TDS300 United Methodist Doctrine
This course examines the foundations of United Methodist theology. Students will explore theological emphases of the early Wesleyan movement and major theological transitions in the 19th and 20th centuries. This course is designed to meet the United Methodist Church's ordination requirements for a course in UMC doctrine.

TDS3001 United Methodist History
This course explores the history of the United Methodist Church with an emphasis on the historical, theological, and contextual factors that shape its organizational structure, worship, and attitudes toward social issues. This course is designed to meet the United Methodist Church's ordination requirements for a course in UMC History.

TDS3002 United Methodist Polity
This course examines the missional priorities, ecclesiological forms, structure, and governance of the United Methodist Church that undergird its effort to 'make disciples of Jesus Christ for the transformation of the world'. Students will explore the church's doctrinal statements as well as its understanding of ordination, conferencing, superintendency, and the local church. This course is designed to meet the United Methodist Church's ordination requirements for a course in UMC Polity.

TDS3039 Christian Evangelism
This course examines theological, biblical, and historical foundations for evangelism. Current practices and models of evangelism are analyzed and critiqued. Students will develop and articulate a theology and practice of evangelism appropriate for a community of faith. This course is designed to meet denominational requirements for an evangelism course, including that of the United Methodist Church.

TNT3066/4066 The Gospels: Developing Critical Approaches and Perspectives
This course is a condensed exploration of the four canonical gospels of New Testament from a variety of interpretive perspectives, including historical-critical, postcolonial, and feminist criticisms among others. Utilizing a combination of online modules, weekly podcasts, and multimedia content, this course will introduce and cultivate critical readings of the gospels that attend to their contextual, social, and theological implications. By engaging a variety of perspectives on the gospels, this course encourages generating new interpretive questions and frameworks for the gospels. To investigate a representative range of approaches, this course engages each gospel in turn in tandem with topics/issues that pervade all four gospels.

TPS3063/4063 Process Theology Intensive
The 2021 Process Summer Intensive (TPS3063/4063) is a 1-week exploration (via live Zoom sessions) that includes three different adventures in process theology. The first segment (taught by Dr. Andrew Davis) explores the philosophical foundations of process thinking. The second segment (taught by Dr. Karen Baker-Fletcher) explores the key contributions of process theology to particular theological and religious issues. The third segment (taught by Dr. Jon Gill) explores implications of process theology to art, social justice movements, and efforts of liberation. The course will meet three times per day (9-11, 1-3, and 4-6 Pacific Time) from July 6-10.

TSC3026/4026 Moral Injury, Spiritual Care Implications, and Pathways to Recovery
This course introduces students to moral injury as a recent addition to the psychospiritual trauma domain. Moral injury derives from decisions or actions made in combat that betrays a person’s understanding of the differences between right and wrong. Further, when differentiated from post-traumatic stress, moral injury arises from traumatic stress that is more shame than fear based. We will predominately study moral injury in the context of combat, but these stressors are not limited to warfare, but are prevalent in many of life’s circumstances (e.g., healthcare or law enforcement to name two). We will explore the history of the phenomenon, experiences that (could) lead to moral injury, the role of community, a theologically-grounded understanding of the person in its social context, and a more complex theological/moral ways of understanding moral conflicts, stress, and injury. This course will highlight the spiritual care of moral injury by proposing and creating spiritual practices and theological meaning-making to identify trouble narratives and ways of coping with moral stress and injury. The enacted spiritual care practices assist in cultivating compassion, community involvement, and emphasize a liberative God suffering with the community.

This course is designed to meet the needs of (1) chaplains in CST’s Interfaith Chaplaincy MDiv, (2) religious leaders in the MDiv program, (3) those preparing for the specialized vocation of spiritual care, and (4) PhD students studying practical theology using religious, psychological, and theological studies.
