
3. Articulate the significance of their academic work for the broader community.
4. Demonstrate an understanding of the ethical issues in the chosen field of study.

M.A. Curriculum Requirements
The Master of Arts curriculum combines training in academic content and methods, in the research skills appropriate to the study of religion and the various theological disciplines, and in the knowledge and sensitivity necessary for teachers and ministers to engage in dialogue across cultures and religions. All graduates are expected to acquire both breadth and depth of preparation in relation to their overall degree objectives. Breadth is established by taking a wide range of survey courses in the theological disciplines. Depth is probed in the final summative exercise.

The M.A. is divided into three options. Students may choose: Option A to explore the breadth of Theological Studies, Option B to focus on a specific Theological Discipline, or Option C which is Interdisciplinary. Each option has its own set of required courses. All students choosing Option A must declare whether they are in the Academic Track or the Ministry Studies track on the application for admission so the student can be properly advised from the beginning of their program. All students choosing Option B must declare the area of concentration they intend to study on the application for admission. Upon approval of one’s academic advisor and before completion of 28 units of study, students in Option B may switch to Option A, Option C, or to a different concentration within Option B by informing the registrar. Switching options however, may lengthen a student’s time for degree completion which may also impact the student's financial aid.

All M.A. students must complete a summative exercise. Dependent upon the concentration, the summative exercise may be a master’s thesis, a major paper, a project, a clinical case study, or the final assignment of a capstone course.
If a student can demonstrate that s/he has already taken a required basic course, the student can, with permission of a faculty member in the field, replace the required basic course with an advanced course in the same field.

OPTION A: M.A. WITH A CONCENTRATION IN THEOLOGICAL STUDIES

This concentration provides a general introduction to the theological disciplines. There are two tracks within Option A:

1. Academic Track. The Academic Track provides a general introduction to the theological disciplines. It offers both breadth and depth of study and is appropriate preparation for future Ph.D. studies.

2. Ministry Studies Track. The Ministry Studies track helps prepare persons for positions of professional ministry and other forms religious leadership in settings where a graduate degree is preferred, but an M.Div. degree is not required. It can also be configured to meet the requirements for Deacon's Orders in The United Methodist Church and Apprentice Track for the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ). NOTE: the M.A. (Option A – Ministry Studies Track) is very flexible and can be configured to meet the requirements of other denominations. If students will be taking it in partial fulfillment of the educational requirements for ordination, commissioning, or licensure, they should seek guidance from the licensing body of their denomination in designing their specific program of study.

Option B: M.A. with Concentration in Religious Education
The M.A. concentration in religious education provides students in the theoretical and applied aspects of religious education in faith communities and other non-profit organizations. Students have the opportunity to focus in courses offered in religious education, spiritual formation, and interreligious education to shape a program focused on their educational goals and related to the broader field of theological studies. The program is designed to be responsive to the educational needs of local religious, social and cultural contexts, as well as the vocational goals of the student. The program can be configured to meet the requirement for Deacon’s Orders in the United Methodist Church. This concentration adequately prepares students for future Ph.D. studies.

 Field Education is recommended for students with no previous educational experience.

Option B: M.A. with Concentration in Spiritual Care or Spiritually Integrative Counseling

Students in spiritual care and counseling can focus their studies in either spiritual care or spiritually integrative counseling. The requirements for both concentrations are the same except for the requirements in clinical education.

1. Clinical Spiritual Care Concentration. This concentration prepares students for chaplaincies and for ministries in public and private service settings (for example, shelters and other residential services, social service agencies, programs for specific populations, such as the aging). Students concentrating in Spiritual Care take their clinical education in clinical pastoral education (CPE) programs affiliated with the Association of Clinical Pastoral Education, Inc. Some employment settings and organizations require certification by the Association of Professional Chaplains, which may involve additional coursework and/or ACPE units (see http://www.professionalchaplains.org/ for specific standards).

2. Spiritually Integrative Counseling Concentration. This concentration prepares students to provide spiritually-informed counseling and psychoeducational services in congregations, agencies, and other settings. The track offers students preparation to offer counseling informed by spirituality, theology and religion. Students concentrating in Spiritually Integrative Counseling take their clinical education at The Clinebell Institute for Pastoral Counseling and Psychotherapy, located on the CST campus. Students normally gain sufficient clinical and supervisory hours to apply for certified member status in the American Association for Pastoral Counselors (http://www.aapc.org); some employment settings and organizations require additional coursework, clinical experience, and/or state licensure.

Deacon’s Orders in The United Methodist Church: Master of Arts students concentrating in Spiritual Care or Spiritually Integrative Counseling who wish to prepare for Deacon’s Orders in the United Methodist Church must also complete the following courses:

- TWP3015 Introduction to Worship and the Arts - 3 units
- TDS3023 United Methodist History and Polity - 3 units
- TDS3000 United Methodist Doctrine - 3 units
- TDS3039 Evangelism & Mission in the Wesleyan Tradition - 3 units

Because of their courses in United Methodism, M.A. students concentrating in Spiritual Care or Spiritually Integrative Counseling who are also United Methodist deacon candidates complete only 6 units of electives in the discipline. Their total units for the degree would be 57 units unless they chose to take their UM requirements elsewhere.

Clinical Education Requirements for the Spiritual Care Track

Students on the Spiritual Care track are required to take two ACPE units of Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE) (totaling 12 degree program credits) during the first and second years of study.

Students are responsible to enroll in an ACPE accredited CPE program. These programs often follow a schedule different from the School’s academic calendar. Fees charged by the CPE Center are paid by the school out of the student’s tuition.

Joint M.Div./M.A. students concentrating in Spiritual Care are required to take 1 unit of CPE; students register for the course SC301 Clinical Pastoral Education, for 6 units of degree program credit.

Clinical Education Requirements for Spiritually Integrative Counseling Track

Successful completion of one unit of CPE in a program accredited by the Association of Clinical Pastoral Education, with an evaluation acceptable to the faculty in the field of spiritual care is required before students may begin their Clinical Education. Students concentrating in Spiritually Integrative Counseling serve as Interns at The Clinebell Institute for Pastoral Counseling and Psychotherapy (TCI). No other placements are allowed, except those arranged by TCI. Clinical training begins in late August (the week prior to the School’s fall orientation of new students) with a required three-day staff meeting and orientation. Training continues for a full calendar year, unless the student is graduating. Students are expected to complete their required training without interruption.

The clinical training program at TCI does not follow the academic calendar; due to the intensive nature of the training and the needs of clients, students are on a year-round schedule and continue to serve their clients during school breaks, though vacation times are arranged through TCI. If students’ training must be interrupted due to unforeseen life circumstances, students must make up the time missed within 1 year from the time of interruption. In addition to the weekly meeting time, students schedule clinical work, research and study in preparation for clinical service, individual and group supervision, and other training meetings as required. Due to the high cost of supervision and other training expenses, additional fees are charged for SC3041A, SC3041B, SC3042A, and SC3042B. The amount of these fees is indicated in the registration materials for each semester. These fees are normally not covered by scholarship, but can be included in the overall financial aid package. The fee for the 2011-2012 academic year is $1,300 per semester.

- LSC3041B (Spring, 1st year) 3 units

Required Training Psychotherapy: The effective and ethical practice of spiritually integrative counseling depends upon the caregiver’s continual cultivation of emotional and spiritual resources, self-knowledge, and ability to use herself or himself for the care of others. Therefore, students concentrating in Spiritually integrative counseling are required to be in psychotherapy during their clinical education. Students indicate that they have begun this requirement by requesting that a letter be sent by their therapist to the The Clinebell Institute Training Director indicating that the psychotherapy has begun.

Option B: M.A. with Concentration in Spiritual Formation

The M.A. concentration in Spiritual Formation offers students an opportunity to focus on theoretical and applied aspects of the formation of a life of engaged compassion that views Christianity as a spiritual path consisting of three integrated dimensions: the contemplative dimension, the dimension of relational and personal restoration and vitality, and the dimension of social healing and transformation. Courses within the concentration explore the deepening of personal experiences of ultimate/sacred compassion, the cultivation of active compassion toward oneself and others, and expressions of transformative, compassionate activity in and for the world (social systems and structures, cultures, and the ecological sphere) -- all grounded in contemplative practice. The concentration in Spiritual Formation prepares persons for further academic work in areas related to spiritual formation, spirituality studies, social healing and reconciliation, and for spiritual leadership in society and communities of faith.

The summative exercise, such as a major research paper, project, or master’s thesis, as approved by advisor, must be completed within the final 2 semesters of enrollment.

OPTION C: M.A. WITH A CONCENTRATION IN INTERDISCIPLINARY OR COMPARATIVE STUDIES

The M.A. with a concentration in Interdisciplinary or Comparative Studies is a 56-unit degree program for those who desire to study the integration of two or more fields. It is a flexible degree that allows students to personalize a course of advanced study in multiple areas of interest, one of which must be religious in nature. These fields of study will be listed on the student’s academic transcript. The culmination of this degree is a summative exercise which usually takes the form of a Master’s thesis.

Core Required Courses – 8 units

Interreligious Studies:
- LIR3001 Interreligious Dialogue and Leadership 3 units
- LIR3XXX Elective in Interreligious Studies 3 units
- LIS3075 A/B Research Colloquium 2 units

This two-class sequence helps students prepare for their final summative exercise, which can be a master’s thesis, a major paper or a project.

Free Electives - 48 units
In consultation with one’s faculty advisor, the student will design a program appropriate to the student’s interests and future career goals.

Alternatives to Required Basic Courses
If a student can demonstrate that s/he has already taken a required basic course, s/he can, with permission of a faculty member in the field, replace the required basic course with an advanced course in the same field.

M.A. Summative Exercise and Oral Examination
Most concentrations within the MA degree require a major research paper, project, or master’s thesis at the culmination of the program.

Generally, the major paper is 30-40 pages in length (7,500 - 10,000 words), excluding bibliography, appendices, table of contents, etc. It may be completed in connection with a course or directed study during the third or fourth semester of the program.

A thesis is generally 50-60 pages long, excluding bibliography, appendices, table of contents, and so forth. Compared to the major research paper, the thesis makes a more substantial contribution to the field of study and includes a well defined research question and is organized around a well-articulated thesis using a recognized methodology. The distinguishing features of the research paper and thesis will be covered in the M.A. Research Colloquium. Note that the thesis will not be bound and included in the library collections.

Some M.A. concentrations allow for completion of a project (often with an accompanying paper) for the summative exercise.

As noted above, for students in Spiritual Care or Spiritually Integrated Counseling, the summative exercise usually consists of a clinical case study. For students in the Ministry Studies track, the summative exercise is a final paper in the capstone course, Vocational Praxis.

Guidance Committee
The student, in consultation with his or her advisor, should form an appropriate guidance committee of two persons. The committee must have at least one member from the Claremont School of Theology faculty. The chair may be a member of the CLU, CST, AJR/CA or CGU School of Religion faculty.
The Master of Divinity (M.Div.) program combines academic excellence with spiritual formation and social engagement to prepare religious leaders for vocations in a variety of types of ministry. It combines training in academic content and methods, in the knowledge and sensitivity necessary for dialogue across cultures and religions, and in the diverse skills that together constitute the arts of ministry.

The Claremont M.Div. program is informed by the history of thought and practice within Christianity, by deep and open dialogue with other religious traditions, and by the quest to understand and respond constructively to the contemporary world. It presupposes that men and women can exercise responsible leadership only when they combine an intimate knowledge of their own traditions, a deep engagement with today’s social and political realities, openness to a variety of forms of spiritual practice and insight, and an appropriate set of dialogical and critical thinking skills. The program does not dichotomize between “sacred” and “secular” knowledge and skills: a variety of exegetical and historical methods are crucial for interpreting theologies and biblical texts, and professional ministry may require advanced skills in clinical psychology, public speaking, administration, and the arts.

The M.Div. is an 81-unit degree that prepares degree candidates for positions of professional ministry. In addition to the required courses, students may choose a concentration in a particular field of study. The statute of limitation for completion of the degree is 6 years. A student may petition the Committee on Academic Procedures to grant an extension.

Master of Divinity Degree Program Learning Outcomes

Master of Divinity graduates of the CST will be able to:

1) Demonstrate religious intelligence gained through the study of theological disciplines.
2) Engage in dialogue across cultures and religions.
3) Provide effective ministerial, community and/or public leadership.
4) Demonstrate ethical integrity in practices of ministry.

Prerequisites

All entering M.Div. students must either have completed a public speaking class in their undergraduate studies or complete a public speaking evaluation during orientation before enrolling in courses in worship and preaching. All entering students must take the English Composition Exam during orientation or during their first week at Claremont School of Theology. Remedial studies may be assigned.

Faculty Advisement

Each new student is assigned a faculty advisor by the Registrar. These assignments are made in consideration of the student’s interests and faculty load. The advisor’s main responsibility is to guide students through their program.

Change of Advisor

When students wish to change advisors, they seek agreement to this change from both their present advisor and the faculty member they desire to have as advisor. When agreement has been secured from the faculty members, students complete the Change of Advisor Request Form and submit it to the Registrar. Factors such as the number of advisees a faculty member has and extracurricular responsibilities that the faculty member holds may prohibit a faculty member from agreeing to serve as advisor. The Vice President of Academic Affairs and Dean regulates the workflow of the faculty and may request that a faculty member not accept further advisees.

Master of Divinity Degree Requirements
The M.Div. degree is an 81-unit program. The core curriculum combines foundations in theological studies with courses that constructively integrate theological knowledge and reflection with religious and ministerial practice. A special focus of the program is on spiritual and vocational formation. In the first semester, students learn spiritual practices for discerning their vocational goals and developing awareness of themselves and the world around them. During the second year, students work in Field Education under supervision in a specific religious setting. In the final semester, Vocational Praxis provides an opportunity to integrate learning with vocational goals in preparation for leadership in diverse contexts. Another unique aspect of the Claremont M.Div. is its emphasis on building knowledge of other religious traditions and developing competencies in interreligious and intercultural dialogue.

The requirements of the Master of Divinity program are as follows:

- TSF3024 Practicing Awareness and Discernment 3 units

In addition to the two required courses in Spiritual Care and Counseling, students seeking certification as a chaplain should work with one of the professors in Spiritual Care and Counseling to plan the 18 units of distribution electives and the 15 units of free electives to best prepare for a career in chaplaincy. Students successfully completing 18 units beyond the required 6 units in this field will have the concentration identified on their transcript.

Interreligious Studies concentration within the M.Div. degree:
In addition to the required “Interreligious Dialogue and Leadership” course and two additional requirements in Interreligious Studies, students intending a career in Interreligious education or advocacy should work with their advisor to best utilize the 18 units of distribution electives and the 15 units of free electives. Students successfully completing 15 units beyond the required 9 units in this field will have the concentration identified on their transcript.
Leadership in Social Justice Community Organizations concentration within the M.Div. degree:
In addition to the required “Introduction to Christian Ethics” and the “Leadership in Urban Contexts” courses, students intending to do social justice work within community organizations should work with a professor in Urban Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Society to plan the 18 units of distribution electives and the 15 units of free electives to best prepare for a career in an area of social justice. Students successfully completing 18 units beyond the two required classes listed above will have the concentration identified on their transcript.

Spiritual Formation for Engaged Compassion concentration within the M.Div. degree:
Those who are preparing for a career that focuses on the cultivation of compassion-based spiritual life for personal, interpersonal, and social healing and transformation should work with a professor in Spiritual Formation to best utilize the 18 units of distributive electives and the 15 units of free electives. Students successfully completing 21 units in the area, in addition to the required course, “Practicing Awareness and Discernment,” will have the concentration identified on their transcript.

Field Education
Field Education provides students an opportunity for theological reflection on the theory and practice of ministry in the context of an internship closely supervised by an experienced professional. Six units of field education are required for the M.Div. degree. All field placements are for the academic year only, and include a weekly on-campus reflective seminar, beginning in the Fall semester and continuing through the Spring semester. Enrollment in the Spring Field Education Seminar is contingent upon having successfully completed the Fall Seminar. No students may begin the field program for credit in January.

Each placement involves 10-12 hours per week for two semesters in an approved field setting, plus a weekly three-hour seminar. While many internships take place in congregational settings, placements in ecumenical agencies, social service advocacy organizations, para-church organizations, church camps, prisons, or other contexts can be negotiated with Director of Field Education or the Director of Urban Ministries. Students should check with their denomination to see if a congregational Field Education placement is required for ordination. Before enrolling in Field Education, students should complete the following courses: Practicing Contemplative Awareness and Discernment, History of World Christianity, Systematic Theology, Basic Aspects of the Hebrew Bible, Basic Aspects of the New Testament, Interreligious Dialogue and Leadership, and Religious Education.

Field Education Equivalencies: Students who enter the M.Div. program with considerable experience in a supervised internship setting that gave attention to theological reflection on the theory and practice of ministry may petition the Committee on Academic Procedures for a waiver of the required Field Education class. In order for a student to be exempt from Field Education, the petition must be signed by the Director of Field Education. Along with this petition, the student develops an Equivalency Profile for Field Education, documenting how the forms of theological reflection, practice, and supervision intended during field education have been accomplished. The student also must supply documentation of communication with her or his ordaining body regarding Field Education/Internship requirements for ordination. The student may request consideration of equivalency when the field-based learning in question is not more than five years old. Where the equivalency is granted, the student will be permitted to substitute two electives for the six units of field-based learning.

Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE)
Master of Divinity students may take Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE) for up to 6 units of free electives. M.Div. students desiring to take CPE to meet their field education requirement must first meet with the Director of Field Education, who will work with the student to discern the appropriateness of such a substitution. Upon agreement that the student should proceed with the substitution, any student considering ordination will document communication with their ordaining body about their intent to substitute CPE for field education. Students must gain the approval of their faculty advisor, the Director of Field Education and one of the professors of Spiritual Care and Spiritually Integrative Counseling.

Denominational Requirements
Various denominations require specific denominational courses, which students take with their elective units. Students are encouraged to work closely with their church leaders and with their academic advisors at Claremont to make sure that their particular program is tailored to the needs of their denomination and to their own particular interests.

Opportunities to fulfill denominational ordination requirements for The United Methodist Church, the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), the Episcopal Church in the U.S.A., the United Church of Christ, and the Metropolitan Community Church are available through the resources of Claremont School of Theology. The school will make special arrangements, as needed, to insure that all M.Div. students meet the academic requirements of their respective denominations.

Joint Master of Divinity/Master of Arts Program
Students pursuing pastoral ministry who want to acquire an in-depth concentration, as well as students seeking ordination but who expect to pursue Ph.D. studies, may want to consider the joint Master of Divinity/Master of Arts program. The Joint M.Div./M.A. is a 109-unit program that consists of two separate admissions processes, leading to two distinct degrees with the recipient receiving two diplomas. A student begins in the Master of Divinity program and then applies for the Master of Arts program at Claremont School of Theology or Claremont Lincoln University. The degrees are granted simultaneously at one graduation ceremony (not sequentially). The program is designed to have overlapping, shared credits between the M.Div. and M.A. programs. Students must have a GPA of at least 3.25 and complete their application for the joint degree after 45 and before 60 units of the M.Div. program have been completed (generally during the spring semester of the second year of studies). A detailed course plan approved by their advisor must also be submitted. Adherence to stated deadline is necessary because some students will need to enroll in CPE before entering their M.A. coursework.

Joint Master of Divinity Program Between Claremont School of Theology and the Episcopal Theological School of Claremont
Since 1990, the Episcopal Theological School at Claremont (ETSC, also known as Bloy House) and Claremont School of Theology have offered a Joint Master of Divinity degree. The degree is fully accredited by the Association of Theological Schools and the Western Association of Schools and Colleges. Students in the joint program must apply to and be accepted by both schools. A student may apply to both schools simultaneously or may apply to ETSC first and apply to Claremont School of Theology the semester before enrollment in the first Claremont School of Theology course. Acceptance by either school does not guarantee acceptance by the other. Students enrolled in the joint program are subject to the academic policies of both institutions.

Students in the Joint Master of Divinity program may choose to complete all courses at ETSC first and then take Claremont School of Theology courses. Or, if a student has been accepted by both schools s/he may take courses at both institutions concurrently. Transcripts will be maintained at both schools throughout the entire program. Transcripts maintained at ETSC will only include the course work completed for ETSC requirements; transcripts maintained at Claremont School of Theology will include course work completed at both schools.

Accepted students must participate in the diagnostic examinations in English. The diagnostic examination in Public Speaking is not required since students complete preaching requirements at ETSC.

The curriculum consists of the entire 63 unit ETSC curriculum and 18 units at Claremont School of Theology, totaling 81 units.

Joint Degree Course Requirements from ETSC:

Tuition for the units completed at the Episcopal Theological School at Claremont will be paid directly to ETSC. A student who has completed units at another seminary may transfer up to 32 units to the ETSC portion of the joint degree with the approval of the Dean. The units must be equivalent to those offered at ETSC.

Full time study at ETSC/Bloy House taking three courses per semester will result in completion of the 63 units of required course work for ETSC in four years. Students may take more than four years to complete the 63 units but must pay close attention to academic advisement regarding the order in which the courses must be taken to avoid scheduling conflicts. 18 units of Claremont School of Theology requirements is in addition to the 63 units at ETSC. The statute of limitations for completion of the Joint Master of Divinity degree is seven years.

Joint Degree Course Requirements from Claremont School of Theology
The Joint M.Div. requires a total of 81 credits: 63 credits taken at ETSC and 18 credits at Claremont School of Theology, comprised of the following:

- TSC3005 Cultivating Empowerment through Ecologies of Care: 3 units
  - (prerequisite: TEP1042)
- LIR3001 Interreligious Dialogue and Leadership 3 units
- TCE3080 Field Education I and II 6 units
- Free Electives 6 units

Total units at Claremont School of Theology 18 units

*ETSC students who participated in a Ministry Study Year (MSY) with a pre-approved mentor may be eligible for a Field Education waiver if, having completed the MSY, students have fulfilled the learning outcomes for CST’s Field Education classes:

1. Gained knowledge and skills for ministry leadership, including worship, education, pastoral care, administration, and outreach (or comparable areas in a non-congregational placement);
2. Learned how to integrate academic knowledge with the practice of ministry;
3. Strengthened their skills for forming and sustaining relationships;
4. Developed contextual awareness and cultural competence; and
5. Increased vocational and spiritual maturity.

This waiver would not eliminate any of the required hours of course work from CST but would allow the applicant to complete a greater proportion of their Claremont School of Theology required hours in free electives related to the particular interests and vocational goals of the student.

In order to assure attention to these learning outcomes, all MSY participants who wished to apply for a waiver for field education would be expected to attend two 2 hour ETSC integration seminars each semester. In addition, at the end of the study year MSY mentors would be required to write a letter to ETSC identifying the ways in which the student had been given the opportunity to develop skills in worship, education, pastoral care, administration, and outreach. ETSC would then certify to the field education office and the CST registrar that the criteria required for application for this waiver had been met.

The units completed at Claremont School of Theology are paid directly to Claremont School of Theology. Each required class will be offered in the evening at least every other year. Electives may be taken in the evening, during the day or on-line. None of the Claremont School of Theology requirements are offered on Saturday.

All ETSC students who are able to take additional courses during the week may consult with the ETSC Dean and Registrar about registering for Claremont School of Theology courses to fulfill ETSC requirements. This may facilitate completion of degree or certificate requirements on an accelerated schedule.
THE DOCTOR OF MINISTRY PROGRAM

The purpose of the Doctor of Ministry (D.Min.) program is to enhance the practice of ministry through advanced study. This 32-unit program offers opportunities for spiritual development as well as growth in knowledge and pastoral competency. Applicants to this program must have at least three years of experience in ministry subsequent to the applicant’s first graduate theological degree.

Doctor of Ministry Degree Program Learning Outcomes

Doctor of Ministry degree graduates of CST will be able to:

1. Demonstrate advanced knowledge of the chosen field(s) of study.
2. Show understanding of the intercultural aspects of the chosen fields of study.
3. Apply academic research to the practice of ministry.
4. Demonstrate ethical integrity in approaches to ministry.

Claremont School of Theology has two avenues for pursuing the D.Min. degree.

Mentoring Model: Students who enroll in the Mentoring D.Min. program attend weekly courses on campus during the regular academic year.

Intensive Cohort Model: Students interested in a shared area of study attend classes for two weeks in January interterm and in June. Preparation for courses begins two months prior to classes and assignments are due after the session concludes. CST currently is offering a cohort D.Min. in Practical Theology of Healing, Reconciliation and Transformation in Korean Contexts. (Note that the Cohort Model D.Min. requires a minimum number of students for the program to begin its three-year cycle.)

MENTORING DOCTOR OF MINISTRY PROGRAM

This program is designed for students to work closely with a faculty mentor throughout their coursework and the completion of their Professional Project. Early in the program, students choose a primary focus which involves one or more areas of the curriculum in which to concentrate their study. The focus of coursework as well as the culminating Professional Project will be related to the topic area. The D.Min. program concludes with a Professional Project designed to contribute to ministry, both in and beyond the student’s particular context. Course selection, assignments for particular classes, and design of directed studies should all be done with the area of concentration as well as the Professional Project in mind.

Early in the program, students choose a topic area in which to concentrate their study. The focus of coursework as well as the culminating Professional Project will be related to the topic area. The D.Min. program concludes with a professional Project thesis designed to contribute to ministry, both in and beyond the student’s particular context. Students in the program are most successful when they begin with this Project in mind. Course selection, assignments for particular classes, and design of directed studies should all be done with the area of concentration as well as the Project in mind. Students in the D.Min program attend weekly courses on campus during the regular academic year. This program is designed for students to work closely with a faculty mentor throughout their coursework and the completion of their Professional Project.
Faculty mentors are chosen by the student in the Admissions process. If the chosen mentor is not available, the student will be asked to choose another mentor. The term “mentor” designates a closer relationship than is ordinarily suggested by the term “advisor.” Not only does the mentor guide the student’s selection of courses and serve as the director or first reader of the D.Min. Project, but also at least two of the student’s courses are normally taken from the mentor. Further, when a course in the mentor’s area is needed by the student but not available during the student’s tenure at Claremont School of Theology, the mentor is expected to provide a Directed Study. (This expectation is limited to one such Directed Study per student.) A student may petition for a change of mentor but this decision should be made carefully so that the student’s completion of the Project is not delayed significantly. A change of mentor may be granted only if at least half of the student’s coursework remains. The petition for a change of mentor is submitted to the Director of the D.Min. program, who monitors the assignment of mentors to assure that the responsibilities for content and administrative mentoring are adequately accomplished and the mentoring responsibilities are fairly distributed throughout the faculty.

Degree Program Requirements

Course Requirements
Students choose a primary focus, which involves one or more areas of the curriculum. See below for requirements specific to a focus in Spiritual Care and Spiritually Integrative Counseling. The program consists of 32 units of course work distributed as follows:

Required Intensives – 4 units:
- TIS4003 Contexts of Ministry (1 week Summer intensive) 2 units
- TIS4005 D.Min. Thesis & Project Research Colloquium (January – 2 weeks) 2 units

Electives – 24 units:
- Electives in preparation for the Thesis/Project 24 units

Professional Project – 4 units
- TDI4098 Professional Project 4 units

Total – 32 units

At least one-half of the courses must be 4000-level courses (except those students focusing in the Worship, Preaching and Arts area), and all 3000-level courses must be upgraded to 4-unit courses with additional assignments suited to the D.Min. program. Up to 8 units may be taken as Directed Study.

There are two required intensives.
- “Contexts of Ministry” is a one-week, 2-unit course that convenes at the end of August before the regular fall semester courses begin.
- “D.Min. Thesis & Project Research Colloquium” is a two-week, 2-unit intensive that convenes during the January interterm. This colloquium assists with the writing of a Research Project proposal that begins the process towards the writing of the D.Min. Project.
Spiritual Care and Counseling Focus

For students who intend to elect a mentor from the Spiritual Care and Counseling faculty, completion of one unit of Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE) and a CPE evaluation acceptable to the faculty in Spiritual Care and Counseling are prerequisite for admission and for beginning the clinical education portion of their program. Additionally, students choose a clinical education track and dedicate 8 of their required 32 units to related coursework. There are two clinical education tracks in the Residential Mentoring D.Min. program:

Clinical Spiritual Care: In addition to the prerequisite CPE unit students are required to complete 2 additional units of Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE). Students are responsible to enroll in an ACPE-accredited CPE program. Proof of acceptance into an ACPE program is required for registration. CPE often follows a schedule different from the School’s academic calendar. Fees charged by the CPE Center are paid by the School out of the student’s tuition. Students in this track meet their clinical requirements by registering for the course Clinical Pastoral Education as follows:

- LSC4001 (1st unit of CPE, 4 units of program credit, preferably taken during the first year of study)
- LSC4002 (2nd unit of CPE, 4 units of program credit)

Spiritually Integrative Counseling and Psychotherapy: Students are required to complete 12 months of training as Pastoral Psychotherapy Residents at The Clinebell Institute for Pastoral Counseling and Psychotherapy (TCI). No other placements are allowed, except those arranged by TCI. Clinical training begins in late August with a required three-day staff meeting and orientation. Training continues for a full calendar year, unless the student graduates. Students are expected to complete their required training without interruption. The clinical training program at TCI does not follow the academic calendar. Due to the intensive nature of the training and the needs of clients, students are on a year-round schedule and continue to serve their clients during school breaks, though vacation times are arranged through TCI. If students’ training must be interrupted due to unforeseen life circumstances, students must make up the time missed within 1 year from the time of interruption. In addition to the weekly meeting time, students schedule clinical work, research and study in preparation for clinical service, individual supervision, and other training meetings as required. Due to the high cost of supervision and other training expenses, additional fees are charged: $1300 billed for LSC4041A, LSC4041B, LSC4042A, and LSC4042B. These fees are normally not covered by scholarship. Students in this track meet their clinical requirements by registering for the course Spiritually Integrative Psychotherapy Residency as follows:

- LSC4041A (Fall 1st year, 4 units)
- LSC4041B (Spring 1st year, 4 units)
- LSC4041C (Summer 1st year, 0 units)

Required Psychotherapy: The effective and ethical practice of Spiritual Care and Counseling depends upon the caregiver’s continual cultivation of emotional and spiritual resources, self-knowledge, and ability to use herself or himself for the care of others. Therefore, students concentrating in Spiritually Integrative Counseling and Psychotherapy are required to be in psychotherapy during their clinical education. Students indicate that they have begun this requirement by requesting that a letter be sent by their therapist to the TCI Training Director indicating that the psychotherapy has begun.

2011-12 CATALOG 91
Doctor of Ministry Committee

The D.Min. Committee oversees the Professional Project and is comprised of the student’s mentor and one additional faculty person (second reader). The student’s mentor serves as the chair of this committee. In preparation for the D.Min. Colloquium, and in consultation with the student’s mentor, the student should secure the agreement of one additional faculty person to serve on this committee. With the approval of the Dean, an adjunct professor may be designated to serve as the second reader. Should the student be unable to find an additional faculty person for the committee, the Dean will appoint one.

Doctor of Ministry Colloquium

The purpose of the D.Min. Colloquium is to:

- Instruct students in form, style, documentation and research methods necessary for a successful research project;
- Orient students to the various requirements of the Professional Project, and
- Assist students in formulating a preliminary draft of their Research Project proposal.

In the semester following the Colloquium, students will finalize their proposal with their faculty committee members and receive approval to proceed with the research Project.

Doctor of Ministry Professional Project

The Professional Project may be one or the other of two basic types:

1. An integration of one of the disciplines of Bible, History, Theology, Ethics, or World Religions and one of the disciplines of Religious Education, Spiritual Care, Spiritually Integrative Counseling, Spiritual Formation, Administration, Preaching and Worship, Urban Ministry or the Arts. In this case, the committee is composed of readers from each discipline focused in the mentor’s area only, in which case the second reader could come from any area.
2. If the Project is written in Bible, History, Theology, Ethics, or World Religions, it must show the relevance of the topic for the practice of religious traditions and ministry, as mandated by the Association of Theological Schools (ATS).

The Professional Project is to be 20,000 to 25,000 words (80 to 100 pages) in length, excluding Table of Contents, Bibliography, and Appendices (charts, graphs, etc.). Registration for the D.Min. Project is limited to one semester.

All Professional Projects must meet specified editorial standards and be microfilmed and digitized for distribution by ProQuest. Two bound paper copies will be deposited in the library.

Readmission to the Resident Mentoring D.Min.

If a student has exceeded the time limit to complete the D.Min degree and has been terminated from the D.Min. program, he or she may petition for readmission.

- Prior to petitioning for readmission, the student must find a faculty member willing to be the mentor to the student.
The student, in consultation with the proposed mentor, will form a D.Min. Project Committee.

Having fulfilled these conditions, the student may apply for readmission to the School.

Readmission will be granted upon: 1) Constitution of the D.Min. Project Committee; and 2) Payment of Continuous Registration fees and accrued late charges for all the intervening semesters.

Depending on the judgment of the mentor and Project committee, the student may be required to take additional courses. No faculty member is under obligation to direct a student whose program was terminated.

INTENSIVE COHORT DOCTOR OF MINISTRY

D.Min. in Practical Theology of Healing, Reconciliation and Transformation in Korean Contexts

This program is specifically designed for Korean and Korean American religious professionals who work in Korean contexts. Faculty from CST with teaching experience in previous Korean D.Min. programs as well as other Korean and Korean American scholars from other theological schools have been brought together to teach in this program. This program arises from the contemporary Korean church context in which rapid social changes result in many forms of individual, familial, congregational, and social conflicts. The prevalence of such conflicts in Korean and Korean American society results in the current burgeoning “industry” of counseling and healing ministries in Korean communities. Many Korean churches, however, adopt traditional forms of healing ministry such as revivals, retreats, and worship services. These tend to be highly individualistic without accounting for the larger sociocultural context out of which these conflicts arise. This proposed D.Min. program, therefore, emphasizes contextual analyses. It presents a critical and systematic understanding of conflicts and healing, a critical reflection of the interface between theory and praxis, and acquisition of integrated practical and theological skills and competence.

The D.Min. includes the equivalent of one full year of academic study (10 courses for 30 units) and the design and completion of a Project (2 units). The Project will address both the nature and practice of ministry. It will be required to be of sufficient quality that it contributes to the practice of ministry as judged by professional standards and has the potential for application in other contexts of ministry.

Program Learning Outcomes
Upon successful completion of the program, students will be able to:

- Develop and articulate a theology of healing, reconciliation and transformation based on specified theological and social science disciplines.
- Perform pastoral care for healing, reconciliation and transformation of individuals and congregations through ministerial practices acquired through this program.
- Apply methods of practical theology and qualitative research for critical understanding and analysis of ministerial situations and relationships.
- Embody continuity of personal religious beliefs concerning healing, reconciliation and transformation with a sense of vocation, spiritual practice, and ethical integrity.
Course Requirements and Schedule

Ten courses are required for completion of coursework. Each session offers two courses offered on campus (in June) or in Korea (in January). The following course offering may be revised based on institutional needs.

1. Introduction to a Practical Theological Approach to Conflict and Reconciliation
2. A Crosscultural and Theological Approach to Healing, Reconciliation and Transformation
3. Gender Related Conflicts, Healing and Transformation in the Korean Church
4. Interpreting Conflict, Healing and Reconciliation in the Bible
5. Healing and Transformation through Preaching and Worship
6. Healing Relationships in Conflict: Marital Education and Therapy
7. History, Theology, and Application of Small Group Ministries to the Ministry of Healing
8. Group Dynamics and Small Group Care and Counseling toward Healing
9. Research Methodologies
10. Project Seminar

The D.Min. Program begins with a required one-day Orientation.

Doctor of Ministry Colloquium

During each session, a special time is set aside when students meet with the Director of the program to discuss their academic and professional needs and concerns as they relate to this degree program. A website is also maintained for the students in this program to address their academic and programmatic needs (http://cafe.daum.net/cstdmin).

Doctor of Ministry Professional Project Committee

By the completion of 12 units, a student will seek out two faculty persons to serve on their D.Min. Project Committee. The student must ask one faculty person to chair the committee and be the “First Reader.” The second faculty member will serve as the “Second Reader.” All teaching faculty in the Korean D.Min. may be either the First Reader or Second Reader. If the First Reader is an adjunct faculty member, the Second Reader must be a full-time Claremont faculty person. The Claremont faculty person will ensure that the Claremont standard of excellence, procedures and policies are followed. Should the student be unable to find a first or second reader, the Director of the Doctor of Ministry program will appoint one.

Doctor of Ministry Professional Project

The Project shall include the following:

- Students must design and complete a written doctoral-level Project that addresses both the nature and practice of ministry.
- The Project must be of sufficient quality that it contributes to the practice of ministry and has the potential for application in other contexts of ministry.
- It must demonstrate the student’s ability to identify a specific theological topic in ministry around the theme of healing and transformation of conflict.
- Students must utilize an effective research model, use appropriate resources, and evaluate the results.
The Project must reflect the student’s depth of theological insight in relation to ministry.

These Project parameters will be introduced in orientation at the beginning of the program. Students will be encouraged to identify a Project topic within the first year of coursework and engage in peer review conversation. Preparation for the Project will be addressed in all courses. Courses will prepare students to identify research problems and questions, understand theoretical perspectives, access the relevant literature, and identify connections to the practice of ministry. Students are expected to integrate coursework, clinical training, and ministry experiences in the culminating Project.

The curriculum includes two required courses that will help students learn research methodology and design (Research Methodologies and Project Seminar). In the Project Seminar, students will develop a Project proposal through a peer-review process with supervision from the faculty and the program director. The final assignment of the Project Seminar is completion of a 10-page proposal (to be written in English) that will include:

- A statement of the problem or issue in the practice of ministry that is to be the subject of the culminating Project.
- A description of the context of the problem in the practice of ministry.
- The justification for the study: the need for it and the contributions it will make.
- Background information on the problem to be addressed.
- An explanation of the theoretical stance of the student-researcher.
- A discussion of appropriate research methods for the evaluation of the Project.
- A detailed tentative outline.
- A preliminary bibliography.

The Project is neither a Ph.D. dissertation nor a simple research paper. Students are to select a Project topic in their own ministry context. They must address the implications of their findings for the practice of ministry. The Project will be between 50 to 80 pages including bibliography. If written in Korean, students must prepare a 3-5 page abstract in English, which is bound with the paper.

All D.Min. Projects must meet specified editorial standards and be microfilmed and digitized for distribution by ProQuest. Two bound paper copies will be deposited in the library.

Supporting Materials in Korean

A list of supporting materials in both Korean and in English is being compiled on an ongoing basis as an EndNote file to assist both faculty and students in their teaching and research for this D.Min. program. Students may “view” the EndNote file without having to purchase the program since the demo version of the program is downloadable for free. The current library collection has not yet been combined with this EndNote file.

We are committed to increasing Korean language materials for the CST library and have arranged for students in Korea to have access to the Hyupsong University and Mokwon University libraries. Out-of-town students from Korea and across the United States have full access to CST library resources except borrowing privileges. Our students are able to download the full text of serial materials and do catalog searches like other students in other degree programs on campus. In Korea, an Amazon.com-like online bookstore is available (http://www.yes24.com/) that carries a significant amount of Korean and English materials.
DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY DEGREE

The Ph.D. degree prepares students for research, teaching in higher education, as well as professional leadership in religious traditions and society. This 48-unit degree program enables students to develop scholarly competence in a specialized field of study in the context of theological and religious studies disciplines. Students will engage the methodological and epistemological presuppositions of the field of concentration and will be capable of advancing the field through original research. The degree program emphasizes professional applicability of the field of research by correlating theoretical and practical knowing, by implementing critical reflection on professional theory and practices, and by engaging theological and empirical methods of scholarship. While specialized knowledge in a chosen field is the primary goal, students will also gain broad knowledge in the field of religion and dialogic competencies to engage constructively in contexts of diversity. The curriculum and pedagogy view religion as both source and subject for study and responsible action. The Ph.D. degree requires examinations in modern research languages, qualifying examinations, and the completion of a dissertation, as well as the unique requirements of each area.

Doctor of Philosophy Degree Program Learning Outcomes
Ph.D. degree graduates of Claremont Lincoln University will be able to:

1. Demonstrate a high level of competence in the subject matter of the chosen field.
2. Understand intercultural aspects of the chosen field.
3. Make scholarly contributions to the field.
4. Demonstrate an understanding of the ethical issues in the chosen field.

Claremont Lincoln University offers two Ph.D. programs with concentrations within each:

Ph.D. in Practical Theology
- Education and Formation has three tracks:
  - Spiritual Formation
  - Religious Education
  - Interreligious Education
- Spiritual Care and Counseling has three tracks:
  - Clinical Spiritual Care
  - ACPE Supervisory Track
  - Spiritually Integrative Psychotherapy

Ph.D. in Religion
- Hebrew Bible
- New Testament and Christian Origins
- Process Studies
- Religion, Ethics, and Society

Program Concentrations:
   Education and Formation (EF)
   Spiritual Care and Counseling (SCC)

Claremont School of Theology offers a Doctor of Philosophy in Practical Theology with two areas of concentration: Spiritual Care and Counseling or Education and Formation. Students applying to the Ph.D. in Practical Theology must have completed either a Master of Divinity degree or a master’s degree (ideally, in their chosen area of concentration, e.g. a master’s degree in Spiritual Care, Counseling, Religious Education, etc.). The Ph.D. in Practical Theology is a 48-unit degree. Both concentrations require examinations in modern research languages, qualifying examinations, and the completion of a dissertation. Requirements regarding English competency examinations, course requirements, language/research tools, and field work are outlined below.

COMMON REQUIREMENTS FOR THE PH.D. IN PRACTICAL THEOLOGY PROGRAM

Ph.D. Research Colloquium Intensive
The Ph.D. Research Colloquium Intensive is a one week course offered during the January Interterm that is taken by students during their first year of study. Early in their program, students receive intensive training on navigating library resources, adhering to particular standards of style, and appropriate documentation to assist them in writing expectations for doctoral study. Particular attention is given to The Chicago Manual of Style, as it is the standard used in all programs at Claremont Lincoln University. This intensive class covers research methods and resources as well as bibliographic styles and documentation.

Research Languages and Methods
All students must demonstrate competence in at least two languages relevant to their research. Students whose primary language is English must demonstrate competency in Spanish, Korean, French, or German. Students with other primary languages may count their primary language to fulfill this requirement, without examination. Students must also demonstrate competency in either an additional research language or an empirical research method appropriate to their proposed dissertation topic. This language or empirical research method is chosen in consultation with the student’s academic advisor. At least one of these requirements must be met before a student enrolls for the final 24 hours of course work. The second requirement must be completed before making application for qualifying examinations. Except as noted above, the research languages and methods requirements are met by examination or by taking an approved course. Courses taken to meet the research language or empirical research method requirements cannot be counted toward the academic units required for the degree program. Because it is a survey course, IS4022, Research Methods in Practical Theology, cannot be used to meet the requirement of a course in an empirical research method.
Qualifying Examinations

The primary purpose of qualifying examinations is to build and demonstrate broad knowledge in the areas of the examinations, the ability to think critically in these areas, and the ability to think deeply about particular issues and thinkers. More specifically, the process of qualifying examination research, preparation, and examination builds upon and goes beyond coursework, serves as foundational research for the dissertation, and prepares a student to teach in the areas of the exams.

Some of the areas of research and bibliography for the qualifying examinations are assigned by the faculty; in other areas, students and faculty negotiate research questions and bibliography for their exams. It is the faculty’s responsibility to require specific research questions and bibliography necessary to ensure comprehensive learning. It is students’ responsibility to formulate research questions and bibliography that, in addition to the three learning goals noted above, contextualize their study as appropriate to their dissertation interests, vocational goals, and other commitments.

The Dean, at his or her discretion, or upon the recommendation of the student’s advisor, may name an outside examiner to the qualifying examination committee. The outside examiner must 1) hold a Ph.D.; 2) have a faculty appointment at an accredited academic institution; 3) have competence for the student’s study not available on the faculty of Claremont Lincoln University, Claremont School of Theology, or Claremont Graduate University; and 4) be able to provide the exam according to program rubrics and procedures. The nomination of an examiner shall be made in conjunction with the student’s examination application.

Eligibility for Qualifying Exams

To be eligible to take qualifying examinations, the student must have completed all required units, and any 0-unit courses (except clinical education courses), the research intensive colloquium, and all requirements for research languages and methods. Students concentrating in Spiritual Care and Counseling must have completed at least half of their clinical education requirements to be eligible to take qualifying exams. It is expected that qualifying examinations are taken at Claremont. Students for whom this would present an extreme hardship may petition the Dean for alternative arrangements. An additional processing fee may be charged.

Form of Qualifying Exams

Students may elect a combination of papers and proctored examinations, though at least one proctored examination is required. In the case of the cognate area, papers always may be substituted for examinations where this is the examiner’s normal procedure. The proctored examinations are to be completed within a two-week period, and all written materials for qualifying examinations are to be submitted no more than two weeks and no less than one week before the oral defense. As part of the qualifying examinations, the student must submit to the Registrar, at least one week prior to the oral examination, a preliminary dissertation proposal (including at least a tentative title, a description of the problem to be researched, a thesis statement, and bibliography) for distribution to the examiners. Following the completion of the written examinations, the student will be examined at an Oral Defense.
Preparing and Applying for Qualifying Examinations

In consultation with her/his advisor, the student identifies desired areas of study for the qualifying examinations and the intended direction of the dissertation. The student and advisor also discuss the faculty most appropriate to guide and evaluate the exams as proposed. The student seeks the consent of a faculty person to conduct each examination.

Through ongoing consultation with the faculty members who have agreed to conduct the examinations, the student prepares questions and a bibliography for each examination or, in cases where the student prefers to prepare a paper and the faculty member gives approval, the student prepares a paper proposal, with a description of the literature or problem to be examined, outline, and bibliography.

When complete, the student submits to her or his advisor a copy of each proposed exam (questions and bibliography) and each paper proposal (outline and bibliography). During this period the student negotiates with the faculty members a date for the oral examination.

When the topics for the examinations have been approved by the student’s faculty, they certify their approval by signing Form #3, the Application for Ph.D. Qualifying Examinations. The student is responsible for circulating this form and, when complete, submitting it to the Registrar. The Application must be submitted to the Registrar at least two months before the date on which the proctored examinations are to begin. The Registrar and the student set the dates for the proctored examinations.

The student submits to the Registrar, at least one week prior to the oral examination, a preliminary dissertation proposal for distribution to the examiners including at least a tentative title, thesis, and bibliography.

Taking Qualifying Examinations

The process for taking qualifying examinations is as follows. For proctored examinations:

- The Registrar notifies the faculty committee members of the date by which the exams must be submitted.
- The faculty members write and submit the examinations to the Registrar.
- The Registrar reserves a place for the examinations to be written.
- The student reports to the Office of the Registrar on the days and times of the examinations. The Registrar is responsible for proctoring the examinations.

The student has the following options for taking the examinations:

- Write examinations by hand to be typed later. The Registrar provides the student a copy of the original examination. The student has twenty-four hours to get the examination typed and returned to the Registrar, making no changes from the original exam.
- Type examinations on a computer supplied by the School. In the event of mechanical failure, the student may petition the Dean to schedule a retake.

For paper exams, the student submits the papers to the Registrar at least one week prior to the oral exam or earlier, if required by the professors.
The Registrar sends to each professor copies of the proctored examinations, any papers written, and the preliminary draft of the dissertation proposal. The original copy of each examination is to be filed in the student’s permanent file.

Oral Qualifying Examination

Not earlier than one week and not later than two weeks after the written portion of the qualifying examinations is completed, an oral examination, approximately two hours in length, is conducted by the faculty guiding the student’s qualifying exam process. The purpose of the oral examination is to determine the student’s ability to discuss and defend the written material in greater depth and breadth and to demonstrate sufficient mastery to proceed with a dissertation. In cases involving conditional written work, the oral examination serves to clarify the appropriate conditions. When time allows, the preliminary dissertation proposal will be discussed. Generally, the examining committee operates on the basis of consensus. When a vote is required, two votes are necessary to delay the student. An outside examiner, if appointed, does not have the right of veto over other members of the committee. Any member of the examining committee, including the outside examiner, may appeal the vote to the Dean.

Evaluation of Written and Oral Qualifying Examinations

The student’s written and oral examinations are evaluated as Excellent or Satisfactory (Passed), Conditional Pass, or Unsatisfactory (Failed). The Report on Qualifying Examinations (Form #4) is completed by the student’s examiners. In the case of a Conditional Pass, if further work is required, the examiners will state these requirements in the report. The student must complete the work no later than by registration day one year after the exam was attempted, or an examiner may choose to specify an earlier date. If the student satisfactorily meets the conditions for the Conditional Pass, the student submits Form #5, Removal of Conditional Pass on Qualifying Examinations. If a student does not satisfactorily complete the condition, the examination is designated as failed. In cases of failing the written or oral examinations, the student may be permitted (on recommendation of the examiners) to take a second examination after a lapse of a stipulated period of time, not less than three months nor more than one calendar year after the first examination. If the results of the second examination are unsatisfactory, no further examinations are permitted except upon the recommendations of the examiners to, and the approval of, the full faculty.

Eligibility for M.A. Degree

Ph.D. students are eligible for the M.A. degree upon successful completion of the qualifying examinations. Students must indicate to the Registrar their intent to take the M.A., and all appropriate graduation fees must be paid.

The Dissertation

The dissertation must be based on independent research and must demonstrate the student’s competence in the fields and methods that are foundational to this doctoral program and the capacity to contribute new knowledge to the field. A limit of 62,500 words (approximately 250 pages) is placed on the length of Ph.D. dissertations, excluding Table of Contents, Bibliography, and Appendices (charts, graphs, tables, etc.). Dissertations exceeding this limit must have approval of the Dissertation Committee prior to submission of the second draft. All Ph.D. dissertations must meet specified editorial standards. The dissertation is submitted to ProQuest where it is microfilmed and digitized for distribution. Two bound paper copies will be deposited in the library.
Dissertation Committee
The Dissertation Committee is normally composed of the student’s advisor, who serves as chairperson, and two of the examiners from the qualifying exam process, who serve as second and third readers. The student and advisor may consult to identify other examiners best suited to guide the dissertation. The Dissertation Committee advises the student in the writing of the proposal as in the writing of the dissertation.

The Dean, at his or her discretion, or upon the recommendation of the student’s advisor, may name an outside examiner to the dissertation committee. The outside examiner must 1) hold a Ph.D., a faculty appointment at an accredited academic institution; 2) have competence for the student’s study not available on the faculty of Claremont Lincoln University, Claremont School of Theology, or Claremont Graduate University; and 3) be able to guide the dissertation according to program rubrics and School procedures. The nomination of an outside examiner shall be made in conjunction with the student’s preparation of the dissertation proposal.

The Dissertation Proposal
A dissertation proposal should be a statement of approximately 20 double-spaced typed pages (plus bibliography and appendices) that includes:

- A concise formulation of the problem to be examined in light of previous research.
- A statement of the hypothesis being investigated or the thesis being argued.
- A summary of the argument and/or structure of the dissertation.
- A description of the hermeneutical and empirical methods to be employed in the dissertation; students using empirical methods with human subjects must provide in the proposal all information required by the Institutional Review Board and evidence of its approval.
- A literature review pertinent to the topic of the dissertation.
- A discussion of the resources that will be employed in the dissertation.
- A statement of the scope and limitations of the dissertation.
- A brief discussion of the importance of the dissertation as an original contribution to knowledge of both theory and practice. By submitting a dissertation proposal, students attest that they have made a thorough investigation that has convinced them that the proposed research has not been previously carried out in the manner being proposed.
- A chapter by chapter outline of what the dissertation will include.
- The proposal must be written in a style appropriate for the discipline and agreed upon by the student and the Dissertation Committee. The student must follow current guidelines for the chosen style, for example: Chicago, SBL, or APA. The student should consult a Thesis Secretary regarding an appropriate manual.

Preparation and Approval of the Dissertation Proposal
The process of preparation and approval of the dissertation proposal is as follows:

- The student submits a preliminary draft of the dissertation proposal at the oral qualifying examination.
- After the qualifying examinations are successfully completed, the student develops the dissertation proposal in consultation with the chairperson and other members of the Dissertation Committee.
• Students proposing research with human subjects must apply to and gain the approval of the Institutional Review Board prior to submission of the proposal to the Dean.

• The Dissertation Committee certifies that the proposal is finalized by signing Ph.D. Form #6. The student meets with the Thesis Secretary to discuss form and documentation requirements; the Thesis Secretary signs Ph.D. Form #8 to certify that a consultation was held.

Advancement to Candidacy
The student submits one copy of the dissertation proposal, accompanied by the completed Form #6, to the Registrar, for submission to the Dean. The Dean brings a recommendation to the faculty that the student be advanced to candidacy. At the faculty meeting, members of the student’s Dissertation Committee comment on the dissertation topic and the readiness of the student to undertake dissertation research. The student is advanced to candidacy by vote of the full faculty.

Registration for Dissertation Research
Ph.D. students must register for Dissertation Research for two semesters. This registration is considered to be full-time status. Students must be advanced to candidacy before they will be permitted to register for Dissertation Research.

Dissertation Oral Defense
When the dissertation committee determines that the dissertation is complete, the student will engage in an oral defense of approximately two hours in length. For graduation in May, this oral defense must be scheduled by March 1 (with final draft of the dissertation submitted by April 1). Prior to the oral examination, the student supplies to the Registrar an electronic copy of the Dissertation Abstract for circulation to the faculty and other interested persons. The oral examination is open to all members of the School community and to the public. The full faculty will be notified of the time and place of this examination at least two days before it occurs.

At the defense the student makes a presentation of the dissertation research and defends the approach, procedures, analysis and interpretation. The dissertation committee examines him or her with regard to the dissertation to determine whether the student has attained the level of scholarly advancement and ability in research demanded by the University for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. If the committee has recommended or required revisions, these are specified to the student by the dissertation chair. Faculty member(s) are designated to approve the revisions. The candidate must pass the final oral examination for the degree to be awarded.

Generally, the Dissertation Committee operates on the basis of consensus. When a vote is required, two votes are necessary to delay the student. An outside examiner, if appointed, does not have the right of veto over other members of the committee. Any member of the examining committee, including the outside examiner, may appeal the vote to the Dean.

EDUCATION AND FORMATION (EF)

The Education and Formation concentration integrates theology with educational theory and practice and/or with the processes and perspectives of spiritual formation. Students develop advanced competence in theoretical construction and practice and, through original research, contribute to the development of their chosen fields. Students with limited practical experience in the field may be required to participate in an appropriate practicum or internship at the discretion of their advisor.

Education and Formation Program Learning Outcomes
Students who successfully complete their training in the Ph.D. in Practical Theology concentrating in Spiritual Formation and Religious and Interreligious Education will be able to:

2. Demonstrate critical and constructive theological reflection regarding the processes and content of spiritual formation, religious education and interreligious education.
3. Understand the theological and historical disciplines and social and behavioral sciences that undergird spiritual formation and educational practices, as well as the cultural and religious contexts in which such work occurs.
4. Be knowledgeable of the application of spiritual formation and religious and interreligious education in a wide variety of contexts.

SPIRITUAL CARE AND COUNSELING (SCC)

The Spiritual Care and Counseling concentration is designed to develop advanced competence in research and theory construction at the intersection of theological and religious studies, cognate disciplines (for example, the social sciences), and caregiving practices. In addition, in dialogue with research and theory building and to focus their program of study, students prepare for specialized ministries by choosing one of the three tracks in clinical education:

1. Clinical Spiritual Care: prepares students for chaplaincies and ministries in public and private settings (for example, shelters and other residential services, social service agencies, programs for specific populations, such as the aging).
2. ACPE (Association for Clinical Pastoral Education) Supervision: prepares students to work as certified supervisors in CPE programs accredited by the Association for Clinical Pastoral Education, Inc.
3. Spiritually Integrative Psychotherapy: prepares students to provide Spiritually Integrative counseling and psycho-educational services in congregations, agencies, and other settings.

Spiritual Care and Counseling Program Learning Outcomes
Students who successfully complete their training in the Ph.D. in Practical Theology concentrating in Spiritual Care and Counseling will be able to:

1. Adopt an integrative, interdisciplinary approach to scholarship, clinical practice, and pedagogy in Practical Theology, Spiritual Care, and Counseling.
2. Articulate and integrate critical and constructive knowledge of the history, research methods, and emerging concerns of Practical Theology, Spiritual Care, and Counseling in ways that are appropriate to diverse religious and cultural contexts.
3. Demonstrate skilled application of clinical theories appropriate for multicultural, intercultural, and interreligious spiritual care, counseling, and pedagogy.
4. Practice liberative pedagogy and spiritual care at advanced levels in order to contribute to positive transformation of the world through original research, ethical professional conduct, and multi-culturally competent leadership.
Prerequisite Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE)
Prior to admission (or no later than the end of the first year of study), students must complete one unit of CPE in a program accredited by the Association of Clinical Pastoral Education, Inc., with an evaluation acceptable to the professors in the field. Students will not be able to begin the clinical education portion of their program requirements until the prerequisite is met. No unit credit is granted for this unit of CPE.

Required Practicum
In the first year of study, students in the Spiritual Care and Counseling concentration are required to participate in a 0-unit practicum. The purpose of the Practicum is to provide: exposure to the way Claremont School of Theology professors conceptualize the respective field; a structure for reviewing and updating basic issues and literature in preparation for doctoral study; and opportunity to observe and participate in the teaching of an introductory class, with an eye towards one’s own teaching. The practicum consists of auditing the courses TSC3005 Cultivating Empowerment through Ecologies of Care and TSC3006 Cultivating Wholeness through Relational Practices. Students are expected to attend all sessions, do all reading, and assist the professor in teaching as requested, for example, leading of small groups.

Total - 48 units
As noted above, in addition to the required 8 units of clinical education, students are required to take further clinical training as detailed below. No unit credit is granted.
beyond the 8 units noted. Total requirements for clinical education can be met in one of three ways:

Clinical Spiritual Care Track: Students are required to gain admission to and take 3 units of CPE (in addition to the prerequisite unit of CPE) in one or more programs accredited by the Association of Clinical Pastoral Education. Students register for LSC4001/4002/4003 Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE):

- LSC4001 1st ACPE unit of CPE
- LSC4002 2nd ACPE unit of CPE
- LSC4003 3rd ACPE unit of CPE

ACPE Supervisory Track: Students are required to gain admission to and take 3 units of CPE supervisory training. Students register for LSC4021/4022/4023 ACPE Supervisory Training:

- LSC4021 1st supervisory unit
- LSC4022 2nd supervisory unit
- LSC4023 3rd supervisory unit

Spiritually Integrative Psychotherapy Track: Usually starting after 12 units of coursework is complete, students serve for 24 consecutive months as Residents at The Clinebell Institute for Pastoral Counseling and Psychotherapy (TCI). Students register for the course Spiritually Integrative Psychotherapy Residency as follows:

- LSC4041A Fall 1st semester
- LSC4041B Spring 2nd semester
- LSC4041C Summer after 2nd semester
- LSC4042A Fall 3rd semester
- LSC4042B Spring 4th semester
- LSC4042C Summer after 4th semester

Spiritually Integrative Psychotherapy Residency
No other placements are allowed except those arranged by The Clinebell Institute. Clinical training begins in late August (the week prior to the School’s fall orientation of new students) with a required three-day staff meeting and orientation.

Students are expected to complete their required training without interruption. The clinical training program at The Clinebell Institute does not follow the academic calendar; due to the intensive nature of the training and the needs of clients, students are on a year-round schedule and continue to serve their clients during school breaks, though vacation times are arranged through The Clinebell Institute. If students’ training must be interrupted due to unforeseen life circumstances, students must make up the time missed within 1 year from the time of interruption.

In addition to the weekly meeting time, students schedule clinical work, research and study in preparation for clinical service, individual and group supervision, and other training meetings as required.

Due to the high cost of supervision and other training expenses, additional fees are charged for LSC4041A, LSC4041B, LSC4042A, and LSC4042B. The amount of these fees is indicated in the registration materials for each semester. These fees are normally not covered by scholarship, but can be included in the overall financial aid package. The fee for the 2010-2011 academic year is $1,300 per semester.
Required Training Psychotherapy
The effective and ethical practice of pastoral psychotherapy depends upon the caregiver’s continual cultivation of emotional and spiritual resources, self-knowledge, and ability to use herself or himself for the care of others. Therefore, students whose clinical education is in Spiritually Integrative psychotherapy are required to be in a “training” psychotherapy during their clinical education. Students indicate that they have begun this requirement by requesting that a letter be sent by their therapist to the Clinebell Institute Training Director indicating that the psychotherapy has begun.

Qualifying Exams for Spiritual Care and Counseling
Exams must be passed in the following areas:

1. Practical Theology
2. History and Theory of Spiritual Care and Counseling
3. Practice of Spiritual Care and Counseling (Clinical Theory and Practice)
4. Systematic Theology, Theological Ethics, Sacred Texts or Religious History
5. Cognate Field (Students may request guidance for the cognate exam from any scholar with whom they have taken at least one of their cognate courses and who meets the following criteria: holds a Ph.D. in a field other than Christian studies, holds a faculty appointment at an accredited academic institution, and is able to provide the exam according to program rubrics and procedures. Eligible scholars will be identified in consultation with the student’s advisor and are frequently selected from the faculties of the Claremont Colleges or Claremont Graduate University.)
DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY IN RELIGION

Program Concentrations:
Hebrew Bible (HB)
New Testament and Christian Origins (NT)
Process Studies (PS)
Religion, Ethics and Society (RES)

Claremont School of Theology offers a 48-unit Doctor of Philosophy in Religion degree with four areas of concentration: Hebrew Bible; New Testament and Christian Origins; Process Studies; and Religion, Ethics and Society. Students applying to the Ph.D. in Religion will ordinarily have completed a Master’s Degree but, with the approval of the faculty in the field, may be admitted to the Ph.D. after having completed a minimum of 24 hours of graduate work appropriate to the field of study.

COMMON REQUIREMENTS FOR THE PH.D. IN RELIGION

Ph.D. Research Colloquium Intensive
The Ph.D. Colloquium Intensive is a one week course offered during the January Interterm that is taken by students during their first year of study. Early in their program, students receive intensive training on navigating library resources, adhering to particular standards of style, and appropriate documentation to assist them in writing expectations for doctoral study. Particular attention is given to The Chicago Manual of Style as it is the standard used in all programs at the School of Theology. This intensive class covers research methods and resources as well as bibliographic styles and documentation.

Research Language Requirements
Students in the Ph.D. in Religion program must show competence in two research languages. At least one of the two languages must be met before a student enrolls for the final 24 hours of course work. The second requirement must be completed before making application for qualifying examinations. Unit credit toward the degree is not allowed for courses taken to enable a student to meet language or research tool requirements. The language requirement is to be met by examination or by an approved course. The Hebrew Bible and New Testament and Christian Origins concentrations require additional languages. For specific language requirements in each area, see below.

Qualifying Examinations
The primary purpose of qualifying examinations is to build and demonstrate broad knowledge in the areas of the examinations, the ability to think critically in these areas, and the ability to think deeply about particular issues and thinkers. More specifically, the process of qualifying examination research, preparation, and examination builds upon and goes beyond course work, serves as foundational research for the dissertation, and prepares a student to teach in the areas of the exams.

Students and faculty negotiate the research questions and bibliography for their exams. It is the faculty’s responsibility to require specific questions and bibliography necessary to ensure comprehensive learning. It is students’ responsibility to formulate questions and bibliography that, in addition to the three learning goals noted above, contextualize their study as appropriate to their particular commitments and vocational goals.
The Dean, at his or her discretion, or upon the recommendation of the student’s advisor, may name an outside examiner to the qualifying examination committee. The outside examiner must 1) hold a Ph.D.; 2) have a faculty appointment at an accredited academic institution; 3) have competence for the student’s study not available on the faculty of Claremont Lincoln University, Claremont School of Theology or Claremont Graduate University; and 4) be able to provide the exam according to program rubrics and procedures. The nomination of an examiner shall be made in conjunction with the student’s examination application.

Eligibility for Qualifying Examinations
To be eligible to take qualifying examinations, the student must have completed all required units, intensive research colloquium, and all language requirements. It is expected that qualifying examinations are taken at Claremont School of Theology. Students for whom this would present an extreme hardship may petition the Dean for alternative arrangements. An additional processing fee may be charged.

Preparing and Applying for Qualifying Examinations
In consultation with her/his advisor, the student identifies desired areas of study for the qualifying examinations and the intended direction of the dissertation. The student and advisor also discuss the faculty most appropriate to guide and evaluate the exams as proposed. The student seeks the consent of a faculty person to conduct each examination.

Through ongoing consultation with the faculty who have agreed to conduct the examinations, the student prepares questions and a bibliography for each examination.

When complete, the student submits to her or his advisor a copy of each proposed bibliography and list of possible exam questions. The advisor reviews the outline of all the examinations and notifies the student within two weeks if the advisor sees a need to renegotiate an examination in order to avoid overlap or to guarantee adequate coverage of a particular area. During this period the student negotiates with the faculty members a date for the oral examination.

When the topics for the examinations have been approved by the student’s faculty, they certify their approval by signing Form #3 the Application for Ph.D. Qualifying Examinations. The student is responsible for circulating this form and, when complete, submitting it to the Registrar. The Application must be submitted to the Registrar at least two months before the date on which the proctored examinations are to begin. The Registrar and the student set the dates for the proctored examinations.

Taking Qualifying Examinations
The process for taking proctored qualifying examinations is as follows:

- The Registrar notifies the faculty committee members of the date by which the exams must be submitted.
- The faculty write and submit the examinations to the Registrar.
- The Registrar reserves a place for the examinations to be written.
- The student reports to the Office of the Registrar on the days and times of the examinations. The Registrar is responsible for proctoring the examinations.
The student has the following options for taking the examinations:

- Write examinations by hand to be typed later. The Registrar provides the student a copy of the original examination. The student has twenty-four hours to get the examination typed and returned to the Registrar, making no changes from the original exam.
- Type examinations on a computer supplied by the School. In the event of mechanical failure, the student may petition the Dean to schedule a retake.

The Registrar sends to each professor copies of the proctored examinations. The original copy of each examination is to be filed in the student’s permanent file.

NOTE: For students concentrating in Hebrew Bible or New Testament and Christian origins, a draft of the dissertation proposal is also due at the time of qualifying exams. For Process Studies, a final version of the dissertation proposal is due at this time. For students concentrating in Religion, Ethics, and Society, the final version of the dissertation proposal is due one month following the last qualifying exam.

Oral Qualifying Examination

Upon successful completion of the written segments of the exams, an oral examination, approximately two hours in length, is conducted by the student’s examiners not earlier than one week and not later than two weeks after the written portion is completed. The purpose of the oral examination is to determine the student’s ability to discuss and defend the written material in greater depth and breadth and to demonstrate sufficient mastery to proceed with a dissertation. In cases involving conditional written work, the oral examination serves to clarify the appropriate conditions. Generally, the examining committee operates on the basis of consensus. When a vote is required, two votes are necessary to delay the student. An outside examiner, if appointed, does not have the right of veto over other members of the committee. Any member of the examining committee, including the outside examiner, may appeal the vote to the Dean.

NOTE: For students concentrating in Hebrew Bible or New Testament and Christian Origins, the oral defense of the qualifying exams will also include a discussion of the dissertation proposal.

Evaluation of Written and Oral Qualifying Examinations

The student’s written and oral examinations are evaluated as Excellent or Satisfactory (Passed), Conditional Pass, or Unsatisfactory (Failed). Form #4, The Report on Qualifying Examinations, is completed by the student’s examiners. If further work is required, the examiners will state these requirements in the report. In the case of a Conditional Pass, the student must complete the work no later than by registration day one year after the exam was attempted, or an examiner may choose to specify an earlier date. If the student satisfactorily meets the conditions for the Conditional Pass, the student submits Form #5 (Removal of Conditional Pass on Qualifying Examinations). If a student does not satisfactorily complete the condition, the examination is designated as failed. In cases of failing the written or oral examinations, the student may be permitted (on recommendation of the examiners) to take a second examination after a lapse of a stipulated period of time, not less than three months nor more than one calendar year after the first examination. If the results of the second examination are unsatisfactory, no further examinations are permitted except upon the recommendations of the examiners to, and the approval of, the full faculty.
Eligibility for M.A. Degree
Ph.D. students are eligible for the M.A. degree upon successful completion of the qualifying examinations. Students must indicate to the Registrar their intent to take the M.A., and all appropriate graduation fees must be paid.

The Dissertation
The dissertation must be based on independent research and must demonstrate the student’s competence in the field of study. All Ph.D. dissertations must meet specified editorial standards. The dissertation is submitted to ProQuest where it is microfilmed and digitized for distribution. Two bound paper copies will be deposited in the library.

Dissertation Committee
The Dissertation Committee is normally composed of the student’s advisor, who serves as chairperson, and two of the examiners from the qualifying exam process, who serve as second and third readers. The student consults with the advisor to determine the examiners best suited to guide the dissertation. The Dissertation Committee advises the student in the writing of the proposal as in the writing of the dissertation.

The Dean, at his or her discretion, or upon the recommendation of the student’s advisor, may name an outside examiner to the dissertation committee. The outside examiner must 1) hold a Ph.D.; 2) have a faculty appointment at an accredited academic institution; 3) have competence for the student’s study not available on the faculty of CLU, CST or CGU; and 4) be able to guide the dissertation according to program rubrics and School of Theology procedures. The nomination of an outside examiner shall be made in conjunction with the student’s preparation of the dissertation proposal.

The Dissertation Proposal
A dissertation proposal should include:

- A concise formulation of the problem to be examined in light of previous research.
- A tentative statement of the thesis and summary of the argument of the dissertation.
- An indication of the methods to be employed.
- A discussion of the resources which will be employed in the dissertation.
- A statement of the scope and limitations of the dissertation.
- A brief discussion of the importance of the dissertation as an original contribution to the knowledge of the field, whether theoretical or practical. By submitting a dissertation proposal, the student attests that she or he has made a thorough investigation that has convinced her or him that the thesis has not been previously argued in the manner being proposed.
- A chapter by chapter outline of what the dissertation will include.
- The proposal must be written in a style appropriate for the discipline and agreed upon by the student and the Dissertation Committee. The student must follow current guidelines for the chosen style, for example: Chicago, SBL, or APA. The student should consult a Thesis Secretary regarding an appropriate manual.

The Dissertation Committee evaluates the proposal to ensure that the student follows the appropriate form in elaborating a thesis and that the methodology is clear and appropriate. to the purpose of the dissertation. The Dissertation Committee determines the acceptability of the proposal.

Preparation and Approval of the Dissertation Proposal

The process of preparation and approval of the dissertation proposal is as follows:

- After the qualifying examinations are successfully completed, the student finalizes the dissertation proposal in consultation with the Dissertation Committee; the Dissertation Committee may meet as a whole with the student to evaluate the proposal for final approval.
- The Dissertation Committee certifies that the proposal is complete by signing Ph.D. Form #6. The student meets with the Thesis Secretary to discuss form and documentation requirements.

NOTE: Page length and due dates for submission of the draft of the dissertation proposal vary from concentration to concentration so please note those specifics below.

Advancement to Candidacy

The student submits one copy of the dissertation proposal, accompanied by the completed Form #6, to the Registrar, for submission to the Dean. The Dean brings a recommendation to the faculty that the student be advanced to candidacy. At the faculty meeting, members of the student’s Dissertation Committee comment on the readiness of the student for candidacy. The student is advanced to candidacy by vote of the full faculty.

Registration for Dissertation Research

Ph.D. students must register for Dissertation Research for two semesters. This registration is considered to be full-time status. Students must first be advanced to candidacy before they will be permitted to register for Dissertation Research.

Dissertation Oral Defense

When the dissertation committee determines that the dissertation is complete, the student will engage in an oral defense of approximately two and one-half hours in length. For graduation in May, this oral defense must be scheduled by March 1 (with final draft of the dissertation submitted by April 1).

At the defense the student makes a presentation of the dissertation research and defends the approach, procedures, analysis and interpretation. The dissertation committee examines him or her on the dissertation to determine whether the student has attained the level of scholarly advancement and ability in research demanded by the University for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. If the committee has recommended or required revisions, these are specified to the student by the dissertation chair. Faculty member(s) are designated to approve the revisions. The candidate must pass the final oral examination for the degree to be awarded.

Generally, the Dissertation Committee operates on the basis of consensus. When a vote is required, two votes are necessary to delay the student. An outside examiner, if appointed, does not have the right of veto over other members of the committee. Any member of the examining committee, including the outside examiner, may appeal the vote to the Dean.
Prior to the oral examination the student supplies to the Registrar an electronic copy of the Dissertation Abstract for circulation to the faculty and other interested persons. The oral examination is open to all members of the School community and to the public. The full faculty will be notified of the time and place of this examination at least two days before it occurs.

HEBREW BIBLE (HB)

The Ph.D. program in Hebrew Bible provides advanced training in the critical interpretation of the Hebrew Bible for students preparing for research and teaching in institutions of higher education, religious and community service, and other relevant contexts. The Ph.D. program in Hebrew Bible requires rigorous training in the ancient biblical languages, including Hebrew, Aramaic, and Greek; additional ancient Near Eastern languages, such as Akkadian, Ugaritic, and Syriac; modern research languages, including German and French; and in the historical-critical, literary-critical, social-scientific, and critical theological methods necessary for biblical interpretation. Training in the program presumes competence in the broader fields of religious and theological study, including the study of world religions, theology and philosophy of religion, ethics and society, and religion and culture.

Hebrew Bible Program Learning Outcomes

Students completing the Ph.D. in Religion with a concentration in Hebrew Bible at Claremont are expected to:

1. Have full competence in the interpretation of the Hebrew Bible and related literature according to methods accepted by modern critical scholarship;
2. Have full command of the relevant biblical, ancient Near Eastern, and modern research languages in the field;
3. Understand the historical, multicultural, and multi-religious context in which the Hebrew Bible arose;
4. Contribute to the field through new research, appropriate scholarly publications, lectures at professional scholarly organizations, and engagement in other academic, religious, and public contexts;
5. Relate the study of the Hebrew Bible to the broader world of other religious, theological, and public contexts in positive and healing ways.

Areas of concentration within Hebrew Bible Studies include:

- Literary-historical and theological interpretation of the Hebrew Bible.
- Archeological and historical interpretation of the Hebrew Bible in the contexts of the larger ancient Near Eastern and Greco-Roman worlds.
- Second-Temple and Rabbinic period Jewish literature and history, including textual versions of the Hebrew Bible.

Student will choose a primary area of concentration from one of the above and the other two areas will serve as secondary concentrations. Dissertation advisors and committee members will be chosen from among the regular faculty members active in the Hebrew Bible program.

Language and Research Requirements

In addition to passing language exams in French and German, students concentrating in Hebrew Bible must pass an examination in Biblical Hebrew and demonstrate competence in Aramaic. Students are also required to study at least one additional Semitic language. Normally, the additional language will be Akkadian, although Ugaritic, Syriac, Arabic, and other relevant languages may be substituted with the permission of the student’s program advisor. Aramaic and the additional Semitic language may be taken for academic credit.

Breadth Requirements

A principle of the Ph.D. program is that doctoral level work in any particular area should presuppose a general knowledge of the wider field of Religion, such as that provided by an undergraduate degree in religion, an M.A. in religious studies, and/or education in a school of theology.

In consultation with one’s academic advisor during the first semester of study, students will determine how to satisfy breadth requirements in two of the following areas:

- Theoretical study of religion
- Comparative religions
- Philosophical, theological and/or moral reasoning

Students will select the areas of their breadth requirements in consultation with and approval of the advisor within the first year of coursework and must fulfill all breadth requirements with a “pass” or “excellent pass” before taking qualifying exams. Competency in these areas can be validated in any of the following ways and their combination in accordance with the advisor: by previous transcript, by course work, by teaching experience, and by research:

- Competence demonstrated by previous transcript means that a student has taken one or more graduate courses in the breadth area that are no more than seven years old from the date of entrance into the School and in which the student has received a grade of “B+” or better.
- Competence demonstrated by course work means that a student may enroll in one or more graduate courses per area at CST, CLU, or CGU after beginning the Ph.D. program and receive a grade of B+ or better. Please note that courses taken to fulfill breadth area requirements cannot count toward the 48-units required for graduation. Students can audit these courses, but must formally enroll as an auditor and must request a written memo from the course professor certifying that the student has completed all work for the course and would have received a B+ or better.
- Competence demonstrated by teaching experience means that a student has taught one course (or served as a teaching assistant in two courses) at an accredited undergraduate or graduate institution in the breadth area.
- Competence demonstrated by research means that a student has published an article in a peer-reviewed journal or as a relevant book chapter (or had either accepted for publication), delivered a paper at an academic conference with a clearly recognizable national or international reputation (e.g., American Academy of Religion, Society of Christian Ethics, American Philosophical Association, Catholic Theological Society of America), or engaged in forms of Internet activity comparable to research qualifications mentioned and accepted by faculty.

Any faculty member qualified in the area of the breadth requirement may sign Form #2 signifying completion of this particular breadth requirement. Students must complete all breadth requirements before taking qualifying exams.
Course Requirements

All students in the program will take 12 Hebrew Bible courses, including these required courses:

- LHB 4004: Form-Critical Methodology
- LHB 4023: Theological Issues in the Hebrew Bible
- LHB 4020: History of the Ancient Near East OR LHB4022 Introduction to Mesopotamian Religion
- LHB 4039: Current Critical Issues in the Study of the Hebrew Bible
- LHB 4040: Textual Criticism and Hermeneutics OR LHB4053: Jeremiah
- LHB 4033: Aramaic

Normally coursework will be at the 4000 level. Doctoral (4000-level) coursework presumes the reading of biblical and other ancient texts in the original languages and the use of secondary research in German and French. When it is necessary for a student to take a 3000-level course (with the permission of the student’s program advisor), the instructor will stipulate additional requirements, including the reading of biblical or other ancient texts in the original languages, secondary reading in German and French, and other requirements deemed necessary by the instructor.

Research Paper Colloquium

Students concentrating in Hebrew Bible will complete one substantial research paper, which will be presented to the Hebrew Bible student body and faculty at the end of the fourth semester of study. Students should have final clearance from their advisor for their paper topic by the end of the third semester. Papers are meant to aid students in the process of thinking through their dissertation topics.

Students in their first year of study will be required to provide a substantive response to one of the papers being presented. The assignments of respondents will be determined in consultation with Hebrew Bible faculty. All Hebrew Bible students still enrolled in the program are strongly encouraged to attend the yearly colloquium.

Qualifying Exams for Hebrew Bible

After completing coursework, students take four qualifying examinations and submit a dissertation proposal. There is an oral exam on all four written exams and the proposal.

Dissertation Proposal

A draft of the dissertation proposal, approximately seven pages in length, should be submitted to the faculty members of the Qualifying Exam Committee at the Oral Defense of the Qualifying Exams. The dissertation proposal will be discussed during the oral defense with recommendations made by the committee members. The final version of the Dissertation Proposal must be submitted to the committee members one week following the oral and Form #6 must be completed and returned to the Registrar by the same date.

NEW TESTAMENT AND CHRISTIAN ORIGINS (NT)

The Ph.D. program in New Testament and Christian Origins at Claremont School of Theology provides advanced training in the critical interpretation of ancient Christian texts for students preparing for research and teaching in institutions of higher education, religious and community service, and other relevant contexts. The program focuses on the New Testament and related literatures in the context of post-biblical Judaism, classical Greek and Hellenistic literature, religion and philosophy, and the cultures of the early Roman Empire.

Students completing the Ph.D. in Religion with a concentration in New Testament and Christian Origins at Claremont are expected to:

1. Have full competence in the interpretation of the New Testament and related literature according to methods accepted by modern critical scholarship;
2. Have full command of the relevant biblical, ancient Near Eastern, and modern research languages in the field;
3. Understand the historical, multicultural, and multi-religious context in which the New Testament arose;
4. Contribute to the field through new research, appropriate scholarly publications, lectures at professional scholarly organizations, and engagement in other academic, religious, and public contexts;
5. Relate the study of New Testament and Christian Origins to the broader world of other religious, theological, and public contexts in positive and healing ways.

Language and Research Requirements
In addition to passing language exams in French and German, students concentrating in New Testament and Christian Origins must pass one exam in New Testament Greek and take courses in and/or pass exams in Latin, Hebrew, and either Aramaic, Coptic, or Syriac. All students in the program will be required to pass the New Testament Seminar/Graeca for at least two terms before taking qualifying examinations.

Breadth Requirements
A principle of the Ph.D. program is that doctoral level work in any particular area should presuppose a general knowledge of the wider field of Religion, such as is provided by an undergraduate degree in religion, an M.A. in religious studies, and/or education in a school of theology. Breadth Requirements at Claremont have three main purposes:

- To demonstrate master’s level competence in the student’s area of concentration and in related theological and/or religious fields.
- To establish a base of common knowledge considered prerequisite to doctoral study at Claremont School of Theology.
- To demonstrate sufficient preparation to teach introductory undergraduate courses in the fields tested.

In consultation with one’s academic advisor during the first semester of study, students will determine how to satisfy breadth requirements in two of the following areas:

- Theoretical study of religion
- Comparative religions
- Philosophical, Theological and/or Moral Reasoning

Students will select the areas of their breadth requirements in consultation with and approval of the advisor within the first year of coursework and must fulfill all breadth requirements with a “pass” or “excellent pass” before taking qualifying exams. Competency in these areas can be validated in any of the following ways and their combination in accordance with the advisor: by previous transcript, by course work, by teaching experience, and by research:
- Competence demonstrated by previous transcript means that a student has taken one or more graduate courses in the breadth area that are no more than seven years old from the date of entrance into the School and in which the student has received a grade of “B+” or better.
- Competence demonstrated by coursework means that a student may enroll in one or more graduate courses per area at CLU, CST or CGU after beginning the Ph.D. program and receive a grade of B+ or better. Please note that courses taken to fulfill breadth area requirements cannot count toward the 48-units required for graduation. Students can audit these courses, but must formally enroll as an auditor and must request a written memo from the course professor certifying that the student has completed all work for the course and would have received a B+ or better.
- Competence demonstrated by teaching experience means that a student has taught one course (or served as a teaching assistant in two courses) at an accredited undergraduate or graduate institution in the breadth area.
- Competence demonstrated by research means that a student has published an article in a peer-reviewed journal or as a relevant book chapter (or had either accepted for publication), delivered a paper at an academic conference with a clearly recognizable national or international reputation (e.g., American Academy of Religion, Society of Christian Ethics, American Philosophical Association, Catholic Theological Society of America), or engaged in forms of Internet activity comparable to research qualifications mentioned and accepted by faculty.
- Other analogous work, as accepted by the area faculty

Any faculty member qualified in the area of the breadth requirement may sign Form #2 signifying completion of this particular breadth requirement. Students must complete all breadth requirements before taking qualifying exams.

Course Requirements
Students take 12 courses in New Testament Studies.

Qualifying Examinations for New Testament and Christian Origins
After completing coursework, students take four qualifying examinations and submit a dissertation proposal. There is an oral exam on all four written exams and the proposal. The four exams are as follows:
- One exam on the methodologies in the study of the New Testament
- One exam on the historical and cultural contexts of Christian origins
- Two exams in areas relevant to the student’s dissertation

Dissertation Proposal
A draft of the dissertation proposal, approximately seven pages in length, should be submitted to the faculty members of the Qualifying Exam Committee at the Oral Defense of the Qualifying Exams. The dissertation proposal will be discussed during the oral defense with recommendations made by the committee members. The final version of the Dissertation Proposal must be submitted to the committee members one week following the oral and Form #6 must be completed and returned to the Registrar by the same date.
PROCESS STUDIES (PS)

Process thought is a philosophical system that describes the world in fundamentally relational terms. According to process thought, every unit of reality is in an ongoing process of change, and everything that occurs is a confluence of one’s inherited past, contextual possibilities and individual agency. This graduate program explores the wide range of methods, themes, and applications of process thought, with special attention to Alfred North Whitehead’s “philosophy of organism.” Whitehead’s contributions are assessed in the context of other philosophies of process, thought of which dozens have been identified in Western philosophies and in the non-Western philosophical traditions.

The multiple applications of process thought to religious life and reflection are cumulatively known as process theology. Process theology seeks to integrate and reconcile the diverse facets of human experience (e.g., ethical, aesthetic, and scientific intuitions) into a relational understanding of the universe, without excluding the religious or spiritual dimensions of human existence. This relational worldview has significant implications for the fields of constructive theology, philosophy, ecology, economics, physics, biology, education, psychology, feminism, and cultural studies. Indeed, the ecological dimensions are significant enough that some are referring to recent work in process thought as “eco-process studies in culture and religion.”

The purpose of the program in Process Studies (subtitled “Eco-Process Studies in Culture and Religion”) is to train future leaders in process-relational approaches to the study of ecology, culture, and religion today. Process Studies combines a variety of newly emergent fields and integrative methods in order to address key areas of debate that arise at the intersection of religion, culture, and nature. The program aims to provide academic leaders, religious leaders, and leaders in society with the tools necessary for understanding the interconnections between ecology, culture, and religion in this postmodern and pluralistic world. They will be trained in emerging theoretical perspectives that help to re-conceive and overcome fundamental dichotomies and binaries in contemporary culture. Using the techniques of postmodern/poststructuralist scholarship in particular, students will learn to formulate a truly pluralistic and differentiated worldview, one that is appropriate to our contemporary society and able to contribute to transformational change.

The Process Studies concentration draws on and seeks to integrate the whole range of contemporary studies in culture and religion, including their theological, philosophical, cultural, environmental, and interreligious dimensions. It aims to train students in the integrative shift that has been initiated by process theology, so as to enable them to work for a creative transformation of our world in the context of the most pressing concerns of our day.

The diverse fields of interaction will include philosophies in Western and non-Western traditions, theologies and philosophies of religion in diverse traditions, comparative religious studies, process studies and process theology, gender studies, feminist theory and feminist theologies, cultural studies (critical theories and liberation theologies), ecological studies (philosophies, theologies, and spiritualities), and the various fields of religion and science.

At the center of the Process Studies program is a commitment to breadth. We seek to educate students not with a narrow specialization, but with the ability to understand the inherent connectivity of process thought and to apply process insights with broad regions of human experience and scholarship. But it is possible to obtain such interrelations and applications only when students develop an equally broad range of competencies. In particular, we expect some knowledge of methods and theories in the following five areas: Process Philosophy, Philosophy of Religion / Philosophy of Science, Constructive Theology, Postmodern / Poststructuralist Studies, and Comparative Religious Studies. Students will deepen their knowledge in these five areas through course work, outside studies (e.g., reading, papers, classes, or book reviews), their internship program, the interreligious requirement, and preparation for their qualifying examinations.

Process Studies Program Learning Outcomes

Students successfully completing the Ph.D. in Religion with a concentration in Process Studies are expected to:

1. Demonstrate thematic and conceptual knowledge of Whiteheadian process thought, postmodern/poststructuralist studies, philosophy of religion, philosophy of science, Western Christian theology, and religious pluralism.
2. Identify cognate ideas, connections and tensions in historical and contemporary theologies, philosophies, cultures and ecologies.
3. Utilize the elements of process studies in conducting new research on culture, ecology and/or religion.
4. Communicate the ways in which research in process studies responsibly engages matters of pressing social concern.

Process Studies Program Requirements

Students concentrating in Process Studies will work with an academic advisor to determine how best to structure the course of study. Choice of advisor will depend greatly on the student’s curricular choices and particular interests. Students are also required to:

- Demonstrate competence in two research languages
- Show competence in at least two religious traditions
- Attend Ph.D. Colloquia
- Participate in Service-Learning activities at the Center for Process Studies
- Take one noncredit course on pedagogy and teaching tools
- Submit a Personal Statement at the time of the dissertation defense.

Language and Research Requirements

In the Process Studies concentration, students provide a rationale for the choice of languages, demonstrating that the two chosen languages are most pertinent to her or his research interests. For students in Process Studies, English may be considered one of the research languages if English is not the native language of the student. It is the student’s responsibility to secure instruction in the research language. If the student receives a “conditional pass” or “fail,” the examiner will provide written feedback to the student. The student is required to repeat the task until she/he received a “pass” or “excellent pass.” If students make the case that the proposed research languages support his/her planned research but are less relevant than the usual research languages, he/she has to convince one faculty of the program if the others don’t have objections. Competency may be demonstrated through:

- Translation of document in the language – receiving a pass/high pass from a CST/CLU/CGU examiner.
- Evidence of three years of high school or college taking a full course of subjects required in a particular national school system conducted in the language.
- Evidence of passing language classes and exams from other institutions or local language places.

Interreligious Requirement
Students must demonstrate competence in at least two religious traditions. One tradition may be the student’s own tradition or the tradition of one’s primary research. Students must be well versed in the major tenets, the contextual setting, the forms of practice and the major conversations in the scholarship of each religious tradition. Competency can be demonstrated through a grade of B+ or above in two graduate-level courses, documented on a transcript from previous coursework no more than seven years old or courses taken during the Ph.D. program. If taken at CST, CLU, or CGU, the credits may be applied to the 48 unit degree requirements. Students may also satisfy this requirement by:
- Teaching a course at an accredited institution or serving as a teaching assistant in two courses.
- Publishing an article in a peer-reviewed journal, publishing a relevant book chapter (or had either accepted for publication), publishing three book reviews in a peer-reviewed journal (or had them accepted for publication), delivering a paper at an academic conference with a clearly recognizable national or international reputation (e.g., American Academy of Religion, Society of Christian Ethics, American Philosophical Association, Catholic Theological Society of America), or engaging in forms of Internet activity comparable to research qualifications mentioned and accepted by faculty.

Students must satisfy the Interreligious Requirement before applying for Qualifying Exams. Students are expected to integrate their knowledge of multiple religious traditions as they utilize the elements of process studies in conducting new research on culture, ecology and/or religion.

Ph.D. Colloquia
Students are required to attend doctoral-level colloquia where they will have the opportunity to learn, develop and practice research and professional skills for the academy. Topics covered will include research methods, making academic presentations, developing curriculum vitae, interviewing for jobs, etc. Some sessions will include all Ph.D. students in Religion; other sessions are specifically for students in the Process Studies concentration. The Ph.D. colloquia will be taught by Claremont Lincoln faculty, library staff, Center for Process Studies (CPS) affiliated staff, and advanced doctoral students. Attendance will be taken and students must attend 80 percent of the sessions for each year that they are in residency. Advanced doctoral students may teach some of the sessions, which provides an opportunity for advanced students to be supportive of newer students, offer their experience and wisdom, and foster community among doctoral students.

Service-Learning with Center for Process Studies
All students will be involved in the planning and implementation of at least one public lecture, conference or class of the Center for Process Studies (CPS) and its affiliated research entities. The service should meet a CPS event need, be coordinated in collaboration with CPS-affiliated staff, and improve the quality of the CPS event. Each student should have input in the development and/or implementation of the CPS event, use his or her academic knowledge and skills in service to CPS, and develop an understanding of the application of process thought. At the completion of this work, students will submit a written reflection on the service-learning experience (see the CPS service learning reflection standards attached below). CPS-affiliated staff and the faculty advisor will evaluate the student, with a final report cataloged in the student’s file. If the student receives a “conditional pass” or “fail,” CPS staff and the faculty advisor will provide written feedback to the student. The student is required to repeat the task until s/he received a “pass” or “excellent pass.” The service-learning component helps students to communicate the ways in which research in process studies responsibly engages matters of pressing social concern. This Service-Learning requirement must be completed before the student can set the date for the Oral Defense of the dissertation.

Pedagogy Course Requirement
There is one required course: a non-credit course on pedagogy and teaching tools. This course, taught, for instance, during the January interterm, teaches students the creation of a syllabus, student learning outcomes, learning and teaching strategies, and pedagogical theories. This requirement must be completed before the student can set the date for the Oral Defense of the dissertation.

Personal Statement
At the time of the dissertation defense, the student will write a brief personal statement outlining implications of one’s research for responsible social engagement within a specified contemporary context. The personal statement helps students to communicate the ways in which research in process studies responsibly engages matters of pressing social concern.

Qualifying Examinations
Students must have completed coursework, the language requirement and the interreligious requirement before taking the qualifying exams. Students will take exams in four-hour blocks of time (per exam) over the course of two weeks. Although all the exams will be distributed to all the committee members, one committee member has the primary responsibility for composing and grading each exam.

All students must successfully demonstrate competence in Process Philosophy, its methods, themes, and applications of process thought as based on A. N. Whitehead’s “philosophy of organism.” In addition, students must successfully demonstrate competence in three of the following topics:

- Philosophy of Religion/Philosophy of Science: The student demonstrates that s/he is knowledgeable of the major conversations in philosophy of religion and philosophy of science
- Constructive Theology: The student demonstrates that s/he is knowledgeable in major conversations in historical and contemporary Western Christian theology
- Postmodern/poststructuralist studies: The student demonstrates that s/he is knowledgeable in methods and practices of postmodern/ poststructuralist studies.
- Comparative Religious Studies: The student demonstrates that s/he is knowledgeable in comparing and contrasting at least three religious traditions. With prior approval of his/her advisor, a student may choose to include a philosophical tradition that functions as a religion for its adherents.
Dissertation Proposal

The fifth qualifying exam is a final draft of the dissertation proposal, which should be submitted no later than the date of the last written exam. Each student meets with his or her dissertation advisor and the dissertation committee members to develop a full dissertation proposal. The dissertation proposal is a 20-page paper (not including bibliography) that serves as a blueprint for writing the dissertation. The proposal includes the general topic area, the problem or problems to be addressed by the dissertation, a statement of the core thesis and central arguments of the dissertation, the research methodology to be used, and a chapter-by-chapter proposal of what the dissertation will include. A substantial bibliography written in compliance with the Chicago Manual of Style should accompany the proposal; it is not counted in the page length requirement of the proposal. The proposal assesses student competence in identifying cognate ideas, connections and tensions in historical and contemporary theologies, philosophies, cultures and ecologies, and utilizing the elements of process studies in conducting new research on culture, ecology and/or religion. The dissertation proposal also serves as a tool for assessing student acquisition of information literacy in Process Studies.

Students are expected to consult with the advisor and committee prior to the time of submission. When the advisor and committee members perceive that major issues have been clarified or resolved in the dissertation proposal, approval is granted for the student to submit the dissertation proposal. The dissertation proposal is submitted no later than the date of the last written qualifying exam. The last hour of the qualifying exam oral defense is dedicated to the oral defense of the dissertation proposal. Each member of the student’s dissertation committee independently reviews the student’s dissertation proposal according to a particular rubric (provided to the student by the faculty advisor). Students must receive a “pass” or “excellent pass” before proceeding to dissertation stage.

RELIGION, ETHICS, AND SOCIETY (RES)

The Ph.D. program in Religion, Ethics, and Society (RES) focuses on the intersection of the religious, the ethical, and the political. Viewing religion as both a source and subject for ethical reflection, students and faculty train their eyes on public spaces and the people who interact there as they engage pressing social, economic, and political questions. In order to prepare students to engage this pluralistic, public space, students are engaged with dialogic competencies, knowledge of religious traditions other than their own, resources for theological reflection, a facility with a variety of methods for moral deliberation, and the critical tools for analysis and argumentation required to contribute thoughtful, publicly defensible ethical assessment.

The RES program is designed to provide a solid foundation in ethics while offering students the flexibility and resources necessary to develop an expertise in a cognate field (such as public policy, political theory, theology, or cultural studies). The core courses of the program cover philosophical, theological and religious, and social ethics. Because ethics is an inherently interdisciplinary field, students will be encouraged to take courses in other schools within Claremont Lincoln University, Claremont School of Theology and Claremont Graduate University.

Religion, Ethics, and Society Program Learning Outcomes

Students successfully completing the Ph.D. in Religion with a concentration in Religion, Ethics and Society are expected to:
• Develop scholarly expertise in the field of ethics as well as competence in related fields of study and situate their original ideas within the broader context of the academy.
• Be knowledgeable about sources and forms of ethical reflection; major thinkers and historical movements; contemporary issues and global contexts; and scholarship, including voices from the margins.
• Demonstrate dialogical competencies and critical tools for responsible ethical analysis and argumentation necessary to contribute thoughtful, publicly defensible ethical assessment in the academy, as well as in a pluralistic public sphere.
• Demonstrate a critical appreciation of religion as both source and subject for ethical reflection.

Religion, Ethics, and Society Program Requirements
In addition to the general requirements of the Ph.D. in Religion, students concentrating in Religion, Ethics and Society choose courses from among three traditional forms of ethics:
  - Philosophical Ethics
  - Theological and Religious Ethics
  - Social Ethics

Students are also expected to take courses in a second academic area other than ethics, such as cultural studies, public policy, history, etc. How many courses students take in their second area depends on which track the student chooses. There are two tracks in the Religion, Ethics, and Society Ph.D. Program:
  • Ethics with a Minor track
    9 courses in Ethics
    3 courses in the second academic area of study
  • Ethics with a Second Major track
    6 courses in Ethics
    6 courses in the second academic area of study

Dissertation Proposal
Before determining the topics for qualifying exams, students set up a meeting with their dissertation committee to discuss the qualifying exam areas and topics as well as the dissertation topic. At least one week before this meeting, the student should provide the members of the committee with a dissertation prospectus (approximately 7 pages in length). The student should then come to the meeting prepared to discuss it with the committee, who will offer advice on the project with an eye to formulating the dissertation proposal and preparing for the exam on this topic. After the completion of the qualifying exams and successfully defending the exams in the Qualifying Exam Oral Defense, the student has one month to submit the final dissertation proposal (approximately 25 pages in length). Once the Dissertation Committee members have approved the dissertation proposal, the student submits the completed Form #6 to the Registrar.

Qualifying Exams
All students are required to take four written exams. The primary purpose of these exams is to demonstrate general knowledge of the study of religion (exam #1), foundational issues and figures in philosophical, religious, theological, and social ethics (exam #2), interdisciplinary tools and competency, particularly of one's secondary area (exam #3), and the subject-matter of one's dissertation topic (exam #4).
2. Ethics Exam: major philosophical and theological texts in the study of ethics in the West, from the classical to the contemporary period.
3. Interdisciplinary exam: major figures and texts from the fields of sociology, political science, economics, etc. that have had an impact on the field of religion, ethics, and society.
4. Specialized exam: major figures, texts, and issues that is central to one's dissertation research.
CLAREMONT EXTENSION
GRADUATE CERTIFICATE PROGRAMS

The Graduate Certificate is a non-degree program of study for prospective students, laity, clergy, or scholars. By choosing courses from across the curriculum, prospective students, lay persons, or other interested individuals may receive a broad exposure to religious and theological studies. By applying to one of the special certificate programs, clergy or scholars may focus their classes in a particular field of study. Current degree students may also apply for a specialized certificate to augment their knowledge or skills in a particular discipline.

Application for the Certificate Program is made as a non-degree student. Applicants must possess a bachelor's degree and fulfill all of the normal requirements for non-degree status as defined in the Admission section of this catalog. There may be further requirements for certain specializations as noted below. Scholarship support and federal financial aid are not available for certificate programs.

A certificate consists of 12-16 units of non-degree course work. A certificate will be awarded with the satisfactory completion of at least four courses totaling a minimum of 12 units in a specified area of study. A faculty advisor will help the student to select appropriate courses and will certify to the registrar that the student has completed the requirements for the certificate.

Units earned with a letter grade may be transferred into a Claremont Lincoln University or Claremont School of Theology degree program, provided that a certificate has not been awarded. Once a certificate has been awarded, units cannot be applied toward a degree. Units taken at the 3000-level cannot be transferred into a doctoral degree. Students wishing to transfer their certificate credits into a degree program must complete a formal application process through the Office of Admissions. Depending on the degree program and area of concentration, certificate courses may or may not satisfy specific requirements in the degree program. Students transferring units into a degree program are responsible for fulfilling all degree requirements.

Depending on previous educational experience (master’s, doctoral or equivalent), students may take courses at the 3000-level (master’s) or 4000-level (doctoral). Courses taken at the 4000-level require instructor approval. All prerequisites listed for a given course apply.

Specialized certificates are listed below in several fields of study. Others may be added, so prospective students should consult www.ClaremontLincoln.org, www.cst.edu, or or contact the Office of Admissions for an updated list of programs.

Basic Graduate Theological Studies Preparation for United Methodist Deacons

The Book of Discipline of The United Methodist Church defines the graduate educational requirements for commissioning of a minister as a probationary member. Paragraph 324, 4.a) states “Candidates for deacon or elder shall have completed a minimum of twenty-four semester hours of graduate theological studies in the Christian faith. These graduate theological studies must include the areas of: Old Testament [Hebrew Bible]; New Testament; theology; church history; mission of the church in the world; evangelism; worship/liturgy; and United Methodist doctrine, polity and history. These courses may be included within or in addition to a seminary degree”.

Claremont School of Theology provides the following courses each year to assist persons in completing the Basic Graduate Theological Studies (BGTS) requirements. A deacon candidate who has a graduate professional degree in another field must take all of these courses in order to meet the BGTS requirements. Not every course is offered every semester. A person seeking to be named a Visiting Scholar shall make application in writing to the Dean indicating dates of residence and plans for research/study. The application should include a copy of the person’s curriculum vitae. The Dean may grant Visiting Scholar status to qualified applicants. In exceptional cases, the Dean may consult with the faculty in the field and seek the approval of the Faculty Policy Committee.

Qualified doctoral candidates from accredited schools and other qualified persons may apply to the Dean in writing to be in residence for up to one year. Research Scholars may utilize the library and other research centers of the School for the purpose of research. Such persons may audit classes with the approval of the Dean and the course professor. Payment of audit fees is required. The Dean may grant Research Scholar status to qualified persons although, in exceptional cases, the Dean may consult with the faculty in the field and the Committee on Academic Procedures.
POLICY STATEMENTS

STUDENT RECORDS AND THE FAMILY EDUCATIONAL RIGHTS & PRIVACY ACT (FERPA)

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, also known as the Buckley Amendment, (a) establishes a postsecondary student’s general right to inspect and review his or her education records, and (b) generally prohibits outside parties from obtaining the information contained in such records without the student’s written consent.

Confidential Student Records: Confidential information is information accumulated in confidence, within limits established by law either upon specific promise of non-disclosure or in the context of a confidential relationship. The law provides that the following items may be included in this category: personal records and notes of administrative officers and faculty; medical and mental health records; financial information from parents of students; letters of recommendation for which a student has waived right of access; confidential letters of recommendation placed in the record prior to January 1, 1975. Items in the category of “confidential information” will not be released to the student; they may be released to non-authorized School personnel or persons outside of the School only with the written consent of the student and the Dean who is in charge of the record, except as required by law. Medical and mental health records may be reviewed by a physician or other appropriate professional of the student’s choice, as approved in writing by the student.

Restricted Student Information: This category contains the educational records of the student, that is, those records not included in the two categories above that contain information directly related to the student and are maintained by the Registrar. Included, for example, are the transcript, courses elected each semester, grades and other evaluations, academic and disciplinary actions, financial arrangements, and letters of recommendation received in the student’s record after January 1, 1975 (unless the student has waived the right of access to those letters). With the exceptions noted in “Exceptions to Restrictions on Release of Information,” restricted information may be released only at the student’s specific written request, which must name the records to be released, the reasons for release, and the persons to whom the release is authorized.

Exceptions to Restrictions on Release of Information: The law authorizes the release of restricted information without the student’s written consent as follows: to school officers and faculty; to individuals and offices as needed in connection with a student’s financial aid; to parents of dependent students; to accrediting organizations; to individuals as needed in an emergency situation to protect health and safety; and to selected research workers with stated precautions as to confidentiality. Information may be released to officers of institutions to which the student is applying for admission if the student is notified that it is being sent and is given an opportunity to review it. The student must also be notified before information is furnished in compliance with a judicial order or subpoena. Except as specified above, release to federal, state, or local officials is limited to information relating to audit or evaluation of federally-supported education programs. Where the student has signed the appropriate consent form, the evaluation written by the student’s Field Education Teaching Pastor (or Supervising Mentor) may be released to church or denominational judicatory officials upon request of those officials.
Directory Information: The law also provides that information known to be generally available from a variety of sources may be included in the School’s Directory: name, address (including home, mailing, billing, campus and email address), telephone listing (including home and campus), date and place of birth, dates of attendance, degrees and awards received, photographs, and most recent previous educational agency or institution attended by the student. Through publication of a Directory, the School will make public without student consent only the information listed above. A student who prefers that some or all of such Directory Information not be made public must notify the Registrar in writing by the close of registration each semester.

Students’ Waiver of Access to Confidential Records: A student requesting recommendations in respect to admission to an educational institution or an application for employment or the receipt of an honor may waive his or her right of access to these recommendations. Any student requesting a letter of recommendation may be asked to indicate to the writer whether s/he has waived right of access. The decision whether to write a letter of recommendation is an individual and voluntary one. Faculty and students, however, should be familiar with the provision in the law, which states that “waivers may not be required as a condition for admission to, receipt of financial aid from, or receipt of any other services or benefits from such institution.” In order to affirm the intent of the law, the School does not ask students to waive their right of access to letters of recommendation.

Students’ Right to Inspect Their Records: Within the limits of the law, students may inspect information contained in their restricted records. By law, students may not inspect those materials in their confidential records.

Exceptions to Students’ Right to Inspect Their Records: If any material or document in the educational record of a student includes information on other students, the School will not supply the actual material or document. Instead, the School will provide only the specific information contained therein which directly relates to the student seeking access.

Procedures for Students’ Inspection of Their Records: The procedure by which students and former students may review their restricted records is as follows: The student gives a 24hour written request for such a review to the Dean. The Dean reviews the file in order to place in sealed envelopes marked either “Confidential information to be opened only by the Dean” or “Restricted information to be opened only by the Dean” any material described under “Confidential Students Records” or “Restricted Student Information.”

The student may then review his or her file in the Dean’s Office. In no case will access be withheld more than 45 days after proper request has been made. If the student wishes, the School will also supply copies of material in the file. The student will pay for the cost of this copying.

Student Challenge of the Content of Record: A student who questions the content of his or her record should indicate this to the Dean. If the question is not satisfactorily settled, the Dean will be requested to establish an appropriate committee which will hold a hearing at which the student may present evidence in support of the contention that the record contains inaccurate or misleading information.
Retention and Disposal of School Records: Records fall into two retention categories: permanent and limited. Permanent Retention Records are those records that the School is obligated to maintain permanently either directly by law or indirectly by the need of supporting documentation. These records are to be maintained in hard copy (in fireproof cabinets) and on microfiche or appropriate electronic format.

Permanent records include the following:
- Claremont School of Theology transcripts
- Class lists
- Grade reports
- Change of Grade forms
- Enrollment reports
- Course schedules and addenda
- Degree statistics (lists of approved graduates and their degrees, dates of conferral, type, etc.)
- Catalogues

Limited Retention Records are those records which the School is obligated, either directly by law or indirectly by the need for supporting documentation, to maintain on a limited basis. The length of time each type of document is to be retained is indicated.

- Admissions Documents, to be maintained separately in alphabetical order:
  Files of those who applied but did not attend (either because they were denied admission or because they rejected our offer of admission): three years.
  Incomplete admission files: three years. Files of those who were admitted, granted a loan, and then either withdrew the first semester or did not attend at all: five years.

- Financial Aid Records, to be maintained separately in alphabetical order:
  Files of those who were admitted but did not attend: five years.
  Files of those who were admitted, granted a loan, and then either withdrew within the first semester or did not attend at all: either five years, or five years from the date on which the entire amount of the loan has been repaid, canceled, or assigned in accordance with pertinent provisions of the Perkins Loan program, Section 144.18 (c) (3), and/or relevant Stafford Loan provisions, whichever is greater.
  Files of all others including those attending students who were granted Perkins Loans or Stafford Loans at any time during their course of study: either five years, or (in the case of Perkins and/or Stafford loan recipients) five years from the date on which their entire loan amount has been repaid, canceled, or otherwise lawfully terminated, whichever is greater.

- Registration Records and Certification Documents, to be maintained separately in alphabetical order:
  Files of those who were admitted and attended classes for at least one semester (including those who complete programs and graduate and those who withdrew or are terminated at any point after one semester): five years from date of departure.

COPYRIGHT POLICY

It is the policy of Claremont School of Theology and Claremont Lincoln University to uphold and comply with the U.S. Copyright Act. Copyright is a special protection, granted by law, for original works of authorship that exist in a fixed, tangible form, whether published or unpublished, including books, textbooks, journals, articles, songs, videos, games, software, and other creative content. The Copyright Act gives copyright owners specific exclusive rights (namely the rights to make copies, distribute the work, display or perform the work publicly and to create derivative works). Unauthorized copying or unauthorized distribution of copyrighted material is a violation of the U.S. Copyright Act. Claremont requires all faculty, students and staff to honor copyright and not copy or share protected materials in any way that would violate the law. Consistent with this law, Claremont policy prohibits the unauthorized copying or unauthorized distribution of copyrighted works, and prohibits the unauthorized distribution of copyrighted works through peer-to-peer file sharing. This unauthorized use may also violate civil or criminal law. Claremont’s Technology Acceptable Use Policy (AUP) extends this policy to Claremont’s computing resources and states that all users of the School’s network must not use the campus network to engage in any illegal downloading, emailing, or peer-to-peer file sharing of copyrighted works. Claremont is required by law to take steps to prevent illegal copying or distribution, and to respond appropriately to all complaints regarding copyright infringement.

There are certain allowable exceptions for U.S. academic institutions that permit a limited amount of copying without permission, if specific criteria are met. The five exceptions to the exclusive rights of copyright holders are the principle of fair use, the face-to-face teaching exception, the distance learning exception articulated in the TEACH Act, the first-sale doctrine, and the library and archives exception. For more information on these exceptions, see Fair Use of Copyrighted Materials, developed by the University of Texas.

Claremont students, faculty and staff must have permission from the copyright holder, or a determination that “fair use” applies, before files are copied, made available, or shared on networks.

- For the full text of the copyright law, and related laws, read U.S. Copyright Law.
- For a wealth of information about copyright, see the U.S Copyright Office.
- For a clear explanation of copyright law, take the Crash Course in Copyright, developed by the University of Texas.

CLAREMONT’S COMPLIANCE WITH THE HIGHER EDUCATION OPPORTUNITY ACT (HEOA) PEER-TO-PER FILE SHARING REQUIREMENTS

The Higher Education Opportunity Act requires all U.S. colleges and universities to comply with its new regulations, which deal with issues surrounding the distribution of copyrighted materials, particularly through peer-to-peer file sharing. These new regulations require Claremont to take four actions: an annual disclosure regarding unauthorized distribution, a plan to combat unauthorized distribution, a disclosure of alternatives to illegal downloading, and a review of the effectiveness of the plan to combat unauthorized distribution. What follows below is the action Claremont has taken to implement each of these requirements.
Annual Disclosure

Claremont is required to issue an annual disclosure to all students, informing students that the unauthorized distribution of copyrighted materials may subject students to civil and criminal penalties. Claremont is also required to disclose the steps it will take to detect and punish copyright infringement.

Annually, during the Fall Semester, the Chief Information Officer will distribute a communication to all students regarding Claremont’s policies on copyright and peer-to-peer file sharing, the steps the School will take to enforce its policies, and the legal penalties for copyright infringement. This communication will also remind all students of our Acceptable Use Policy and the procedures Claremont will follow in responding to DMCA notices.

Plan to “Effectively Combat” the Unauthorized Distribution of Copyrighted Material by Users of the Claremont Network

Claremont must certify to the Secretary of Education that it has implemented a plan to effectively combat the distribution of copyrighted materials through its network. Claremont’s plan must included the following components:

I. Community Education and Information

Consistent with the value we place on our educational principles, we view education as the most significant measure we can take to combat illegal file sharing at Claremont. We use several mechanisms to inform and educate our community regarding copyright and related issues.

The Copyright at Claremont Web Page is maintained by the Office of the Chief Information Officer, and provides information concerning copyright law, and consumer information and disclosures that are required by the Higher Education Opportunity Act.

The Claremont Digital Millennium Copyright Act (DMCA) and Notification Procedures describe the procedures and disciplinary action that the School will use for handling cases of alleged copyright infringement, illegal downloads, and illegal peer-to-peer file sharing. Claremont will respond firmly and appropriately to all instances of alleged copyright infringement on its network, as well as instances in which Claremont students have allegedly engaged in illegal activity on the networks of the Claremont University Consortium and the Claremont Colleges.

Claremont’s Acceptable Use Policy describes acceptable and unacceptable use of Claremont’s computing resources and network.

New Student Orientation on Copyright and Peer-to-Peer File Sharing is a required tutorial for all new students and will be implemented at the beginning of the fall 2011 semester. Included in this tutorial are the techniques students may use for Disabling Peer-to-Peer File Sharing (developed by the University of Chicago).

New Student Orientation Letter on safe and legal computing will be included in the information packets for new students at the start of each academic term, beginning in summer 2011.
II. Technology-Based Deterrents

Claremont is planning a major upgrade to its technology infrastructure, and intends to implement bandwidth-shaping mechanisms.

Legal Alternatives to Unauthorized Downloading and Illegal File Sharing

Claremont is required to disclose legal alternatives to unauthorized downloading and illegal file sharing.

Educause maintains a comprehensive list of Legal Sources of Online Downloading, and the Association of American Publishers provides a list of Sources for Legally-Available Digital Versions of Textbooks and Other Written Works. Claremont encourages its community to make use of these resources.

Reviewing the Effectiveness of this Plan to Combat Unauthorized distribution of Copyrighted Materials

Claremont will review the effectiveness of its Plan to Combat the Unauthorized Distribution of Copyrighted Material by Users of the Claremont Network annually. This review will be managed by the Chief Information Officer, assisted by Information Technology Staff and the Institutional Research Council. Instances of alleged copyright infringement will be tabulated annually and longitudinally, and this data will be compared with that of peer institutions.

SUMMARY OF CIVIL AND CRIMINAL PENALTIES FOR VIOLATION OF FEDERAL COPYRIGHT LAWS

Copyright infringement is the act of exercising, without permission or legal authority, one or more of the exclusive rights granted to the copyright owner under section 106 of the Copyright Act (Title 17 of the United States Code). These rights include the right to reproduce or distribute a copyrighted work. In the file-sharing context, downloading or uploading substantial parts of a copyrighted work without authority constitutes an infringement.

Penalties for copyright infringement include civil and criminal penalties. In general, anyone found liable for civil copyright infringement may be ordered to pay either actual damages or "statutory" damages affixed at not less than $750 and not more than $30,000 per work infringed. For "willful" infringement, a court may award up to $150,000 per work infringed. A court can, in its discretion, also assess costs and attorneys' fees. For details, see Title 17, United States Code, Sections 504, 505.

Willful copyright infringement can also result in criminal penalties, including imprisonment of up to five years and fines of up to $250,000 per offense. For more information, please see the Web site of the U.S. Copyright Office at www.copyright.gov, especially their FAQ's at www.copyright.gov/help/faq.
CLAREMONT’S DIGITAL MILLENNIUM COPYRIGHT ACT (DMCA) NOTIFICATION PROCEDURES

DMCA (Digital Millennium Copyright Act) Notifications (sometimes called “Takedown Notices”) are formal complaints delivered to the School, giving notice of an alleged copyright infringement on the network. This complaint will typically indicate the name of the file, the date and time this alleged infringement occurred, the specific IP address of the offending computer, and it will demand that the materials and/or access to the materials be removed from the computer. When a DMCA notice is received, Claremont will respond quickly to remove or disable access to the material for which an infringement has been claimed. Specifically, the School will:

For a first offense:

- Forward the DMCA Notification to the person who is responsible for the computer mentioned in the notice.
- Request that the user contact the Chief Information Officer within 5 days of receiving this notification.
- Ask if the user has downloaded or shared this copyrighted material without permission.

If the user acknowledges unauthorized downloading or sharing, we will:

- Request the user to remove the materials.
- Request that the user disable file sharing of all copyrighted materials on his or her computer.
- Require the user to read the Acceptable Use Policy and Claremont’s information regarding copyright and peer-to-peer file sharing.
- Require the user to submit a written statement that confirms this infringement, acknowledges violation of the Acceptable Use Policy, and promises not to repeat this activity.
- Deny network access to this user for 5 days.
- Inform the claimant that the matter has been resolved.

If the user denies unauthorized downloading or sharing, we will:

- Require the user to submit a written statement denying this copyright infringement claim;
- Inform the claimant that this claim has been denied;
- Inform the user that under the DMCA the claimant may pursue a subpoena to obtain the users identity and may file a lawsuit against this user.

For a second or repeating offense:

- Forward the DMCA Notification to the person who is responsible for the computer mentioned in the notice.
- Request that the user contact the Chief Information Officer within 5 days of receiving this notification.
• Ask if the user has downloaded or shared this copyrighted material without permission.

If the user acknowledges unauthorized downloading or sharing, we will:

• Request the user to remove the materials for his or her computer.
• Request that the user disable file sharing of all copyrighted materials on his or her computer.
• Require the user to re-read the Acceptable Use Policy and Claremont’s information regarding copyright and peer-to-peer file sharing.
• Require the user to submit a written statement that confirms this second alleged case of infringement, acknowledges violation of the Acceptable Use Policy, promises not to repeat this activity, and recognizes that any further violations will result in disciplinary action being taken against the user.
• Deny network access to the user for 5 days.
• Inform the Academic Dean and the Dean of Students of actions taken.
• Inform that claimant that the matter has been resolved.

CLAREMONT’S TECHNOLOGY ACCEPTABLE USE POLICY

Purpose

In support of its mission to instill students with ethical integrity, religious intelligence and intercultural understanding, Claremont provides access to its technological resources to its employees, students and other authorized users. These resources include electronic media and services, computers, email, telephones, voicemail, fax machines, computing and telecommunications networks, software, databases, intranet, Internet and the World Wide Web. The purpose of these resources is to strengthen the various research, teaching, learning, and administrative functions that fulfill the School’s mission.

Claremont encourages innovative use of technology in the pursuit of educational excellence, as well as effective and efficient use of technology throughout all academic and administrative departments. But all users must bear in mind that these electronic resources (including software, hardware, network equipment and capability) and all data stored in the School’s facilities are the property of the institution, and that the use of these resources is a revocable privilege, and not a right of employment or matriculation. All use of these resources must be responsible and lawful, and in compliance with institutional policies.

One of the main characteristics of Claremont’s computing systems is that they are shared resources. There are many computing activities that can occur on a network which interfere with, or undermine the work of others. Some of these activities may be illegal and malicious, while others may be merely accidental or uninformed. The following policy defines user responsibilities, acceptable use, unacceptable use and its consequences. It is applicable to all users of these systems: students, faculty, staff, and administrators of Claremont and its affiliated centers; external users of public computers in the Library, Computer Lab, and Community Center; and users who connect personal laptops to the School’s wired and wireless networks.
User Responsibilities

The use of technology at Claremont is a privilege, and all users must act responsibly. Users must:

- Respect the rights of other users of Claremont’s networks,
- Respect the integrity of these computer systems, and observe relevant laws,
- Become familiar with, and abide by, all applicable institutional policies, and
- Practice responsible computing (such as backing up data, protecting against the intrusion of computer viruses, safeguarding passwords and network security, and taking reasonable steps to minimize the influx of spam).

Acceptable Use

Acceptable use includes, but is not limited to:

- Electronic communication that is used for the academic and business purposes of the institution.
- The use of computing and networked resources for faculty and institutional research, classroom teaching, student learning, publishing, and accessing library resources.

- Approved use of Claremont's web sites for public education, institutional promotion and fundraising, and to encourage research.
- Using online databases to retrieve relevant information for academic, administrative, or professional use.
- Because these computers, technology services, and telecommunication networks are primarily for the academic and research use of students and faculty, and for the administrative use of employees, limited, occasional, and incidental use for personal or non-business use is permitted. However, such use must be done in a manner that does not interfere with the user’s employment, the proper functioning of equipment, or the proper functioning of a department or other institutional obligations, and in a manner that does not incur additional costs for the institution.

Additional Use Policies

Users must also comply with additional applicable computer and network use policies, such as Computer Lab Policy, departmental policies, etc.

Warnings

• Though Claremont does not routinely monitor and evaluate every electronic transaction, document, file, or communication, it reserves the right to monitor access and use of its computing and networking resources to insure the security and optimal performance of its network, to enforce its policies, to investigate possible violations of its policies, or to comply with civil authority. Claremont’s IT staff have the right to examine systems and files that might be damaged or corrupt, as well as files associated with suspended computer accounts.
• The School reserves the right to limit or curtail access and computing privileges when state or federal laws or institutional policies are being violated.
• Though the School may authorize confidential passwords and secured access to resources, users of Claremont’s network and systems have no expectation or guarantee of privacy in any communication sent or received over the Claremont network, or over the Internet.
• The computing and telecommunication systems log many user transactions: such as telephone numbers dialed, call length, Internet sites visited. Claremont reserves the right to gather and monitor this data for cost analysis, resource allocation, optimum technical management of information resources, troubleshooting computer problems or compromises in network security, detecting patterns of use that might indicate unacceptable use of the system, and investigating allegations of unacceptable use.
• Claremont is not responsible for lost or corrupted personal files or data, or for any financial loss as a result of personal information that a user discloses across a network (such as a credit card number).

Some of this content may be objectionable, offensive, inaccurate, or dated. Claremont also does not endorse any content that may be accessible through its computer networks and services.

Reproduction or distribution of copyrighted works, including images, text, and software, without permission of the owner is a violation of U.S. Copyright Law, and is subject to civil damages and criminal penalties.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY AND AFFIRMATIVE ACTION POLICY

Claremont School of Theology is an Equal Employment Opportunity employer and is committed to the principal of Affirmative Action and non-discrimination. It is the University’s policy to provide Equal Employment Opportunity to all employees and applicants in actions of recruitment, selection, training, promotion, transfers, compensation, benefits and all other terms and conditions of employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, national origin, ancestry, age, physical or mental disability, veteran status or any other basis prohibited under law. The President of the University and all administrative, management and supervisory personnel are committed to this policy and its enforcement. Reasonable accommodations will be made for qualified individuals with disabilities, including those with known physical or mental limitations, unless undue hardship to the School would result.

The School makes employment decisions based on individual merit, qualifications and competence in all its human resources actions. It seeks to hire or promote the best candidates for the job and to expand its workforce to include greater numbers of women, members of minority groups, disabled persons and military veterans. The School believes that the applicable laws ensuring equal employment opportunities reinforce this policy of diverse employment.

POLICY ON HARASSMENT, INCLUDING SEXUAL HARASSMENT

The School is committed to providing an educational environment free of unlawful harassment, discrimination, sexual intimidation, hostility, and coercion. Harassing behavior toward others may be offensive, demeaning or disruptive to relationships and constitute a hostile environment. School policy prohibits unwelcome harassment based on race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, national origin, ancestry, age, physical or mental disability, or any other basis protected by federal, state or local law or regulation. A specific kind of violation of individual rights is sexual harassment, which can occur in situations where one person has power over another, but can also occur between equals, Sexual harassment violates the individual’s right to a safe environment.

The anti-harassment policy of the School applies to all persons involved in the operation of the School including faculty, staff, work supervisors, and students. Prohibited harassment includes, but is not limited to, the following behaviors:

- Any unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other unwelcome written, verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature

- Retaliation for having reported or threatened to report harassment.

A student who believes s/he has been harassed or subjected to any form of unlawful discrimination should promptly report the facts of the incident or incidents and the names of the individuals involved to the office of one of the following: Vice President for Academic Affairs and Dean; Vice President for Administration and Finance/CFO; or Associate Dean for Student Life.

DRUG-FREE CAMPUS POLICY (STATEMENT REQUIRED BY 34 CFR PART 86)

Claremont School of Theology is a drug-free campus. The School believes that illegal drug use by any student or employee, whether or not on the campus, is inappropriate and incompatible with the mission and values of its community members. Pursuant to federal law, each student and employee is hereby notified that the unlawful manufacture, distribution, dispersing, possession or use of a controlled substance is prohibited on the Claremont School of Theology campus. Violation of this prohibition may result in the referral of the violator to an appropriate treatment center for drug counseling, rehabilitation, or other assistance, or reporting of the violation to law enforcement authorities for such action as they deem appropriate. Student(s) may be referred to Dean for possible disciplinary action. Federal law requires Claremont School of Theology to provide each student and employee a copy of this statement and that each student and employee agrees to (a) abide by the terms of the statement, and (b) notify the School of any criminal drug statute conviction no later than five days after such conviction. Health Risks Associated with Alcohol-Drug Abuse: Certain health risks are known to be associated with the use of alcohol or controlled substances: (a) There is potential for abuse and (b) abuse of alcohol or controlled substances may lead to physical and/or psychological dependency. For more information concerning the health risks associated with particular drugs or groups of drugs, please refer to Drugs of Abuse, published by the U.S. Department of Justice Drug Enforcement Administration, which is on reserve in the School Library.

STUDENT JUDICIAL PROCESS

Violation of standards of academic responsibility, integrity and truthfulness are subject to separate disciplinary policies.

Claremont School of Theology places high value on, and is diligently committed to, the preservation of academic freedom. The basic significance of this commitment lies in the protection of intellectual freedoms: the rights of professors to teach, of scholars to engage in the advancement of knowledge, and of students to learn and to express their views, free from external pressure or interference. These freedoms can flourish only in an atmosphere of mutual trust, honesty, civility, and respect among teachers and students, and only when members of the community are willing to accept self-restraint and reciprocity as the condition upon which they share in its intellectual autonomy. Academic freedom extends to all who share these aims and responsibilities. They cannot be violated by any who would subordinate intellectual freedom to any cause or ideology, or those who violate the norms of conduct established to protect that freedom. Moreover, willful disruption of the academic process simply cannot be tolerated. The School has a right to defend itself against any intrusions on the rights and privileges of the community of scholars and persons at the School.

- Individuals are liable for failure to comply with lawful directions issued by official representatives of the School acting in their official capacities.
- Theft or damage to the School premises or property, or theft of or damage to property of any person on School premises is prohibited. Permission from appropriate School authorities must be obtained for removal, relocation and use of school equipment, supplies, books, papers and research materials. Also, unauthorized use or examination of confidential records is prohibited.
- Forcible interference with the institution’s educational process or facilities, or the rights of those who wish to avail themselves of any of the institution’s instructional, personal, administrative, recreational, and community services is prohibited. Any sort of abuse, physical, or otherwise, is also prohibited.
- No person may bring or possess firearms or other weapons on the campus.

Any member of the community engaging in any manner of conduct prohibited under Paragraphs 1 to 4 above shall be liable to actions by the School. A copy of the judicial review policy is available from the Office of the Dean.

STUDENT GRIEVANCE POLICY

Claremont School of Theology is committed to treating all students justly and fairly. The School does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, gender, marital status, identity, sexual orientation, national origin, disability, medical condition, or veteran status. To this end, Claremont School of Theology strives to promote and maintain an environment in which students are protected from misconduct by any department or member of the School community.
A student grievance is a complaint arising out of any perceived act or decision by a member of the faculty or staff, or another student at the School, which in any way appears to adversely affect the status, rights, or privileges of any student. Such a grievance must be filed in writing within 30 days of an alleged incident, and the burden of proof rests with person making the complaint.

All conversations and proceedings are strictly confidential and will not be shared with any person or party not involved in or witness to the grievance. The School will not tolerate retaliatory or punitive action against a student who files a grievance.

Grievances Not Covered by This Policy include:
- Grade disputes, academic evaluations disputes, and other matters related to a faculty member’s assigned duties. The process for these disputes is administered the Committee on Academic Procedures (CAP).
- Issues of sexual harassment should be referred to the Affirmative Action and Diversity Officer.

A copy of the student grievance policy is available from the Associate Dean of Student Life.

SERVICES FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Claremont School of Theology is committed to providing educational opportunities and access to persons with disabilities in accordance with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990, the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 504), and applicable local, state and federal antidiscrimination laws.

Request for reasonable accommodations will be considered on an individual basis. Applicants with documented disabilities are encouraged to contact the Director of Admission, as early as possible, in order to alert the institution about disabilities for which they may want to request accommodations. Current students with questions about such accommodations should contact the Associate Dean for Student Life.
COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

Please note: Not all courses are offered on a regular basis, and new courses are always being proposed and approved by faculty and may not be listed here. Students at Claremont School of Theology may also register for courses offered through Claremont Lincoln University (see the Claremont Lincoln University 2011-12 Catalog).

LCT3044/4009 Ministry and the Problem of Evil
This course deals with issues of suffering and evil as they occur in the various forms of ministries, primarily, though not exclusively, from the perspective of process thought. Topics to be discussed include, but are not limited to, what counts as evil, practical ways of responding to evil, and types of theodicies. Readings include works by Stephen Davis, Harold Kushner, Marjorie Suchocki, David Griffin, and Daniel Day Williams.

LCT3081: Theology for Social Justice
This course focuses on constructing theology in concrete social justice contexts through the use of sources from popular culture. This course examines various narratives in fiction, memoir, music and film for how they address theological issues in their particular contexts. This course will highlight the role of social location, theological source and norm in the constructive theology enterprise. Students will develop a contextual theology for a relevant social justice issue using academic tools and popular sources. Prerequisite: At 3000 level, Systematic Theology, Systematic Theology for Ministry or equivalent; otherwise permission of instructor.

LES3046 Religious Diversity: Ethical, Political, and Philosophical Perspectives
Reflection on the diversity of religious and non-religious perspectives characteristic of a multi-cultural society like ours raises perplexing questions: Are all religions equally valid? Can a single set of political institutions accommodate a plurality of divergent (religious) commitments? LTH3036 Systematic Theology

Theology means “God-Talk.” But can we “talk” what must infinitely surpass our understanding? What would we say in the face if multiple possibilities in which people experience this infinite reality we name “God”? How would we think of the multiplicity of answers which were given to these experiences both within a certain tradition and between religions and cultures? Why should we try to express, and why has theology experimentally sought and found, modes of thought to address such questions instead of just being assured of certain experiences, beliefs, and convictions, or by remaining silent? In fact, Christian theology is a “creature” from a multicultural and interreligious milieu, in which it has asked, and still asks, the major questions that Christians in their multiple contexts have faced through time and addressed them by adventurously testing the most influential responses that Christians have given to them. This course will “seek understanding” (fides quærens intellectum) of these questions by exploring the variety of Christian understandings of God, God’s relation to the world, Christ, the Spirit, Trinity, creation, the intercultural and interreligious contexts of the Church, and the quest for God’s kingdom-to-come. The class encourages students to address these topics in relation to contemporary intellectual, cultural, ethical, social, and political issues, as well as its application to practical and ministerial situations.

This second course in the sequence covers all the Epistles of the New Testament, the Acts of the Apostles, selected non-canonical epistles of the apostolic and post-apostolic era, and the Revelation of John. Special attention will be given to the relation between Jesus’ and Paul’s teaching, the Gospels and Paul’s letters, and Paul and the emerging Catholic Church. Emphasis will therefore be put on the appropriation of the apostolic traditions by the next generation of Christians and their dealing with the delayed paraousia.

TEP1040 Church History I (Early and Medieval)
The course on early and medieval church history covers the period from Pentecost to 1500, the eve of the Reformation era. It is a general survey of the expansion of Christianity, the development of its beliefs and practices, the formation of its scriptures, and its alliance with the Byzantine emperors and western European monarchs. The ecclesiastical traditions of the East are contrasted with those of the West in some depth.

TEP1041 Church History II (Reformation and Modern)
Because the reformations of the sixteenth century mark a major change in the history of western Christianity, this course begins with the year 1500 and traces the history of the Lutheran, Calvinist, and Anglican churches in Europe. Catholicism and Orthodoxy receive attention in chronological context, and Christian missions in Asia, Africa, and the Americas are also discussed. The course concludes with the present time. Readings in original sources are stressed.

TEP1042 Spiritual Care and Counseling
This course provides an introduction to the theory and practice of the helping, healing, and reconciling functions of the pastor (lay or ordained, but with special emphasis on the role of priest as pastor). We will survey a broad range of theoretical and practical issues including: biblical, theological and psychological bases for pastoral care; ethical issues in pastoral care and counseling; and social analysis and pastoral care. The integration of biblical and theological reflection with practical skills and psychological methods will be emphasized throughout. The course methods include assigned reading, lecture, discussion, pastoral skills practice, videotaping, and the writing of an integrative paper.

TEP1043 Religious Education
This class is an exploration of philosophical and theological dimensions of religious education with attention to the planning and practice of educational ministry in the local church. The major activities of the course involve studying various ways educators have reflected on religious education, considering key perspectives and issues that shape one’s approach to religious education, and developing strategies for educational ministry for specific congregational contexts.

TEP1044 Greek
Students begin the study of NT Greek by learning its forms, vocabulary and basic grammar. After a few lessons the class will begin reading in the Gospel of Mark. Instruction combines both the classical grammatical method and the inductive approach to learning language.
TEP1046 Latino Spiritualities
This course provides an opportunity for seminarians, lay leaders, and ordained clergy to develop basic skills and knowledge for ministry in Hispanic/Latino communities. Half of the course each week will be focused on Spanish language development for liturgical and pastoral use. The other half of the class will be focused on familiarizing the student with diverse Latino/Latin American cultures, key issues/challenges in Episcopal ministry in Latino communities, and connecting students with resources for Latino ministry in the diocese and the broader Episcopal Church. The course will include: guest speakers, role playing, and short lectures. The course is appropriate for students at every level of Spanish language ability (beginning to intermediate advanced).

TEP1049 Liturgical Praxis
This noncredit course will give students the opportunity to practice the actions and activities needed in designing, preparing for and leading worship.

TEP1050 Anglican History, Theology, Polity and Spirituality I
This course is the first in a two-course sequence covering history and theology of the worldwide Anglican Communion, with specific emphasis on the Episcopal Church. Students will study the major elements of the English Reformation, including the significance of the Reformation period in understanding contemporary Anglicanism. Major theological issues and parties will be examined, including the Evangelical Revival, Oxford Movement and Social Gospel, as well as Colonial Anglicanism and the development of the Episcopal Church up to the Civil War period.

TEP1051 Anglican History, Theology, Polity and Spirituality II
The sequence continues with study of the Episcopal Church from 1865 to the present, including Liberal Catholicism, questions of integration and the place of women in the Church, the development of the Anglican Communion, missiology, ecumenical ecclesiology, and current trends in Anglican theology. The Constitution and Canons of the Episcopal Church will also be examined.

TEP1052 Pastoral Liturgics
In this class students will explore the pastoral issues inherent in liturgical leadership. Included will be discussions of the nature of symbol in worship and Christian life, the role of sacraments in faith formation, and specific topics in worship related to the development and leadership of meaningful worship in our contemporary culture. The role of aesthetics in liturgy will also be addressed. Students taking this class will have the opportunity to develop hands on skills in leading pastoral and sacramental rites within the church.

TEP1053 Liturgics: A Practical Introduction to Episcopal Worship
This course will offer students the opportunity to explore the origins and development of the liturgy with emphasis upon the Eucharist and baptism as the foundational sacraments of the church. Significant emphasis will be placed upon methodologies and strategies for designing Episcopal liturgies in both traditional and innovative formats. In addition, students will learn the basics of how to officiate in worship and the interrelationship of lay, diaconal, and priestly responsibilities with Episcopal worship as framed by the principles of the 1979 Book of Common Prayer.

TEP1054 Preaching: Introduction and Practicum
The aims of this course include grounding the student in the history of oral interpretation of the scriptures, familiarizing the student with the various functions of preaching through Christian history, and introducing the student to the art and craft of preaching as it is practiced in Episcopal parishes today. In addition, the student will be encouraged to begin exploration of his or her preaching voice through a series of exercises and reflections, and to develop greater confidence and imagination as a preacher.

TEP1056 Church Leadership, Administration and Finance
This is a basic course in understanding the nature of leadership and especially the nature of leadership within the context of a church community. A special focus will be placed upon the function of leadership in the process of creating substantive and meaningful transformation in parish systems and in the lives of parishioners. Intentional reflection on leadership issues and images which are found in the Holy Scriptures and their applicability to present-day experience is a regular part of the course design. The course will strike a balance between the theoretical understanding of leadership theories and models and their practical application in a congregational setting.

TEP1057 The Mission and Ministry of the Church
This course will offer students the opportunity to explore a variety of approaches to mission and ministry with special emphasis upon baptismal ministry as the focal point of current models of mission and missiology within the Episcopal Church. The class will discuss the church’s commitment to the Millennium Development Goals and ways in which church leaders can support a model of the Christian life that affirms ministry as active engagement with the world. Discussions of important issues related to multicultural and intercultural ministry, small church and emergent church ministry, and models for mutual ministry and area ministry being utilized within the Episcopal Church will also be critical elements of the course outline.

TEP1058 The Function of Scripture in the New Testament
Scripture is full of itself. It is a trait of Scripture, all of it, to build on prior oral or written traditions. This is true of both testaments, but especially of the second. The course will approach its topic with the understanding that the Christian second testament is a part of Hellenistic Jewish sectarian literature. The ways in which Scripture functioned in such literature will be explored. The work of the course may be called "comparative midrash." Where pertinent we will compare how First Testament traditions functioned in the Jewish literature of the time to see more clearly how early Christians argued their case for belief in what they believed God was doing in their time through Jesus and in the Early Church. In consideration of time restraints the focus of the course will be on the function of the Scripture (early Greek translations of the Hebrew Bible) in the work of Luke.
